PRINCE IN WAITING

Prince Rainier III of Monaco loosens his collar with the typical air of an expectant father at a news conference at palace in Monte Carlo. His princess, the former actress Grace Kelly, is expecting their first child next week. Rainier said he and Grace have selected name Gregoire Georges Pierre Richard for a boy, and Caroline Louise Marguerite, if child is a girl.—(AP wirephoto via radio from Paris)

GRACE KELLY BABY SWEEP

Monaco Gamblers On Diaper Derby

MONACO (UP)—Making book on Princess Grace's expected baby today has become the favorite pastime of the Monte Carlo gambling crowd.

Odds are on a boy, with next Friday the most heavily-played date for his arrival.

The roulette wheels and the gaming tables at the Casino have been virtually deserted for the "maternity sweepstakes."

Books on gynecology and heredity have replaced number systems as the prime source of reference for the men and women willing to "go for broke" on the turn of a card or the spin of a wheel.

Physicians have taken over from mathematicians as the favorite drinking companions of the betting set.

The croupiers in the plush old Casino were fretting away their time at the almost empty gambling tables. But the Casino's bar was jammed with "experts" and admitted amateurs placing bets on the impending birth.

Prince Rainier is said to expect the arrival of his heir—or heiress—any time between Sunday and Friday. But most of the betting was on the later date.

CAN GUNS FIRE?

Two retired British artillery officers offered to bet anyone the two old French .47-mm "batteries" of the Monaco Army would not be able to fire the 101-gun salute to herald the birth of a boy.

With "D" (for delivery) day drawing near, Monacans displayed more interest and began pulling from mothballs the flags and decorations they used during the wedding last year.

There was some talk of organizing street dances—if the birth takes place at a "decent" time of day. Some bars announced they will remain open around the clock when the announcement comes that Grace has begun her labor pains.

OTTAWA (CP) — Financing of the $375,000,000 natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada now appears solid, Trade Minister Howe said Friday night after an interview with President N. E. Tanner of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Hungarians Executed

VIENNA (UP)—The two top leaders of the Hungarian rebellion were executed today. Budapest radio announced Jozsef Dundas, former chairman of the all-Hungary revolutionary council and Janos Szabo, his right-hand man, were put to death after a six-day trial.

EOKA Leader Killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British troops Friday night ambushed and killed Markos Drakos, the man generally believed to be second in command to EOKA leader Col. George Crivas.

UN Gives Israel 5 Days To Get Army Out of Gaza

U.S. CAN DROP BOMB ANYWHERE

Global Flight Warning to Russ

WASHINGTON (UP) — More global demonstrations of U.S. air-atomic power can be expected to follow the historic round-the-world flight of B-52 jet bombers capable of carrying a hydrogen bomb, military authorities said today.

They saw the first nonstop jet circuit of the earth as one in a series of manoevures that will make their significance felt in the Kremlin and will buoy up Allied confidence in American power to deter war.

Three of the huge B-52 Stratoforts winged into March air force base, Calif., Friday, to complete a 24-325-mile flight that took just 45 hours 19 minutes at an average speed of more than 525 miles an hour. They simulated a bomb drop halfway through the mission—about 50 miles west of the Malay Peninsula.

The "bomb" could have been dropped anywhere "on the face of the earth," the Strategic Air Command pointed out.

SAC is slated to get 11 B-52 wings, each with 45 bombers.

Within a single day such a force could fly missions of 12,000 miles and deliver on distant targets nuclear weapons with the destructive power of billions of tons of TNT.

President Eisenhower put such air-atomic forces to deter aggression at the top of U.S. defence missions in the new budget just sent to Congress.

ROUTINE MANOEUVRE

The B-52 operation was carried out as a regular combat-type maneouvre. It was routine—though dramatic—training for SAC crews.

Along the B-52s' global path there probably were 1,000 air bases where tankers could be stationed in wartime, an almost impossible target array for an enemy. The Strategic Air Command conducts an average of one air refueling somewhere in the world every 3½ minutes around the clock.

CANADA ASKS NUCLEAR TEST REGISTRATION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) —Canada, Norway and Japan want the big atomic powers to consider establishing a system of registering nuclear test explosions with the United Nations. The idea is to keep an eye on radiation dangers.

The three submitted a resolution to that effect Friday for introduction in the UN General Assembly's political committee, which is resuming Monday a debate on disarmament.

HANNA CASE BEFORE UN

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Nations has taken up the case of Christian George Hanna, man without a country.

The Vancouver Province says in a copyright story this information was contained in a letter received here from John P. Humphrey, director of the UN division of human rights.

UN action in the case of the 23-year-old stowaway, who is trying to establish domicile in Canada after 15 months on the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, would mark perhaps the first time that the international organization has taken up the cause of an individual stateless person.

ERRINGTON — Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Weibe and their seven children Friday while the family was away. Cause of the blaze was not known.

It's snowing outside, but within this greenhouse tropical plants are blooming in 70-degree temperature. Above, like a little butterfly, Lynne, 22 months, ducks her head into some fragrant African Violets, held by her father, Archie Bain, Livesey Road bulb-grower who has turned his talents to growing 100 varieties of plants brought mainly from the West Indies. Assembly Backs Resolution 74-2

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The UN General Assembly today voted 74-2 with two absentions for a resolution calling on Israel again to get all its troops out of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

It called for a compliance report within five days.

The overwhelming vote came despite a final plea from Israeli ambassador Abba S. Eban for the General Assembly not to permit the situation in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip to return to the "status quo" that existed before the Israli invasion of Egypt.

WARNING

He warned that for Israel to withdraw its troops from those areas without "simultaneous related action" by the United Nations would be to permit a return to a "state of belligerency."

The Netherlands, France, Costa Rica, Belgium, Ireland and Australia criticized the resolution for not recognizing the extent Israel already has withdrawn from Egypt.

Several speakers stressed that some assurances should be given that Israel would be permitted free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban voiced doubt that the secretary-general would have anything substantial to report about Israeli withdrawal within five days.

Israel and France voted against the resolution. Costa Rica and Cuba abstained.

The Netherlands ambassador, M. C. W. A. Schurmann, told the General Assembly earlier that "disaster" faces the Middle East and the United Nations if the world body does not assume responsibility for such as the Aqaba and Gaza problems.

"It would be nothing short of disastrous for the United Nations and the peoples of the Middle East if the United Nations should leave unfinished the task it has undertaken," he said.

British ambassador Allan Nobel suggested the "internationalization" under UN control of the crucial zones.

"IMPERATIVE"

He said it is "imperative" the UNEF be deployed as a "shield" between Israel and Egypt to prevent a "recurrence of attacks."

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, hinted strongly India might withdraw its contingent from the UN police troops if they were sent into the areas.

External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson outlined Canada's position when he said there is no excuse for the United Nations to avoid "a responsibility which is inescapable." The UN Emergency Force should be stationed on all Israel-Arab borders, and in the Gaza Strip, to help "ensure the security of the nations concerned which is so vital if they are to approach with the necessary confidence negotiations toward a comprehensive solution of their conflicts."

Before today's UN vote France branded as unjust and unfair any demand that Israel withdraw her forces completely from Egypt without assurances that Egypt also will comply.

RAIN COMING

Snow Won't Last

Snow that fell generally over the Greater Victoria area today is expected to turn to rain Sunday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"Our snow today actually was mixed with rain," he said. "The temperature was mild — 35 degrees—and it will only take a one-degree rise to turn it wholly into rain."

Despite the comparatively mild temperature and moisture of the snow, most of Greater Victoria lay under a mantle of white by press time.

Only in the city did it have trouble at first in staying. Farther out the countryside began turning white by 11 a.m.

GOING UP-ISLAND

Mr. Mackie said the snowstorm will continue to spread up-Island. It had already reached Duncan by noon.

Victoria's snow marked the end — temporarily — of the "banana belt" the city and district have enjoyed in the last two weeks.

Until today up-Island travelers have found that once they drove north of Goldstream they moved into a diffeernt country, where snow is general everywhere but on the roads.

Moving south again, the change from a white countryside to the green of Victoria district has been even more pronounced.

4 INCHES AT DUNCAN

Duncan reported four inches of snow on the ground, Chemainus six inches, and Nanaimo four inches, although Cassidy airport has recorded 10 inches on the ground.

Courtenay is worst off of all Island centres with 15 inches of snow remaining from the heavy fall of 10 days ago that interrupted telephone and electrical power service in the district for several days.

All roads were reported clear.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, grant us to believe that today is the best day of our life. All our yesterdays are gone forever, and no tomorrow has yet come except as we foretell its coming by what we do today. May we live all the days of our lives; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Thousands Pour Into Washington For Ike's Inauguration Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mighty throng poured into Washington today to join in celebrating the second inauguration of President Eisenhower.

An estimated 750,000 persons are expected to witness or take part in many events planned for the next four days. But the over-all attendance wasn't expected to be as big as in 1953 when Eisenhower entered the White House and the Republicans resumed government power after 20 years.

The high point will be the public oath-taking by Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon in front of the Capitol Building Monday. Then will come the traditional inaugural parade from the Capitol to the White House, and four glittering inaugural balls that night.

Things get going in earnest today with receptions by various Republican and other groups, and an inaugural festival tonight featuring big names in the entertainment world.

The weather bureau said it expects colder than normal weather Monday, with a chance of rain or snow late in the day.

GOOSE ALMOST COOKED; BUT NOT SO TURKEY.

DUNCAN (CP)—The excitement of watching final games in the women's curling playoffs here almost "cooked the goose" of the sumptuous banquet Duncan ladies were preparing for their out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Don Gibson, delegated to roast one of the 19-pound turkeys for the 5 p.m. dinner, suddenly remembered 15 minutes before the hour that she had not even put the bird in the oven. She had been too busy rooting for a host club rink.

All ended happily when a large, pre-cooked ham was hurriedly purchased to replace the turkey.

3,000 Friends, Music Lovers Attend Mass for 'The Maestro'

NEW YORK (AP) — Three thousand friends and music lovers attended a pontifical requiem mass for Arturo Toscanini today in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The world-famed conductor died Wednesday in his New York home at 89. He had suffered a stroke New Year's Day.

The maestro's body reposed in a solid copper casket.

The Most Rev. Joseph M. Pernicone, Italian-born auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of New York, sang the mass.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, presided in the sanctuary and sang the absolution.

Honorary pall bearers included Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Manlio Brosio, Italian ambassador to the United States. They led the procession in the cathedral.

Among the mourners were many persons prominent in the world of music.

They included Fritz Kreisler, violinist; Leonard Bernstein, conductor and pianist, and Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan Opera singer.

Some 5,000 filed past Toscanini's bier Friday at the funeral home where his body has lain in state since Thursday.

Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston symphony, said he had known Toscanini for about 30 years and called him "the greatest of the great."

Mourners appeared at the flower-banked funeral chapel singly or in small groups. Pausing before the bier, some kneeled and said short prayers for the musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations.

Toscanini will be buried in a family chapel in Milan, Italy.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Gas Blast Hurls Three From Store

VANCOUVER (CP)—Natural gas ignited in a dry cleaning store here late Friday, causing an explosion that flung three people out on to the sidewalk, painfully burned.

The explosion wrecked Mac's Cleaning Store on Main Street, rocking next-door shops and touching off a fire.

There was no official estimate of damage.

Fire department officials said they believe the blast was caused by the combination of a lighted match and a leaky gas main.

Mrs. Florence Dubno, 46-year-old proprietress of the shop, was busy at her steam presser, which is powered by natural gas. There were two customers in the shop—William Clayton, 32, and Robert Hamilton, 27.

The two men were blown to the sidewalk suffering from second and third-degree burns. Mrs. Dubno was blown beyond the doorway. She suffered second-degree burns to her face, an arm and leg.

ERRINGTON—The six-room frame house of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Weibe was destroyed by fire Friday while the family was away for the day. Sea Wanderer's 'Last Chance' Hearing Monday

Authorities Order Hanna's Deportation

VANCOUVER (CP) — An immigration officer Friday ordered the deportation of Christian George Hanna, 23-year-old itinerant stowaway with no place to go.

Counsel for the small, dark-skinned exile, who until Thursday had not set foot on land in 15 months, immediately filed notice of appeal.

The appeal is expected to be heard Monday. It will be conducted by Immigration Minister Pickersgill personally or, if he decides, by a three-man board sitting in Vancouver. The board would be appointed by Ottawa and its decision would automatically be reviewed by the immigration minister, counsel for the department said.

In the meantime, Hanna, who was removed from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig at Port Alberni by Donald White, a young Vancouver lawyer who espoused his cause, is being held in custody at the immigration building here.

The deportation order was made by Frank Wragg, special inquiry officer, who acted as a one-man board set up by the department to hear Hanna's application for domicile.

Hanna, who says he was born at sea, has no passport or citizenship papers of any kind. He stowed away on the Gudveig 15 months ago at Beirut, Lebanon, and since then has been turned away by at least six countries.

CLOSED INQUIRY

The closed board of inquiry lasted 2½ hours. It was ordered by Ottawa on application of Hanna's counsel.

The hearing followed one in Supreme Court chambers earlier Friday at which Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne refused to grant Hanna a writ of habeas corpus.

The jurist ordered a sheriff's officer to take custody of Hanna and see that he was returned to the ship, scheduled to leave Port Alberni Monday. The sheriff's officer turned Hanna over to immigration authorities after it was announced an inquiry would be held.

One of those in attendance at the hearing reported Hanna, whose native tongue is Somali but who speaks some English, traced his life history.

He said his mother was French Somali and his father Liberian. She died when he was six years old. He never saw his father and does not know whether he is living. He has no other known family connections.

FAST ACTION VITAL

Most of his life, he said, has been spent wandering around French Somaliland, British Somaliland, Ethiopia and other countries of East Africa. When he was 21 he stowed away at Berbera, British Somaliland, aboard an Italian freighter bound for Beirut. Forced to leave Beirut because he had no papers, he hid in a lifeboat of the Gudveig, which became his home and exile for 15 months.

Immigration department counsel Arthur MacLennan said today it is likely that Mr. Pickersgill will refer the appeal to a three-man board rather than hear it himself.

He said a "very serious problem" will arise if the ship sails before Hanna's appeal is disposed of, should the decision go against him.

The shipping firm would then become liable for Hanna's upkeep, and responsible for getting him aboard another vessel, Mr. MacLennan said.

SERVED MINORS, FINED

VANCOUVER—A beer parlor waiter was fined $300 here Friday after he was convicted of serving beer to three minor girls, one of whom showed an older sister's birth certificate.

EASTBOURNE DEATHS

Post-Mortem Asked Before Patient Died

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (Reuters) — A coroner testified Friday that Dr. John Bodkin Adams, accused by the Crown of poisoning three patients, tried to arrange for a post-mortem while one was still alive.

The coroner, Angus C. Sommerville, said the doctor wanted him to arrange a post-mortem for 50-year-old Mrs. Gertrude Hullett the day before she died.

He said Adams told him he was not certain of what Mrs. Hullett was going to die from and he wished to have a private post-mortem examination.

Asked by the Crown counsel whether it was usual to have a private post-mortem, the coroner replied: "Never." Nor, he added, had he ever been asked to arrange a post-mortem before a patient's death.

Adams is specifically charged with the murder of 88-year-old Edith Morrell, a widow who died in 1950. But in the course of a preliminary hearing to determine whether he will face trial on the murder charge, the Crown also has accused him of being responsible for the deaths of Mrs. Hullett last July and of her husband, Alfred Hullett, 71, who died four months earlier.

The plump society doctor is accused of poisoning his patients because he thought he would benefit from their wills.

DECLARED SUICIDE

So far, 37 witnesses have been called by the Crown. The hearings are expected to last into next week.

Friday, evidence revolved around the death of Mrs. Hullett, originally declared a suicide at an inquest.

Adams allegedly wrote to the coroner that she died after losing "the will to live" after the death of her "adoring and rich husband."

SPRINGHILL DISASTER

Draegermen Reach Mine Victims' Bodies

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—A draegerman said early today the bodies of 24 miners who died in the depths of the Cumberland Coal Company's No. 4 colliery have been found. He added: "We have a good idea where the other two are."

The unidentified man said several of the bodies could be brought out immediately but the crews are first attempting the clear the mine of gas and rockfalls. This is expected to take another day. The mine, sealed off after the disastrous explosion Nov. 1 which killed 39 miners, was reopened Friday. Draegermen fought through a rockfall to reach the bodies of the 26 men left underground.

The bodies will be placed in steel caskets and taken to the town armory to be claimed by relatives for burial.

A widow said she will only be allowed to bring the body of her husband home for two hours "for fear of disease."

Townsfolk, tense at the prospect of the mine re-opening, with its danger of another explosion, received several slight scares Friday. A truck skidded into the side of a jewelry store, doing little damage but upsetting the occupants, who thought it might have been another mine blast.

An ambulance roared to All Saints Hospital but worried citizens, afraid gas might have overcome a miner, were relieved to find he only had collapsed from strain and exhaustion.

Wanted Bank Teller Picked Up by Police

TORONTO (CP)—A routine check of a car bearing Manitoba licence plates led to the arrest early Friday of William Aitken, 18-year-old bank teller, for theft.

Aitken had been the object of a widespread search since the disappearance of $7,051 from a mid-town branch of the Imperial Bank 10 days ago.

New Royal Bank branch, Douglas and Pandora, will open Monday.

Treasure in Cash, Securities Moved to New Royal Bank Building

An undisclosed treasure in cash and securities was moved Friday night from the Royal Bank locaton across from City Hall to new premises, also across from City Hall, a hop-skip-and-jump south, to 1502 Douglas.

The spanking new bank premises are separated from the old location only by a bake shop and a cigar store. Site is where the old B.C. Electric building was situated before the BCE moved to its big premises at Pandora and Blanshard.

Construction of the $300,000 Royal Bank structure started 14 months ago; architectural supervisors were Wade, Stockdill and Armour, from Montreal plans, and actual builders, Farmer Construction Ltd.

MOVE MONDAY

The 35-member staff moves Monday. There will be no changes in personnel.

It will be a shift, but not really, for old-time bank workers. Since 1912 the Royal has been in the area, only a few yards removed. The new switch is in keeping with the pattern: a Royal branch in the immediate vicinity.

Reason for the move?

Bank needs larger quarters to handle increased customers.

The Douglas Street branch serves many downtown firms—and the largest percentage of Chinese depositors of any city bank.

HOW MUCH?

Banks being a business, manager Reginald R. Wilde refused to state how much money was transferred, or the number of depositors, or the number of Chinese customers.

"Can't tell the competition what we are doing," he said.

He's been with the Royal since 1926 and manager here since 1950. His banking career includes spells in Vancouver, Kamloops, Quesnel, Montreal.

Planning for the new building dates back to 1951.

The old building will be taken over by another bank, the Commerce, which is currently situated just across Cormorant St. at the Douglas St. intersection.

Official opening will be Monday, at five minutes to 10 a.m. Then Mayor Percy Scurrah will cut a ribbon across the door. Among officials on hand will be A. F. McAlpine, supervisor of Royal Bank branches in B.C., and J. S. Cooke, bank premises officer for the province.

Tories, CCF Support Culture Legislation

(From Times News Services)

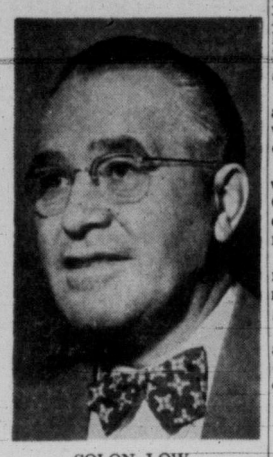
The government's plan for pumping public money into the nation's cultural blood stream was supported—with reservations—Friday by Conservative and CCF spokesmen but was rebuffed by Social Credit leader Solon Low.

"You cannot buy culture . . . you cannot get it through the expenditure of money alone," Mr. Low told the House.

He reserved judgement on the government's legislation to establish a Canada Council to handle a $100,000,000 aid-to-culture program. He agreed with the proposal to help university building programs but said he is against setting up the council when money is needed by poverty-stricken Canadians.

The government's proposal got full support from CCF Leader Coldwell. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker endorsed it, too, but had reservations about government plans for the council's operation.

The House spent most of the day considering a resolution introduced by Prime Minister St. Laurent preliminary to a bill to create the council.



SOLON LOW
. . . "cannot buy culture"

Would Cover Only Half the Cost

It would be granted $50,000,000 in federal funds as an endowment to earn money for bursaries, scholarships and the like to advance the arts, humanities and social sciences, and another $50,000,000 for university construction.

Mr. St. Laurent let it be known for the first time, however, that the $50,000,000 intended to help universities expand buildings and equipment over the next 10 years will be available only to cover half the cost of approved programs.

He also disclosed that capital grants to universities would go only towards projects for the advancement of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

Have First Claim

Mr. Low said old age pensioners and veterans forced to live below the borderline of poverty have a prior claim to consideration. Money also was needed to find a cancer cure.

"I am going to hang my head in shame if we say to the people of this country that we cannot afford to do these things but we can afford to put up $100,000,000 for the purpose of bringing culture to you people."

Mr. St. Laurent said there will be no "consideration of partisan politics" in selecting council members. Mr. Diefenbaker said, however, that this does not appear entirely so if reports are true that the council will be headed by Hon. Brooke Claxton, former Liberal defence minister and now president of an insurance company.

Not Massey Plan

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government's plans for the council represent a disavowal of recommendations of the Massey commission in 1951. There was no indication the council would be a national body dealing with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

He said the $50,000,000 endowment, if invested at the usual 3½ per cent return, would provide only $1,750,000 annually—not enough to meet the needs of students.

Mr. Coldwell's only criticism was that the government action didn't come a couple of years sooner.

Bigger Problem

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) said he doubts that anyone could disagree with the idea behind the government proposal. But if it was right to make federal grants to universities, "why is it not right for the federal government to make provision" for the greater and more pressing need for buildings and equipment in primary schools

He said the answer is that the whole educational problem is tied up in the issue of federal-provincial fiscal relations which the federal government had not solved.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) has launched debate on two labor bills he sponsored. One would require two weeks' holidays with pay after a year's employment. The other would guarantee eight statutory holidays with pay each year. Both measures would apply only to the 400,000-odd workers under federal labor jurisdiction.

Social Credit leader Low said Friday that suspected Canadian Communists who have left the country now hold top jobs in the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. He didn't name any.

He urged that the government exercise care in appointing members to the Canada Council.

Mr. Low said the purpose of UNESCO was praiseworthy. "But . . . men and women of dishonesty of purpose got hold of it and they have made use of it as an instrument of subversion and brainwashing. Some of the people who escaped from this country who were suspected in the field of communism found their way into UNESCO and were given places of importance and authority . . ."

R. R. Knight (CCF/Saskatoon) said UNESCO is not the "bogey" Mr. Low seems to think it is.

Social Crediters "seem to be constantly worrying that they will find things under the bed, and they are always looking for them."

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

Question: "What kind of a summer do you think Victoria will have, weather-wise?"

Mrs. J. W. English, 3111 Rutledge: "I think it'll be very nice—something like last summer. We've had such a cold winter we deserve a mild summer."

English Paterson

David Paterson, Vancouver: "I think it will be very fine—rainy, but fine. Actually I prefer Vancouver weather—not as wet and not as windy."

Chuck Flater, counter salesman, 1131 Burdette: "I hope it's good. I've just been here four months. People say the weather is usually quite fair in summer."

Flater Urton

Don Urton, merchant, Chemainus: "It's always pretty nice down here. I imagine it should be the same again this summer. Of course, it won't be anything like the weather we'll have in Chemainus."

Miss Dorothy Little, 2220 Arbutus Road: "We're going to have nice weather this summer. We've had a lovely winter and I predict the good weather will continue right into the summer."

Little Kruger

Sharon Kruger, 921 Jasmine: "I think we should have a fairly good summer. The weather last summer was just right. I hope we have more of the same."

RCAF CUTS MIDDLE EAST CONTINGENT

RCN Carrier Also Coming Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is reducing its contingent to the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Air force headquarters announced Friday night eight of the 12 Flying Boxcars used to ferry UN troops to Egypt from Italy are returning to their home base at Namao, Alta. Five have already returned and three are expected.

Four C-119 Flying Boxcars and some 200 RCAF personnel will remain at Capodichino just outside Naples.

The RCAF also announced it will base four single-engine Otter aircraft and two twin-engine Dakotas at Abu Suweir near the Suez Canal.

They will be used for reconnaissance and short-range communications flights among UN ground units.

The planes later will be based at El 'Arish on the Mediterranean coast about 35 miles west of the Israel-Egypt border.

CREWS EGYPT-BOUND

About 35 RCAF personnel to operate the four Otters and two Dakotas have left Canada for Egypt. They will be joined by 50 airmen from Capodichino.

There now are some 850 Canadian soldiers in Egypt, most of them at Abu Suweir. They are providing administrative support for the 5,500-man UN force commanded by Maj.Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Ottawa.

The navy said the Magnificent will leave Port Said Sunday for Scotland.

The carrier will stop at Glasgow to pick up Canadian Mark V Sabre jets.

The Maggie, in Port Said since Jan. 11 when it delivered 600 Canadian troops and airmen and military equipment to UNEF, will stop at Naples for a four-day visit before going to Glasgow.

She will leave Glasgow Feb. 2 and is expected at Halifax Feb. 15.

The Pope made his prayer after an audience held for British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. It was the first audience with full Vatican ceremonials for a British foreign secretary since the Second World War.

First 'Free' Vote For Poles Sunday

WARSAW (AP) — A big voter turnout—perhaps 90 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots—is indicated for Sunday's election of Poland's new parliament.

This time, however, the Communist victory is not expected to be so resounding as in past years. The Communists' handpicked National Front candidates won 99.97 per cent of the vote in the last parliamentary election in 1952. No other candidates were on the ballot.

Sunday, for the first time since Poland came under Communist rule, the voters have a limited freedom of choice. They can strike out the names of candidates they do not want to represent them. The majority of candidates are pledged to back the regime. Qualified observers said perhaps 60 per cent of those expected to cast ballots were prepared to "vote the list."

Observers in the West expressed concern that the election could touch off a wave of anti-Russian reaction in Poland—and bring down on the country the same repression used to put down the freedom movement in Hungary.

Moscow radio warned on the eve of the election that "force inimical to the system of popular democracy have become unprecedentedly active" in Poland.

Arabs Offer Jordan Money To End U.K. Defence Pact

By ANTOINE YARED

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia agreed today to provide £12,500,000 in Arab aid annually to Jordan to replace a Britsh subsidy. Jordan wants the money in hand before ending its mutual defence pact with Britain.

The 10-year agreement was viewed here as an Egyptian-spurred effort to dampen President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine. It was signed by Egyptian President Nasser, King Hussein of Jordan, King Saud of Saudi Arabia and Premier Sabri Assali of Syria after two days of talks.

Shortly after the signing King Saud flew toward Italy to take a ship for the United States for talks with President Eisenhower, beginning January 30.

Abdullah Rimawi, Jordon's minister of state for foreign affairs, has emphasized that Jordan will negotiate with Britain to terminate the 1948 20-year mutual aid treaty on a friendly basis rather than abrogate it unilaterally.

TO CUT TIES

Under the new pact the other three Arab states will replace the £12,000,000 British subsdy. Egypt and Saudi Arabia each will give £5,000,000 and Syria £2,500,000.

The British aid was instituted to support Jordan's Arab Legion, now called the Jordan National Army. In return the British received use of air and land bases in Jordan.

Jordan's Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, who also participated in the talks here, had told his parliament his government will take steps to cut its close ties with Britain as soon as the Arab aid is provided.

In Amman, Jordan's capital, informed sources said Egypt also had offered to supply Jordan's army with all the military equipment it needs.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said the new pact will be known as the Arab Co-operation Agreement. The agency said part of the payment will be made in hard currency (dollars or gold) and that the pact will be considered renewable after 10 years unless one of the signers gives notice a year in advance of intentions to abrogate.

Egyptian leaders have feared the Eisenhower doctrine might work to isolate Egypt through United States co-operation with Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon. They feared Washington might offer King Saud enough financial support for him to aid Jordan alone. This attitude was given as the reason for Egypt's eagerness to get the Arab pact signed before King Saud went to Washington.

Mr. Howe Rams It Through

FOR THE PRESENT, BUT only for the present, Trans Canada Pipe Lines will not export Alberta gas to the midwestern states, via Emerson, Manitoba.

Asked in Parliament why the proposed branch of the Trans Canada pipe line to the United States had been abandoned, and whether this meant a basic change in policy, Mr. Howe replied with studied equivocation as follows: "The decision not to build a line to Emerson at this time has no meaning except that they are not planning to build that line at this moment."

The line to Emerson will be built as soon as Trans Canada Pipe Lines is assured of a market in the United States. It is not assured of that market now solely because the Federal Power Commission at Washington has not authorized gas imports from Canada. And it has not authorized imports because the prospective importers—a group of giant American gas companies—are quarreling among themselves about a division of this gas.

But probably the quarrel will not last long. The importers are getting together, just as the news columns of The Times forecast some time ago.

Mr. Howe's only comment on this report was that it lacked any foundation in fact. Of course it was true. Spokesmen of the American gas companies confirmed it immediately and confirmed it again a few days ago. If they reach agreement on the distribution of Canadian gas no doubt the Federal Power Commission will issue an import permit without delay and then the Emerson branch line will be built by Trans Canada.

It is not for Canada to say how our gas shall be distributed once it crosses the border. That is solely the United States' business. But the price to be paid for our gas at the border is certainly our business and the Canadian Government has bungled it.

With government approval, Trans Canada has agreed to accept 25.8 cents per thousand cubic feet when it could have secured at least 30 cents and probably much more—a huge sum of American dollars that we have foolishly and unnecessarily lost.

Having refused to alter Trans Canada's unsatisfactory deal with the American importers, Mr. Howe says the national pipeline from Alberta to Toronto should reach Winnipeg next autumn, a year late. Trans Canada will repay its loan of $80 millions to the Federal Government on the contractual date and apparently will soon have financed all its needs for the remainder of the project.

This is not surprising when the Federal and Ontario Governments are subsidizing the section north of the Great Lakes to the amount of about $130 millions. The whole scheme is deplorable in its present form but Mr. Howe is ramming it through a Parliament which obviously does not understand it.

Mr. Bennett Is Right

MR. BENNETT IS QUITE RIGHT, we believe, when he says that in a hungry world Canada has no right to reduce the output of food on its fertile prairies.

The Premier was attacking certain recommendations in the report of the Gordon Commission. This document suggests that the Federal Government place quota restrictions on the production of grain to discourage surpluses, though the Commission does not think we should permanently reduce our present wheat acreage. It also urges the Government to abandon, for ten years anyway, any thought of new irrigation projects which would increase our total farm output when we cannot easily sell all the grain now on hand.

To Mr. Bennett this is evidently a form of economic madness and, in addition, bad international morals. In his view we should produce all the food we can and arrange somehow to let the hungry peoples have it.

Mr. Bennett's opinion does him credit. But if it is both good morals and good economics to use the prairie earth to increase the world's wealth and decrease its hunger, the difficulty of marketing grain still remains and it is a stubborn difficulty indeed.

Social Credit pretends to have a scheme which will market nearly everything simply by handing out more money to the consumers. Even if this would work for certain domestic products, at the cost of a wild inflation, it would not work in the case of exported grain. At least it would not work unless we were prepared to give money away to foreign peoples or to give them the grain directly and avoid the cost of bookkeeping.

There is something to be said for giving away surplus grain, as the United States is doing (with various disguises) today. It should be realized, however, that this is only a give-away, an act of charity or convenience, and must be charged directly to the national taxpayers.

The United States, with its huge resources, can afford such charity which is highly convenient in farm politics. Canada could not afford to go far in this direction.

Besides, the act of giving away grain demoralizes the world grain markets on which the whole prairie economy depends. That, of course, is Canada's complaint against the present policies of the United States.

If Mr. Bennett has an answer to this riddle we hope he will explain it to the Canadian people.

As Our Readers See It

Protect the Park

The news today (Jan. 17) reported a resolution passed by a local service club. Lacking acquaintance with this organization I would like to commend it through your columns for protesting a proposal by the parks committee of the City Council that would seek to change the law under which they administer Beacon Hill Park.

The purpose of the proposed change apparently is to permit commercial enterprise to operate in this park, thereby reducing the already limited space available for athletic recreation.

The city fathers would be well advised to honor the intent of the trust deed from the Sir James Douglas estate and maintain the status established when this park was given into the care of the city for the free use of the people.

Have we no eye to the future, when there will be need for more park space, not less?

How far can we go with materialistic "progress"!

Thank you. Post No. 1, Native Sons of British Columbia.

Enjoy a Good Cry?

When Mr. Bayliss finds copies of the public school readers used in 1910-17 in B.C., I wish he would join the search for some of the old olive-green backed public school readers of Ontario.

One wonders why educators placed such "blues" in the hands of children.

My memory cannot recall one bright episode but I still feel the flow of warm tears while reading:

"The Babes in the Wood" or "The Poor Little Match Girl", or "The Burial of Sir John Moore", or "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck", or "It Was the Schooner Hesperus That Sailed the Wintry Sea", or "Oft Have I Heard of Lucy Grey", or "Leave Me Comrades, Here I Drop", or "I'm To Be Queen of the May", etc., etc.

It's a wonder Ontario-educated children ever learned to smile.

What are educators doing today?

Gas Fatalities

As a new arrival in your province, my attention has been drawn to the many cases of asphixiation and near-deaths of the people by newly-installed natural gas in Vancouver.

As a long resident of Edmonton, Alta., I had many years of experience in the installation of natural gas in that city, in connection with the heating business. This gas, after being burnt, is very poisonous, and if there is a bad leak of gas in the pipe line or fixture, it is very explosive should it come in contact with lighted matches or open fire.

In Edmonton, to detect leaks, the gas company had an odor injected into the gas supply so that a leak could be easily detected. The most important thing is that all gas appliances must be vented with the full size of the opening of the appliance into a proper vent stack or brick chimney.

To save mortar in the chimney, this should be lined with a metal or tile liner. If it is an inside chimney, the liner must come to the first ceiling; if an outside wall brick chimney, it must be lined the full distance down, otherwise the mortar will be eaten out in a very short time.

Plenty of Room Here

Canada is rightly welcoming many homeless Hungarian refugees, and yet, according to Mr. Pickersgill, Minister of Immigration, cannot accept the unfortunate "man without a country" Christian Hanna.

Come, come, Mr. Pickersgill, have a heart; Canada is big enough and generous enough, I am quite sure, to house this waif, even if, as Mr. Pickersgill says, he is liable to want to move about—we've got lots of room.

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Taking Pen in Hand

THE newspapers of Canada report a flood of letters to the editor lately. This is good for the newspapers—especially when the writers attack the newspapers—and it is good for the nation.

Hutchison

It seems to indicate that the nation has roused itself to the point of cerebration. A subscriber must be thinking furiously, must have something pretty formidable on his mind, before he takes pen in hand and condemns the government, the Canadian society or, more likely, the press.

The press, of course, has an obligation to print these views within the limits of its space and the laws of libel, especially if they condemn the views of the press. It has no obligation to agree with them or to answer them. Indeed, if the newspapers attempted to answer every inaccuracy in their letter columns they would have no space for any news.

ON the other hand, the newspapers have no right to expect the public to agree with their views. They have only the right to print their views in columns well understood to be expressions of opinion, as distinct from news columns understood to be a report of facts without comment.

No newspaper worth its salt cares whether the public agrees with its opinions. The newspaper is not like a politician. It is not running for public office. It is always most comfortable and most likely to be right when it is in a minority. The newspaper offers its morsel to the general store of opinion and the public can take it or leave it.

But the striking thing in Canada today is that the general store of opinion seems to be growing after an exceedingly lean mental period produced, I suppose, by an exceedingly fat economic period.

FOR some years the nation as a whole (with many individual exceptions) has been too busy, too prosperous, and altogether too fortunate to do much serious thinking.

A boom is the worst climate for collective thought. A smooth road does not jolt the brain. A soft social exterior generates few sparks. When times are good only a minority will ask embarrassing questions. The majority will just have fun. Why argue when we have never had it so good?

Into this innocuous and pleasant mental mixture a violent catalyst was plunged a few weeks ago—the catalyst of Suez. I have no intention of going over that argument again here, but I think we can now regard Suez not only as a decisive date in the history of the world but as a pretty important date in the history of the Canadian mind.

THE first effect of Suez in Canada was to divide the opinion of the public and to set many good people thinking and writing about a specific issue of public policy.

The second, and more useful effect, it seems to me, was to set the public thinking far beyond Suez about the general state of the world. People began to ask themselves suddenly whether it was true that we never had it so good; whether the great Canadian boom was quite as strong and reliable as it looked; and finally whether we really deserved to have it so good when most of the world, including especially our friends in Britain, were having it so bad.

THE world looked promising and shiny before last November. The Russians were smiling. The economic indices were shooting up (and the cost of living had not yet begun to follow them).

The Western statesmen were congratulating themselves on the end of the cold war. Mr. Dulles was talking confidently of peace in the Middle East. Mr. Eisenhower was assured of election and Mr. Adlai Stevenson was generally suspected of very poor taste when he suggested that American foreign policy was a thin, painted eggshell enclosing a vacuum. Sir Anthony Eden was the unchallenged leader of Britain. Canada was going ahead like crazy and smashing some statistical record every week.

Into this world-wide party, like a stern parent interrupting a children's charade, strode the historic event known as Suez.

IT revealed certain things about Britain and France, the Commonwealth, the United States and the Western alliance. And a few hours later the murder of Hungary revealed something about the new rulers of Russia.

But all these things, as we are now beginning to realize, were only the detailed parts of a much larger thing. We began to realize, in short, that the smooth integument covering our own national boom was exceedingly thin, that the world we actually inhabited was not the world we had imagined before November and that the avalanche of events unloosed in Suez and Hungary would continue to flow for some time, at least for the rest of our short lives.

AT any rate, these events seem to have started the Canadian people thinking, as a man is likely to think when he finds himself sliding in an avalanche. Hence, I take it, the welcome avalanche of letters to the press.

The interesting question is not whether the newspapers, the letter writers or anyone else are right but whether this healthful lucubration will continue to face the real facts of life or whether a few months hence, will merely slide off the greasy surface of the boom.

GATE FOUR SWINGS WIDE — By B. A. TOBIN

Up, Up, and Away!

NEW YORK — The fellow who used to get a big audience down at the railway station by shouting "Train for Oshkosh, Zanesville and Weehawken, now leaving on track four," has run into competition. In the bigger cities now, the fellow over at the air terminal is drawing a better crowd. His act is much the same. He yells over a loudspeaker: "Plane for Oshkosh, Zanesville and Weehawken now leaving from Gate Four. But in some cities he's added a new line to his script, and it puts him away ahead of the train caller. For he now shouts "Plane for Lisbon, Madrid and Rome now leaving from Gate Four." And the poor old groundling over at the railway depot just can't match it.

Tobin

The airline terminals are becoming bigger, busier and noisier all the time. More and more people are taking to the skyways and the industry has hit its stride as the twentieth century way to get to where you're going. It was the same in Seattle, Portland, Denver and New York; the same at 2 p.m. or 2 a.m. There is something incredible about having your lunch in Victoria, your dinner in Seattle, your breakfast 23,000 feet in the air somewhere over Ohio and your second cup of coffee in New York. But enough people seem to believe it to keep the 62-passenger planes full and the terminals bustling.

Heavy Traffic

As our United Air Lines DC-7 drifted gently in to the runway at International Airport just outside New York, two other sky liners were right behind waiting to land within a minute of us, three others were spinning their propellers impatiently beside another runway, waiting for the signal to take off.

Innumerable other aircraft were in the sky flying beam-directed courses across the continent, or crowded wing to wing on acres of concrete around huge airports.

Uncle Zeke doesn't have to wait any longer for them contraptions to be perfected. They've arrived.

At 23,000 feet and 400 miles an hour you get a new view of the earth. At night the cities and towns four miles below you are mere droplets of light, as remote as star clusters, as impersonal as a swirl of phosphorescence in the ocean depths.

If there are thin clouds, the cities gleam through as dim smears of light against the general blackness.

If the clouds are heavy, you are in a world of your own, bounded only by the still-visible wingtip a few yards away outside your window, the perpetual roaring of the giant motors, the softness of the reclining seat and the trained smile of the stewardess passing down the aisle.

Sharpened Appetites

I'm not much of an enthusiast for breakfasts or dawns. But four miles up and accompanied by a panoramic sunrise spread over the cloud layer below they take on a new interest.

The cabin pressure is kept at the equivalent of about 6,500 feet—like having breakfast on top of Mt. Arrowsmith. That's the sort of thing to sharpen your appetite, and the neat tray of baked apple, Melba toast, scrambled eggs and ham, Danish pastry, marmalade and coffee is swept clean with the mountain climber's zest.

Far below in the growing light the cloud layer lies like a huge bedspread of marcelled cotton batting. Through occasional gaps the earth appears in a brown and white mosaic—the brown being forest and the white the snow-covered ground. The lights of a train or of highway traffic may be seen now and then—tiny crawling creatures, mere worms under Mercury's speedy foot.

On taking off the pilot had addressed the passengers over the public address system. He had told us at what speed and altitude we would fly, what the weather ahead was like, what time we would land, and assured us that prospects were good for "a very pleasant trip."

Now he speaks to us again, telling us he's starting his descent, that we may run into a little "choppy" air but that shortly we'll get a good view of the skyline of New York.

Friend Up Front

It's a nice personal touch that the railways can't duplicate, and though you may never see him you get the idea that there's a pleasant friend up there in front who's interested in seeing that you enjoy the trip.

After the isolation of the plane the International terminal is bedlam. Giant planes wheel back and forth, manoeuvred as skillfully as automobiles by the pilots.

Baggage trucks trundle up and down, service crews swarm out to the tired birds, crowds besiege the scores of ticket counters kept by a dozen air lines in the main building, announcers blare their "leaving from Gate Four" routine with a list that sounds like the index of a geography book.

Taxis and buses roar away citywards with the latest batch of arriving travelers, and the scene is set for the next batch, hour after hour, day and night.

There's just one catch. In the half-hour before you landed you covered about 200 miles. In the half-hour after you land you cover only about 15 on the crowded roads. By the time you get to town you're a frustrated earthling again. But the dream was beautiful while it lasted.

Noah Shakespeare---Dedication to Victoria

ALTHOUGH he was bedecked with a fine flowing beard and wore an expression of great benignity, Noah Shakespeare never reminded me of Santa Claus.

Perhaps it was because his facial expression, while kindly and honest beyond question, lacked the twinkle that we associated with Father Christmas and he also lacked the rotundity of that genial friend of all children.

Sivertz

Noah Shakespeare was a good man—a fine citizen—but I think that we young fry thought perhaps he was a little too austere as is often the case with people of great personal virtue.

My first memories of him are very early; about the second or third year of the century when I would see his erect and forceful figure striding through the grand stone post office which has now been reduced to a few small heaps of rubble. He was the postmaster, a position which I thought to be of a high degree indeed.

I think perhaps I had been brought downtown by my older brother Henry to look at the ships and perhaps walk as far as Mr. Pendray's place on Belleville, where we would lean over the lower part of the fence and gaze amazed at what had been done with the shrubs and trees in his garden.

Tortured Shrubs

By the most skilful pruning, Mr. Pendray's gardener had succeeded in torturing the trees into fantastic shapes; some were like birds and others like animals. It was fascinating but I didn't like it. It gave the friendly trees and shrubs an alien look that was almost sinister.

After gazing our fill at the gardens, Henry and I would dawdle across the old wooden bridge across James Bay, lingering to climb up the railing and stare at the flotsam and jetsam that littered the muddy bay that reached almost to the road that skirted St. Anne's Convent and lapped just below the old corrugated iron church.

Home-made dugouts would be tied up to floats beneath the rows of cabins along lower Humboldt and probably old Bill Nye would be seen paddling precariously along in a tiny, wobbly dugout filled with five-gallon kerosene cans, bottles and old gunny sacks.

Finally we would reach the post office and perch ourselves on the stone steps to wait for Dad and watch the enthralling spectacle of all the hurrying people who called at the post office toward the close of a business day. It seemed to be the very core of Victoria's business life and so many came down, jangling their box keys so importantly as they peered into the glass-doored boxes.

It was at such a time that we would see Mr. Shakespeare and often he would pat our heads and make some kindly remark, but I fear that he thought we were really an awful nuisance and wished we had stayed at home.

I have said that Noah Shakespeare was a good man and I mean that in a proper sense in that he seemed to find time for a tremendous amount of community service and was, as someone later said—probably at his funeral—"filled with good deeds and labors for his fellows."

He was born at Brierly Hill in Staffordshire on Jan. 26, 1839, into a sturdy yeoman family that claimed descent from a line of Shakespeares of whom one William was the brightest star. When he was 20 he married and three years later set out in a steamer (probably with auxiliary sails) to voyage to Victoria by way of Cape Horn. On Jan. 11, 1863—94 years ago last week—he stepped ashore from Ss Robert Low.

From that day his life was full-filled with works to advance the interests of his adopted country.

Hard Work

He had no capital and the young colony could only offer hard work, so Noah Shakespeare's first job was at a coal mine of a shrewd Scot, Robert Dunsmuir, at Nanaimo. But Victoria drew him back and it was not long before he was buying and selling real estate in the then fast-growing capital.

And it was not long until he became a champion of white laborers and he headed a group to appeal to Ottawa to restrict the import of cheap Chinese contract labor. As the years passed he took a larger part in the affairs of Victoria, serving as an alderman and later as mayor and later still he was elected to the Federal Parliament.

He held his seat as a Member of Parliament until his appointment as postmaster at Victoria.

All his life he was a tireless worker in behalf of temperance, found time to take an active part in the YMCA, and served as provincial president of the International Sunday School Association.

This fine man lived quietly with his wife and eght children in a tree-shaded cottage in the North Ward, where he spent the twilight years in peace and serenity.

GIVE AND FORGET

I believe that whenever we perform what is called a charitable act we must first expel from our minds the slightest sense of being the giver and must always try to feel that we are being graced by that impulse and favored by our ability to indulge that impulse. What is more painful than to hear some kind person complain that the object of his kindness has shown no gratitude? In a moment, the warmth one felt for his generosity freezes in the realization that when he gave he was expecting to receive an emotional satisfaction in return.

COLD COMFORT

We are apt to forget how much the present pattern of our civilization depends upon the latent heat of ice. If the present ice-sheets of the world melted in a hurry, sea-level would rise about a hundred feet. The present long-term tendency to glacier retreat is, however, accompanied by a rise in sea level of only four inches a century.

BEFORE THE JUDGE By SILENUS

The Stateless State

It is most encouraging to note that in these days of bureaucratic tyranny the good old spirit of liberty is still alive. Everybody who reads the newspapers must by now be aware of the plight of Christian George Hanna, who for want of a piece of paper may be condemned to spend the rest of his days floating about on the high seas; and also how he is about to invoke a part of our law which will give him a chance to speak for himself before the country.

It really does seem absurd that an individual who is supposed to be a free agent is prevented from living where he likes simply because he does not know to what national group he belongs or who his parents were. These matters, this column respectfully submits, are the slightest of trifles and are of no concern to anyone but the individual concerned. If John Smith and Hyman Kaplan and Shigimetsu Yamamoto and Christian George Hanna can satisfy a sensible authority that they are peaceful people and no menace to the public health, then why in the name of all that's reasonable can they not be permitted to pursue their lives unmolested in those parts of the world where they may wish to reside?

You don't need to tell me. I know. It is the Immigration Act, the mother and father of all those pernicious statutes we have where rights have been declared to be privileges.

The case of the unfortunate Hanna brings into sharp relief the truly appalling state to which our rights and liberties have fallen. Not so long ago a Canadian, provided he did not interefere with anybody else, could come and go exactly as he pleased; and so could a foreigner in this country. Not so today. Take the trouble to think for a moment about the number of licences and permits in your possession, and you might well wonder how immune you really are from the arbitrary interference of the state. True, the state by and large is not given to arbitrary interference, but that has become a matter of custom, rather than law. The guarantees are being cut down every day, and a lackadaisical population permits the wholesale rape of its rights.

It can't happen here. But it could, in a country whose people, smug and prosperous and apathetic, have delivered themselves over to the do-gooders. It can't happen here.

But let us return to the situation of this dangerous menace to the purity of our free Canadian air, this disreputable person who had the infernal gall to be born on a ship, this sinister individual whose mother died when he was a child, this Christian George Hanna whom the Minister of Citizenship, etc., had said is ineligible as an immigrant. Well, the man is here. He wants to stay. Is there any sound reason why he shouldn't?

Of course there is. He doesn't know his birthday. He doesn't know who his father was (or is). I would venture to say that there might even be a few good citizens of this country whose paternity is doubtful, but they at least had the foresight to arrange for their births within the borders of this land of the free. Not so Mr. Hanna. Try as he may, he is quite unable to contribute one little fact to the mass of statistics without which the country could not operate: Sorry, Mr. Hanna; move along please. It's no use arguing; you simply don't exist.

But there is yet one dreadful old-fashioned hangover from the inefficient days of yore to be reckoned with. Why this enlightened age permits such untidy things as habeas corpus to spoil the general sterility of public administration this column can never fathom. Probably overlooked. After all, you can't expect even a superman to remember everything. A misguided lawyer full of youth and enthusiasm (clearly a dangerous character) has set the creaky old machinery going, whereby this dreadful man without a passport can go before a judge and ask for the protection of our law. The idea!

And the deplorable lack of respect which judges have for persons (even cabinet ministers! Think of it!) is well known. Let us all hold our breath, and if any of us have an unworthy sneaking wish that right be done, let us sternly suppress it.

"All animals are free, but some are freer than others."

UN CORRESPONDENCE By CHARLES LYNCH

Kashmir Rears Lovely Head

Kashmir is a beautiful place to visit, but a dreadful one to write about.

It ranks with the Palestine question among the tough nuts that the United Nations has been unable to crack—so tough in fact that it has reposed up in the attic since the closing days of 1952.

Lynch

The problem is being dusted off and brought before the Security Council this week at the request of Pakistan. The Security Council will find that the dispute between Pakistan and India over Kashmir has not mellowed with the years—advance statements from both sides indicate a bitter fight.

Both nations are, of course, members of the Commonwealth, and the airing of this dispute promises to be especially painful for the Commonwealth, members of the Security Council, Australia and the United Kingdom. They can be expected to bring all their influence to bear for mediation.

But mediation is notoriously difficult where Kashmir is concerned, as Canada found out during her term of office on the Security Council in 1948 and 1949, when Kashmir was the principal item on the Security Council's agenda. As a result of that experience, the members of the Canadian delegation to the current General Assembly are unanimous in giving thanks that Canada is not on the Security Council now, and thus will not be directly involved in the forthcoming Kashmir Donnybrook between two of her Commonwealth cousins.

U.S. ON SPOT

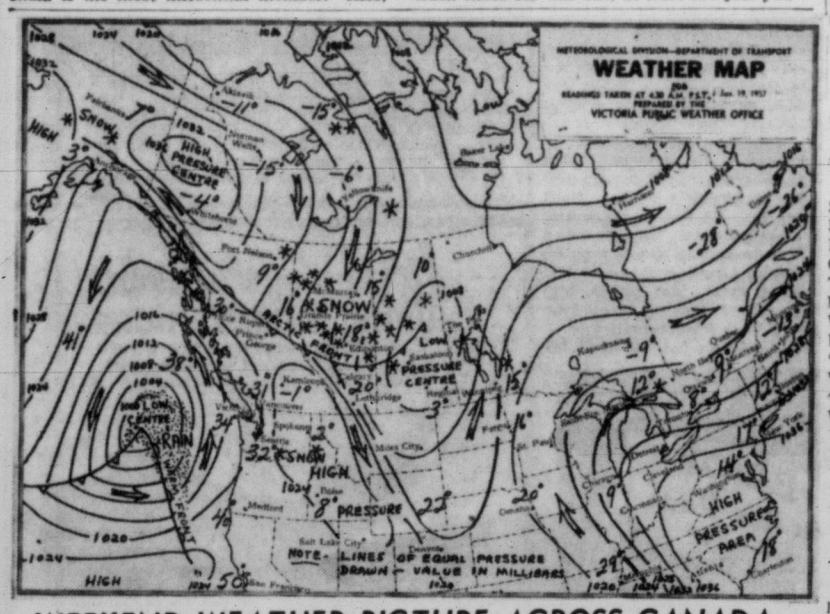
The United States is also placed in a difficult position, for she has supplied arms to Pakistan, and yet has been paying court to the Arab-Asian group of nations, of which India is the most influential member. Also, the memory of the recent visit to the United States of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is still fresh in many minds, particularly President Eisenhower's. Kashmir is Mr. Nehru's ancestral home.

Pakistan, as the plaintiff, will have the most to say, at least at the outset. The Pakistanis have said that they regard it as a matter of basic creed that Kashmir must be part of Pakistan. Pakistan charges that India disregarded her agreement to a plebiscite in Kashmir under United Nations auspices; that India has proceeded with the integration of Kashmir into India, has set up a constituent assembly at Srinagar in Kashmir which has drawn up a provincial constitution.

Pakistan has not yet made it clear exactly what she wants the Security Council to do about these developments. The prime minister of Pakistan, Mr. H. S. Suhrwardy, has expressed confidence that the Security Council "will not permit this challenge to its authority to remain unanswered, and will take concrete steps to meet the situation." Pakistan also asks that the Security Council "take appropriate action to seek a clarification of the government of India."

Pakistan sources here hint that they may request the setting up of a United Nations Emergency Force on the pattern of the one now on duty in Egypt. Such a force would go to Kashmir and take over from Pakistan and Indian military forces there, remaining until it had supervised the plebiscite which has been so long awaited and which Pakistan insists must be held, although India evidently no longer feels it is necessary since she regards Kashmir as part of India.

India a contributor to the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt, is scarcely likely to look with favor upon the suggestion of a similar force for Kashmir. Nor is Canada likely to display much enthusiasm for the idea—the Queen's Own Rifles need not don their track shoes for this one, at least not just yet.



WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Thin cloud covered the province Friday night and in consequence overnight minima were from 5 to 10 degrees higher than those of Thursday night. A low-pressure area developing offshore now seems headed for the Oregon coast. In consequence the major thrust of mild Pacific air will be south of the border and temperatures on Sunday will not differ greatly from those of today. Light snow showers are expected in the interior over the weekend and occasional light rain along the outer coast. In the Fraser Valley a light snowfall is expected while near the Georgia Strait temperatures are such that precipitation may occur either as rain or wet snow.

V.I. Must Double Power Production

BCPC Estimates 23% Increase In Demand Annually for 3 Years

CAMPBELL RIVER—B.C. Power Commission must double the size of its Vancouver Island system within three to four years, Edwin T. Quirk, generation planning engineer for the commission, said here Friday night.

He told Campbell River District Chamber of Commerce that the rate of increase in the demand for power on the Island has been firmly forecast at 23 per cent per year for the next three years, and 16 per cent a year after that.

Rate across Canada is 9 per cent, he said.

FISHING UNAFFECTED

Mr. Quirk discussed diversion of the Salmon, Heber and Quinsam rivers into the Campbell River for power purposes, saying fishing would not be affected in the three rivers.

Water licences issued for the diversions require the commission to keep sufficient water in the rivers at all times to support the fish population downstream from the projects, he said.

Since there are natural falls or blockades on all three rivers which prevent migratory fish from going upstream as far as the diversionary works, there are no problems connected with passing migratory fish around storage dams, the speaker said.

25,000 HP

Diversion of the three rivers into the Campbell River watershed will add 25,000 horsepower to the system, Mr. Quirk told the chamber.

The diversions can be constructed relatively easily and quickly, and since the water diverted utilizes existing power plants for generation, the 25,000 horse-power will be secured at a much lower cost per kilowatt hour than is usual for even hydro-electric development.

Water will be provided for the lower reaches of each of the rivers by means of sluice gates in the diversionary dams, Mr. Quirk said. On the Salmon, the sluice gates will pass 170 cubic feet of water per second and on the Heber and Quinsam 60 cubic feet of water per second will be available.

"In other words," said Mr. Quirk, "there will be gates in each of the dams which can be opened to discharge at least double the natural low flow of these rivers."

This would be in addition to the flow of tributary streams below the diversionary works, he said.

SIDNEY REVIEW—Don't write off the Saanich Peninsula as an agricultural area just yet. Every so often, when many people half convince themselves that the days of Saanich's agricultural glory are past, someone like Frank Edgell of Blink Bonnie Farm, Saanichton, comes along to prove otherwise. His Saanichton-bred Holstein cow, Cherry Blossom, has brought a production award to western Canada for the first time in history.

This is not the first victory chalked up by Mr. Edgell's dairy cows. And The Review is quite certain that it will not be the last. The farmer has brought the most favorable kind of publicity to the Saanich Peninsula.

Gulf Islands Ferry Service Under Review

GALIANO—Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has asked Coast Ferries Ltd., operators of Mv. Lady Rose, which serves the Gulf Island sfrom the mainland, to maintain the service pending his investigation of the operation.

The service, started two years ago, has been of doubtful economic worth, but when the company mentioned it might curtail the service, there were numerous protsts from Gulf Islands residents.

According to Capt. O. H. New, managing director of Coast Ferries, the minister is making a complete study of the Gulf Islands ferry picture, and is working for a permanent solution.

SUBSIDY PROPOSED

A government subsidy has been proposed to enable the company to continue the service. Subsidies already are granted Gulf Island Ferry Co. Ltd., which operates the Swartz Bay-Salt Spring, Crofton-Salt Spring, and Gulf Islands ferry operations.

Each Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday the vessel leaves Vancouver in the morning, calls at Steveston, Galiano, Mayne, Ganges, Port Washington on Pender, Saturna, then returns to the mainland.

Thursday she arrives in the islands early, then spends the night at Ganges and on Friday morning arrives at Vancouver after making calls at Pender, Mayne and Galiano. Friday afternoon and night she makes the round trip, returning to Vancouver after midnight. There is no service Monday and Wednesday.

80% Success Seen For United Appeal

COURTENAY (CP) — Directors say the newly organized United Appeal Fund here may reach 65 to 80 per cent of its objective by the end of January, official end of the campaign.

The objective was originally set in 1956 at $17,000, but since then some of the 10 agencies uniting in the drive have reduced their quotas.

18 Million Gallons Of Water Used On Pulp Mill Job

CHEMAINUS — Water used during 1956 by B.C. Forest Products at Crofton has been set at 18,000,000 gallons, which will be charged up by the municipality against the pulp mill operation.

A deal between the company and the municipality of North Cowichan called for the company to put in a new and larger dam and waterline to serve Crofton and the pulp mill project's present needs until completion of the company waterline from the Cowichan River.

The municipality will credit the cost of expanding the Crofton water system against the amount of water used by the company at the industrial rate.

NOTICE to owners and producers of logs and pulpwood

This notice is published in reply to a number of enquiries we have had from people wishing to know of the possibilities of a market for pulpwood at Crofton.

Our pulpmill at Crofton is under construction and is expected to go into production this fall.

By that time we will be in the market for pulpwood in the form of logs, logging salvage, farmers' wood, bark-free sawmill waste and chips. (This is in addition to our present requirements for sawlogs, shingle logs and peeler logs suitable for our existing mills.)

At the present time we are actively studying the matter of pulpwood supplies from the above sources. We offer the following suggestions to owners of forest land:

1. Do not permit indiscriminate cutting in your second-growth stands. The value of your land and your financial returns should be increased by good forest practices. Our forestry staff will be willing to offer technical advice to landowners who are interested in managing their forest lands on a tree farm basis.

2. Investigate the market outlets for the wood you can produce. Remember that one of the main cost items affecting your financial returns will be cost of delivering your wood to market. Every additional mile of truck haul adds to your cost and reduces your net return.

3. Do not start cutting until you are certain the material you produce will be acceptable to the available markets. Certain specifications must be met if your wood is to be readily saleable and at the best price.

We will be pleased to send you specifications for acceptable pulpwood material. Address your requests to the Company at 995 W. 6th Avenue, Vancouver 9, B.C.

Anglo-German Race for Trident Told Through Fisher's Letters

(Reviewed By Lawrence Farrington, Instructor Lieutenant-Commander, RCN)

FEAR GOD AND DREAD NOUGHT, VOLUME II: THE YEARS OF POWER, selected and edited by Arthur J. Marder, Clarke, Irwin & Company, Toronto. $7.00.

It takes a professor of history at the University of Hawaii to select and edit the correspondence of one of the most controversial figures in the revolutionary changes which swept the Royal Navy at the beginning of this century. No fellow countrymen of Admiral Sir John Fisher would dare to venture in such tempestuous seas.

Professor Marder, who devoted his first volume to Fisher's correspondence prior to 1904, carries on the fascinating story of this volcanic naval officer who dominated the Admiralty during the period 1904-14.

The letters are easy and exciting to read. For the layman not versed in the facts of naval policy and administration during the decade preceding the First World War there is a valuable preface which provides the necessary background to appreciate the prolific pen of the First Sea Lord.

TRIDENT AT STAKE

"Jacky" Fisher emerges from his correspondence as a far-seeing genius, yet brutal in his determination to meet the twentieth century challenge of a new enemy, new ships, new weapons and a new strategy.

It was fortunate that Fisher was at the Admiralty at the peak of the Anglo-German naval race for the trident was at stake. Fisher was compelled to speak and write at the top of his voice to secure encouragement from the politicians. Hence the forthright language and the constant underlining in his letters for the sake of emphasis.

Little wonder was it that his friends included such a dynamic figure as Admiral Sir Percy Scott (who should be the patron saint of all gunners) who insisted on naval guns hitting the target during practice shoots.

SWEEPING CHANGES

Many letters call attention of the undiscerning to importance of the sailor learning his trade where alone he can learn it, at sea.

Although he was often judged a poor strategist, Fisher proved himself an excellent developer of new tactics. He built the Dreadnought, the first of the Royal Navy's "all-big-gun" battleships. He redistributed the naval forces, concentrating his main strength in the North Sea—the large-scale reductions in squadrons abroad saw the closing of the dockyards at Esquimalt and Halifax and the establishment of the Royal Canadian Navy in 1910—opened the Naval War College at Greenwich, and tried to make the executive and engineer officers interchangeable.

He was one of the few persons genuinely interested in submarines at the beginning of the century and foresaw all naval developments except the implications of air power.

Brief references are made to the ill-fated Canadian Naval Aid Bill of 1913, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden.

RIVALRY

The voluminous correspondence addressed to First Lords McKenna and Churchill not only pays tribute to the prophetic foresight of Fisher but also discloses the bitter rivalry and hatreds which his sweeping changes created and uted the naval forces, concentration between the two schools, composed of the followers of Sir John and Admiral Lord Charles Beresford. Therein lies a lesson for all naval administrators today.

The author has given us a new kind of approach to naval history and he has clearly enjoyed his work. It is an excellent idea to add to this series in a future volume which will cover the period 1914-20.

We can look forward to reading the intimate details of the great friendship between Fisher and Churchill which was sadly embittered when the Dardanelles campaign did not go according to plan.

Book Presents Keen Analysis

Reviewed by Tony Dickason

THE WOODEN SWORD, by Edward McCourt, McClelland and Stewart, Toronto, $2.75, 255 pp.

The mood is peculiarly haunting, the setting—a prairie university town—is chillingly accurate, and the descriptive work is often excellent.

This is a story of a man at odds with society because he is at odds with himself as a university professor and his problems are, to some degree, the problems of all dedicated teachers.

Suffering from what is now termed "battle fatigue," Steven Vennet is driven to near-madness by the ability to recall only dim recollections of his war past.

One of the main faults of the book is that the means of his overcoming this is left as vague as the professor's own memories.

Most marked portions are when the author, himself a university professor, tells how faculty members lock horns, do Quixotic battle, and generally behave like perambulating pundits.

It also appears Venner married the wrong woman, but this is probably not unique from the male reader's viewpoint.

BOOK TALK By JAMES SCOTT

Hollywood Endorses Inspirational Book

I see that Sheila Mackay Russell's A Lamp Is Heavy, which was recently released in a movie version is showing at theatres all across the country. It is not labelled "Adult Entertainment" which is as good a commentary as I can think of on the action of a small Ontario town library and a group of self-appointed censors who, about a year and a half ago, raised all sorts of ructions about this book.

My own experience with it was that I thought it so charming and so inspirational that I presented one of my many god-daughters with a copy when she graduated from high school. Never in all my years in Bookland have I been so surprised as when these tight-lipped censors said it was an indecent book. Apparently Hollywood — always sensitive to public opinion—was not daunted by the silly shenanigans in Ontario. I hope the movie version is as delightful as the book itself.

The result of the Harper Prize Novel Contest for 1957 has just been announced. Out of 800 entries, the judges picked Frank Norris' "Tower in the West," which, I understand is one of those panoramic historical novels covering life—and I presume romance—during the first half of this century. It is due for publication the end of this month.

Literary Contests Past and Present

Talking of the venerable firm of Harper's and budding writers of all ages, I might remind any of same that this firm has long had in print a very sensible and handy book called The Authors' Manual. It has recently been revised by Dorothy Thompson, a member of the firm's college department staff, and is available to anybody who sends in a dollar to Harper & Brothers, 40 East 33rd Street, New York City. This is a right handy book for writers who are short on practical experience.

Speaking of literary contests, I should mention the Doubleday Canadian Prize Novel Contest which will be judged by Ralph Allen, magazine editor; John Beecroft of the Literary Guild; Thomas B. Costain and Lionel Shapiro, well-known Canadian novelists, and George Nelson of Doubleday Canada.

This is a nice fat award for anybody (not necessarily a Canadian) writing on what the sponsors describe as "an essentially Canadian subject." The sum of $2,500 is an outright prize and $7,500 is laid on the line at the same time as an advance against royalties.

The contest ends April 1, 1958, and full details and rules can be obtained from Doubleday Canada Ltd., 105 Bond Street, Toronto.

COMPILATION

For the many, many readers who loved the poetry of Edna St. Vincent Millay it will be welcome intelligence that the definitive volume of her collected works has just recently rolled off the presses.

It is called simply, Collected Poems of Edna St. Vincent Millay, and was compiled by her sister Norma.

Containing all her poetic work with the exception of her plays, juvenilia and translations, this volume also publishes 16 poems of Miss Millay's which have never before appeared in print.

The many folk who have been worried about the health of Joyce Carey will be happy to know that despite the fact that he is suffering from a long-drawn-out and devastating illness, he is still continuing to write and works consistently on a new novel which is almost completed and should appear not too long from now.

This is an example of splendid high courage, exactly the kind of thing one might have expected from such an ebullient personality as Carey. With respect and admiration, we tip our hat to him.

In Eastern Canada this month the three novels most in demand are, in this order: Kathryn Hume's The Nun's Story, Nicholas Monsarrat's The Tribe That Lost Its Head and Adele Wiseman's The Sacrifice. The last two are by authors living in Canada.

I am not surprised by choices one and three but Monsarrat's has had an almost universal panning from critics here, in the U.S.A. and in Britain.

Readers pay no attention to critics ?

WINGED SKATES FOR THE BOY WHO NEVER GREW UP

The Darling family of J. M. Barrie's famous "Peter Pan" are here assembled "on ice" for the first time. With Mr. and Mrs. Darling, Wendy, and the two boys, is their nursemaid dog, Nana. One of its most costly productions, "Peter Pan" will be a feature of Ice Capades at the arena, week of Jan. 29. It was one of 10 productions and 20 acts in the fabulous show.

New Young Virtuosi Record Well on Angel

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Two new records featuring young virtuosi, who were both child prodigies, have been released by Angel. These two discs are recommended to anyone who likes to hear good performances excellently reproduced on vinylite.

The first is Michael Rabin, 21, who performs Tchaikovsky's violin concerto and Saint-Saens' Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso—two of the most popular compositions in the repertoire. Rabin is accompanied by the Philharmonic Orchestra with Alceo Galliera conducting.

Davy

Rabin, a native of New York, who is already well known on TV and radio, gives a first-rate interpretation of these two works. The disc (35388) is sure to make a hit with those who are fond of Tchaikowsky.

★ ★ ★

The other is Eugene Malinin, 26, a blond, good-looking pianist. He is a Russian, not too well known in Canada and the United States, who is presently touring the Western world.

Malinin performs Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 with the Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Otto Ackermann. In addition, he plays Chopin's Nocturne in D Flat Major, Op. 27, No. 2.

Malinin has picked up numerous prizes in piano competitions in his own country and in Central Europe. He has a style of his own and the way he plays Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto will leave no one in doubt that he is a top performer.

★ ★ ★

For anyone interested in contemporary music, Columbia has issued Leonard Bernstein's "Serenade" for violin solo, strings and percussion, with the composer conducting.

Isaac Stern, violin, is soloist for this modern work, first performed at the Venice Festival in 1954. It is written for string orchestra and harp with the full range of percussion instruments.

POPS LIBRARY

NEW YORK (UP)—"A Guide to Jazz" (Houghton-Miffin) is one of the most valuable reference books on hot jazz. Written by Hugues Panassie, it has just been published and is a must for jazz fans.

Many will take exception to Panassie's flat statement that Louis Armstrong is the greatest jazz musician who ever lived and that Ed Hall is over-rated.

Nevertheless, the candid Frenchman's up-to-date book offers an honest criticism of just about every jazz player who ever lived and of many who long have been forgotten.

RCA-Victor has issued an important LP, "A Guide to Jazz," as a companion for the book. It contains some of the best work by Satchmo, Sidney Bechet, Tommy Ladnier, Jelly Roll Morton, King Oliver, Duke Ellington and Fletcher Henderson. Some of the recordings were made almost 30 years ago but have been reproduced with good fidelity.

★ ★ ★

Another unusual jazz work is Columbia's "What Is Jazz?" This is based on Leonard Bernstein's revelations on the "Omnibus" TV show last year.

Bernstein, considered one of the better contemporary composers, takes up the technical aspects of jazz in a language that is easy to understand by the non-musician. It is a valuable record because Bernstein throws new light on jazz. The only drawback is that is is not the type of record to be played over and over.

Peggy's Got a Bun On

By Maurice Humber

My sister Peggy
. . . who works down here,
And gives this joint a sort of atmosphere,
Has just returned, from away down south,
With a bun for her hair, & a new kind of mouth;
This "bun" is twisted in a figure eight,
And hangs on her neck . . . & does fascinate,
With that Gibson-girl look of long ago,
When you wore a "middie" & had a best beau;
And up at the Gorge "he" got a canoe,
And a big box of Stevenson's . . . just for you.
He wore last year's flannels, & was simply gone,
When you put up your parasol that matched your chiff-on.

"Wish you'd all stop laughing," Peggy said,
As she patted her "bun" on the back of her head.
"Everyone wears one down in the States,
Gals in the stores or out with their dates.
I got mine in San Francisco, it wasn't much money,
The saleslady wore one, and she called me "honey."
"Now try THIS one honey," & she reached it down,
It's slightly tinted . . . YOUR shade of brown."
"I looked in her mirror, & my hat I did check,
As she pinned it on . . . the nape of my neck."
"It's smashing honey . . . 'twas made just for you."
"I waltzed out a-there, felt gay & brand new.
I held my head high, as I walked down the street,
Then I bot shoes with bows, to more Gibson my feet.
I no longer felt, like from B.C. or Quebec,
I was up with those Yank . . . at least NECK-AND-NECK."

City Music Festival Adjudicators Named

Adjudicators for the 1957 Greater Victoria Music Festival are named this week by the festival committee which has worked on the selection for the last several months.

Festival dates this year are May 8 to 10 and 13 to 15. Entries close March 23.

Three of the adjudicators will be paying their first official visit to this city. Judging piano classes will be Hugh McLean BA, B.Mus (Cantab), LRCM, ARCM, FRCO. A Canadian, McLean received his musical education at Cambridge University, graduating from King's College, where he taught for two years before returning to Canada.

He is a well-known BBC recitalist and will return to England for an important broadcast before coming to Victoria in the spring.

Choral and vocal work will be handled by Wayne Hertz, dean of the School of Music at Central College of Education, Ellensburg, Wash. Highly accredited, Prof. Hertz has had wide experience as an adjudicator and is noted for his ability as a performer and lecturer in the field.

Last of the newcomers is William D. Cole, who comes from Tacoma, where he is director of Instrumental Music at Stadium High School. He will judge bands and instrumental classes.

The team of five adjudicators is completed by two women who have been eminently successful in their capacities on former occasions here.

They are Mrs. Joy (Coghill) Thorne, speech arts, and Mrs. Peggy MacFarlane, folk dancing.

Potential Terror Missed

(Reviewed by Al Markle)

BIRD OF SORROW, by John Romaniello, Alvrenia Publishing Company, Montreal. $3.50.

With the exception of Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, church work appears poor grounding for authors. And the good bishop, at that, stayed close to sermon-like theories and essays, avoiding the intricacies of building a novel.

Monsignor John Romaniello, Prefect Apostolic of Kweilin, Kwangsi, should have followed suit.

A large and smiling gentleman, Father John describes rather poorly what could be an interesting account of being expelled from Southern China by the Communist regime.

To hear him tell it, however, it sounds more like a series of petty annoyances than the several months of terror he insists it was.

The only thing to be learned from "Bird of Sorrow" is that Father John was morbidly afraid of going to prison.

NATIONAL GALLERY

Canada's national gallery was founded in 1880 by tthe Marquis of Lorne, governor-general.

Romantic Sibelius

On the occasion of his wife's 85th birthday, Jan Sibelius awakened her from sleep and handed her a bouquet of roses. Sibelius himself is 90, and so the capacity for the romantic gesture never ends.

This incident from the twilight of the great composer was described to Eugene Ormandy, music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, in a letter from the Sibelius' son-in-law, Jussi Jalas, who remarked that the birthday also was observed by a playing of the Philadelphia Orchestra-Ormandy recording of "Lemminkainen and the Maidens of Saari" and the "Swan of Tuonela."

MOVIE WORLD

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Behind the screen: The "laryngitis" announced as the reason for Ray Danton's bow-out as Jane Russell's leading man in "Fuzzy Pink Nightgown" turned out to be the fuzziest announcement of the year. The real reason Ray's out of the cast: After looking at the rushes, Producer Bob Waterfield decided he was too young for Jane. Ralph Meeker is now playing the role.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Fewer Plums for Fans Without Full Support

This is going to be an unsolicited piece upon a subject seemingly far removed from matters musical or orchestral—but only seemingly; the moral, for those who perceive one, could easily—and is, in fact, meant to—apply no less to symphony attendance than it does to the present melancholy subject of hockey attendance.

Hans Gruber

Living, as we do, in this area, it is perhaps understandable that complacency comes easily and naturally. For I do not think that there is another spot on earth more blessed than this one.

As part of Canada, we share in the incomparable stability, wealth, freedom, technological modernity and growing awareness of things cultural of this, the most desirable of countries to reside in.

On top of this, our own particular part of B.C. is more favored by the weather gods than the vast majority of the civilized world.

Live Enterprises Essential to City Life

Yet, with all its natural and technological advantages, what sort of a place would any city be to live in without certain man-made enterprises designed for diversion, entertainment, even painless education? It would become a chrome-plated jungle, an over-grown village in the most scornful sense.

The 3,000-odd people who have stopped bothering to go on Friday nights to the Memorial Arena since three or four years ago might still want to see play-off games, and some of them might even bestir themselves during the regular season if the Cougars were running away with first place.

But there can be no play-off games to enjoy, and no winning team to watch, if the Club is not supported through thick and thin, for there will be no team around indefinitely with the Arena half to two-thirds empty week after week. Incidentally, as arenas go, ours is an exceptionally bright, modern and congenial one.

The calibre of hockey seen these days at our Memorial Arena is as good as it need be to attract consistently a packed house, and is today, in the opinion of a not wholly inexperienced spectator, as close to National Hockey League standards as no matter.

Let us not take this spectacular entertainment for granted. Let us forsake our well-heated houses for two hours once a week or so, and betake ourselves in our equally well-heated motor cars to the Arena, and watch Coach Kilburn's young masters at work.

Unlike symphony orchestras, professional hockey is a commercial venture, and cannot be expected to survive under financial losses. And any venture, no matter whether commercial, charitable, non-profit, or whatnot have you, deserves support and survival so long as it gives full and honest value for one's money or one's time.

ALL OR NOTHING

Where does the symphony analogy tie in? What am I complaining about, you may rightly ask, if symphony attendance has in fact risen nearly as spectacularly as hockey attendance has dropped?

Let us compare play-off games to the appearance of a famed and well-publicized guest-artist. You all want to hear these in the incomparably rewarding and exciting performances of concertos with full orchestral accompaniment.

But— and this is, under the circumstances, only a friendly forewarning — in order that you may continue to be offered concerts with fine soloists, it is no less than essential that you also come to hear the Orchestra in its "regular league schedule" — i.e. those concerts that may be purely orchestral or at which guest artists appear whose names are either not familiar to you or whose instrument you did not think yourself fond of.

SIGNS FOR ROLE

Lloyd Nolan has been signed by Carmen Capalbo and Stanley Chase to co-star with Wendy Hiller in Eugene O'Neill's "A Moon for the Misbegotten," which will open at the Bijou Theatre, New York, April 30, as the second in the series being presented there by Capalbo and Chase. O'Neill's last play, "A Moon for the Misbegotten," will be enjoying its first production in New York.

Premiere Danseur Was Fine Athlete

Igor Youskevitch, premiere danseur and artistic advisor of the ballet Russe de Monte Carlo which will appear in Victoria for one night, Jan. 29, is universally acclaimed as "the world's finest male dancer."

He is the great exception to the rule that all fine ballet dancers start their careers as children. Youskevitch had little interest in dance, but was a devoted follower of athletics. Born in Russia but raised in Yugoslavia, he was a member of the Zagreb Sokol—the gymnasium group in the capitol.

CIRCUS ACROBAT

He joined a small circus and appeared in tumbling, trapeze, acrobatic dancing and horseback riding acts. When he entered the University of Belgrade to study chemical engineering, he went out for track and won many competitions and entered the Olympics.

At this time his interest turned to ballet and he left college to go to Paris to study. He appeared in a Russian Opera Company and danced for three years iwth Leon Woizikowski's Polish Ballet, and in 1938 came to this country with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

Igor Youskevitch is preeminent in the classic repertoire in which he has no peer; and as artistic advisor he is responsible for maintaining the classic ballets in their traditional form.

YOUSKEVITCH

Skiing, Skating, Scouting and Scales Daily Round for Singing Boys of Norway

During a recent interview, Ragnvald Bjarne, organizer and director of the choral group known as the Singing Boys of Norway—or, in their native land, as simply "Olav's Boys"—had the following to say concerning the recruiting and training of the choir:

Every year," said Mr. Bjarne, "we lose about 10 boys when their voices change. To replace these, we hear every spring 1,000 voices of new boys, chosen from schools all over Norway. From these, we can admit only 10. Each boy must be able to play either piano or violin, and show that he has a perfect musical ear.

"Every year," said Mr. Bjarne, voice, the new boy will come into the concert choir, and is now an Olav's Boy. If he develops well, he may later, after his voice changes, come into the adult group.

"Most of the boys in the choir are Boy Scouts," continued Mr. Bjarne, "and of course all of them are skiers and skaters, because Norway is a land of winter and snow.

"The Olav's Boys live in Oslo's greatest school, where they rehearse three hours a day, beginning at 5 in the morning. They rehearse in different groups, with technical exercises in staccati, pianissimi, legato song, and scales. Monday, Wednesday and Friday are rehearsals for the whole choir, from 6 to 8 p.m.

"If you would like to know what a typical day is like, the boys get up at 7 in the morning, bathe all naked in very cold water, then have sports and gymnastics, and six hours school, where they learn English, German and French as well as other subjects. All of the boys who come to America can speak good English."

Permanent Opera Formed in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—An opera company has been formed here on a permanent basis, it was announced today.

Ubald Boyer, general manager of the Provincial Bank of Canada, has been named general manager of the company. Directors will include Yoland Guerard, Robert Savoie, Roland Leduc and Michel Ambrogi, all of Montreal.

The company, to be made up of Canadian artists, is to present operas during a regular season in Montreal and also tour the country.

INTRIGUING PROGRAM

Pianists Together In Final Concert

As a last appearance before Victoria audiences on their current visit to Victoria, Robin Wood and his wife, Winifred Scott, will present a duo piano recital next Friday in Metropolitan United Church. Sponsor is the Victoria Musical Art Society.

On the occasion of these two Canadian musicians' last visit to this city in 1953, Mr. and Mrs. Wood gave a duo piano concert that was enthusiastically received by music lovers and critics.

At the time it was widely remarked that Mrs. Wood's performance whetted the appetite to hear her as a soloist. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Wood as Winifred Scott, has an enviable reputation in the concert pianist field in Great Britain.

Last year in London, she was invited to appear at St. James' Palace before the Princess Royal of England and a distinguished audience, playing the Schumann Piano Concerto.

On the program selected for next Friday's concert, she will play a solo, group consisting of eight of Chopin's delightful Preludes. Her husband also will play a solo group.

In detail, the program follows:

Duo Piano: Largo from Concerto Grosso in D Minor . . . Vivaldi
(Arranged for two pianos by Robin Wood.)
Duettino Concertante (after Mozart) . . . Busoni
Solos: Eight Preludes . . . Chopin
Winifred Scott
Duo Piano: Variations on St. Antoni Chorale, Op. 56a . . . Brahms
Solos: Consolation in D flat . . . Liszt
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6 . . . Liszt
Robin Wood
Duo Piano: Caribbean Dance . . . Arthur Benjamin
Russian Dance from "Petrouchka" . . . Stravinsky
(Arranged by Babin)

Tickets for the concert are available at Hudson's Bay Company, Ward's Music Ltd., and Western Music Co. Ltd. They will also be on sale at the door Friday night.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Maila Nurmi, known professionally as Vampira, the "Glamor Ghoul" of television, keeps her home life in perspective. "I have a cat named Rat-face," she said. "I call him that because he looks like a rat."

To Produce In 3 Media

Formation of Pakula-Mulligan Productions, Inc. has been announced by producer Alan Pakula and director Robert Mulligan. First property bought by the company are the stage rights to "Laurette," biography of the late stage star, Laurette Taylor, which they will produce on the stage next year.

The company will function in all three media, television, motion pictures and theatrical production, with headquarters in both Hollywood and New York.

DAVID TOMLINSON - JILL DAY
"All For Laughs" would be another very appropriate title for this delightful English comedy played against the background of the glorious Swiss Alps, in Technicolor. Whenever Nigel Patrick and David Tomlinson get together you can be assured there's merriment in the offing as they battle each other for the affections of the Swiss innkeeper's beautiful daughter. All we can say, "If it hurts to laugh—don't see this one." On the other hand if it's an evening of sheer entertainment you're after, see it—from the beginning.
The Press Critics say:
Daily Mail: "It made me laugh as much as anything I have seen during the years."

NEW ARRIVAL: Found wandering downtown, purebred Golden Cocker, male, about one year old.

READY FOR ADOPTION: Scamp is a one-year-old male Golden Spaniel cross. Loves children.

Cross-between Cocker and Collie is "Barky"—actually a very quiet little female, four months old. Black and brown.

Border Collie and Springer Spaniel are in Gyp's heritage, but he doesn't look it. He's the wooly-coated type, seven months.

Very quiet, shy and retiring is Nipper, a lovely little Border Collie type. Doesn't seem to like men, and needs lots of affection.

A quiet, dignified type, three year old, is Skip, a black Collie cross. Very dependable with kids.

GOIN' AWAY PRESENT

The speaker was nearsighted; he didn't know that one-half his audience of less than a hundred slipped away in the first 15 minutes, a third of the rest in the next quarter hour, and a fourth of the remainder in the next 15 minutes, leaving only nine at the end of his speech.

From the above you should be able to discover how many were in attendance when he began.

Answer: There were thirty-six.

OLD-FASHIONED GAME

There is a party game popular at old-fashioned festivities which has a two-word 12-letter name. Write that name in place of the x's in the following, and 12 three-letter words will appear vertically.

O S E O P A E O B O A S
x x x x x x x x x x x x
D D D D D D B B B E E E

Solution: The missing name is London Bridge.

FLIGHT OF FANCY FIGURING

Two planes in a race were to fly to a point and return. The first plane went out at 180 miles per hour and returned at 240. The second plane maintained an average speed of 210 miles per hour for each leg of the trip. Which plane won, or was it a tie?

Answer: Plane number two won. Suppose the distance to be 240 miles to point, the first plane would have taken 1½ hours going and 1 hour coming back, for a total of 2½ hours. The second plane would take 1 1/7 hours each way, for a total of 2 2/7 hours.

TRICKY TONGUE TWISTERS

Tiffany Abernathy tracked up the tabernacle.

Four short suitors sauntered forth shoelessly.

HEY, LEGGO!

Here's a party perker that should leave your guests hanging in the balance. Object of the stunt is this: Placing one side of his or her whole body (foot and head included) against a wall, ask the person involved to lift the free leg out and away from the wall. It's not as easy as it sounds. Just don't send one person to the wall too often or all sense of equilibrium will be lost. This will prove epen more entertaining after spinning the person a few times.

KWICKIE KWIZ

Said Ben, "I am thinking of a number which is twice as large as the number which is 4 more than one-third of the one I have in mind." Of what number is Ben thinking?

Answer: The second number mentioned is one-third of the first and 4 more; this number is ½ of the one of which Ben thinks; 2 times the second is two-thirds of Ben's number and 8; 8 being one-third, the number is 24.

IT'S YOUR MOVE

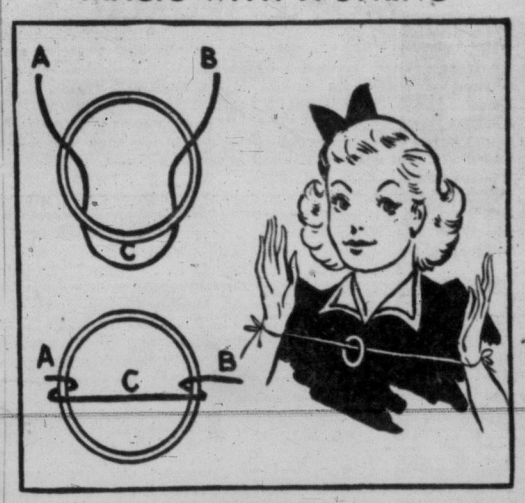
Long-Time Open Checker King

White utilizes a go-between move that upsets Black's plans. Can you find it? White, moving up the board, moves first and wins in four moves. See if you can play out the game.

Solution: White 21-17, Black 22-13; White 14-10, Black 13-22, White 10-17; Black 25-29, White 17-22.

MAGIC WITH A STRING



Some of the most baffling bits of magic are the easiest performed—when you learn the secret. This ring and string trick is an example.

The amateur magician requests some member of his audience to tie his two wrists together with a piece of string long enough to permit him to hold his arms about two feet apart. Next the conjurer asks one of his friends to lend him a ring or solid bracelet. He then tells his audience that he will put the circular object on the string without untying his wrists. This seems impossible, for there are no loose ends of the string. Nevertheless, the magician accomplishes what seems to be impossible by proceeding as follows:

First he pulls a loop of the string through the ring, as diagrammed at the top. Next he passes the loop over the ring and opens his arms to pull this string taut. This action attaches the ring to the string, as shown.

COMPLETE THE MATH

From the digits which are supplied, you should be able to figure out the missing digits and complete the problem in multiplication below:

```
      x x 5
      1 x x
    -------
      2 x x 5
    1 3 x 0
    x x x
  ---------
    4 x 7 7 x
```

Solution: Thirty-five times twenty-five multiplied by one four seven gives four seven seven seven five.

Gleason's Future Plans 'Unsettled'

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Charles Van Doren, the Columbia University instructor who has bagged $99,000 on NBC-TV's "Twenty-One," is swamped under with marriage proposals. One of his come-hither notes is from a well-known actress, a veteran of the connubial wars.

CBSTV's "Giant Step" gets the pink slip in six weeks . . . Dennis James has kinescoped a new quiz show, "Photo Finish," and is pitching it at ad agencies.

Jaye P. Morgan looks like the lead contender for the two 15-minute shows on NBC-TV that Eddie Fisher will bow out of in late February . . . NBCTV has offered a fat producer-writer-director contract to Ernie Kovacs in a bid to channel his creative talents into behind-the-camera chores.

There'll Always Be A Hollywood Dep't.: Erin O'Brien, the Irish lass in the Steve Allen stable, will be screen-tested for "Marjorie Morningstar."

George "Bullets" Durgom, Jackie Gleason's manager, says Gleason still hasn't settled on his plans for next season, but it looks as if he won't do a weekly show. Even if Gleason does nothing on TV, says Durgom, CBS still must shell out $100,000 for his services.

Mike Wallace will pull out as emcee of "The Big Surprise" — one of the sponsors wants out, too . . . "Mickey Mouse Club" will be cut to a half-hour show next fall on ABC-TV with an Abbott and Costello quizzer, "A Penny for Your Thoughts," the likely gap-plugger.

The new NBC-TV version of "Tonight" is planning a series built around all 23 winners of the "Playboy" magazine jazz poll — initial entries will be J. J. Johnson, Gerry Mulligan, Chet Baker and Bud Shank.

"Press Conference" has doubled its rating since ABC-TV switched it to a different time slot . . . the lipstick sponsor of "The $64,000 Question" will take over "The 20th Century Fox Hour" beginning Feb. 6.

CBS-TV is hot for a new series, "21st Precinct," a cops-and-robbers affair which will be shot in New York . . . Jack Barry says his "tic tac Dough," an NBC-TV daytimer, will be shifted to a night time spot.

CBS-TV released Judy Garland from her contract—she had been ticketed in for three more 90-minute shows over the next two years . . . "The Brothers" on CBC-TV and "Hiram Holliday" on NBC-TV both have the shakes.

Denise Lor will entertain at three inaugural celebrations Monday night in Washington. Ida Lupino and Howard Duff will introduce two actresses into their CBS-TV series, "Mr. Adam and Eve," who will play the couple's mothers. Ida's real-life mother, who also is an actress, was suggested for one of the parts, but was turned down—it was decided she wasn't the right type.

All U.S. Channels Cover Eisenhower Inauguration Monday

Disneyland Tells Atom Story Wednesday; Machen Fights Maxim on Friday

Today's news is tomorrow's history. If this is true then the most interesting note of the week must be the inauguration of U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his vice-president, Richard M. Nixon.

TV viewers will have the opportunity to view the whole affair on all U.S. channels as the three networks plan to cover it live for four hours Monday. Channels 4 and 5 will bring it in at 8 in the morning while Channels 11 and 12 will open up at 8.30. One of the highlights will be the parade to the White House. This is expected to be shown about 10.15 (Victoria time). Some 20,000 will take part in the procession while about 750,000 are expected to line the route.

At 11.15 Monday night Channels 11 and 12 will take spectators to the Inaugural Ball. This will be held in four separate ballrooms but President and Mrs. Eisenhower are expected to visit each of them. Channel 4 will pick up the ball at 11.30.

Another interesting show is Wednesday's Disneyland on Channel 5 at 8, when Walt's animated cartoon will tell of "Our Friend the Atom." This is story of atomic energy, past, present and future as based on the old fable, "The Fisherman and the Genie."

The same night, at 10, Channels 2 and 6 will bring viewers the Stratford Festival version of "Oedipus Rex." This was made on film and directed by England's noted director Tyrone Guthrie.

Here, meanwhile, are other highlights of the forthcoming week in order of their appearance:

INAUGURATION MONDAY — All U.S. networks, Monday morning, will carry live for approximately four hours parade and ceremonies covering the inauguration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon. Above, the president is shown with his wife, Mamie, and son, Major John Eisenhower. Programs will start at 8 a.m. on Channels 4 and 5 and a half-hour later on 11 and 12.

MONDAY

8.00 a.m.: Channels 4,5: Inauguration of President Eisenhower.

8.30 a.m.: Channels 11, 12: Inauguration of President Eisenhower.

7.00 a.m.: Channel 11: Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy star in "The Five-Dollar Bill." The parents of a sensitive teen-ager can't understand their son's interest in books.

7.30: Channel 5: Boff Journey tells of the adventures of Harold Reimer, the Amazon missionary who works among the head-hunters in the jungles of Brazil.

8.00: Channel 5: Danny Thomas sees great talent in a young actress. But the family wonders if Danny isn't attracted more to the girl than to her art.

8.30: Channel 5: Tenor Richard Tucker is heard as guest on the Voice of Firestone concert program.

Channel 11: Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts.

9.00: Channels 11, 12: In the I Love Lucy comedy Lucy and Desi are most upset when little Ricky brings home a puppy. It seems as though the lease says something about no pets.

9.30: Channel 4: Robert Montgomery presents the story of Floyd Collins in "Crisis at Sand Cove." An accident occurs in a two-foot, 200-foot-long tunnel, Jan. 31, 1925.

12 Hikes Power Tonight

Reception From C-11 May Be Endangered

Jerry Lewis Solos Tonight at 9; Odyssey Hunts Sunken Gold Sunday

Tonight's the night Victorians will discover how their favorite Channel 11 reception will stand up under a barrage from Channel 12.

At 10.30 p.m. Bellingham's KVOS-TV will officially boost its power from its current 34,000 kilowatts to a full-power 225,000 kilowatts.

Some technicians here think that Channel 12's blast will harm 11's reception in all areas. Some say it will be felt only in areas where Channel 11 is received weakly. Still others think the power will precipitate no interference whatsoever.

Be that as it may, the answer will be known for sure tonight.

Three top-notch shows highlight the weekend.

Of prime interest to many will be Jerry Lewis' solo effort tonight on Channel 4 at 9. How funny can he be without having his ex-straight man and singer Dean Martin to "bounce" his jokes against?

Appearing with him will be comic Jan Murray; the Aristocrats, a dance team of seven men; dancer-comedienne Georgine Darcy; and the Woody Herman orchestra. Jerry will also have along his 18-year-old singing discovery, Judy Scott, who has been appearing with him in his night-club act.

★ ★ ★

Surely everyone is interested in a treasure hunt? Evidently that's what Odyssey is banking on Sunday afternoon at 1 when live cameras will plumb the depths off Plantation Key, Fla., for a glimpse of Spanish vessels sunk in 1733 by a hurricane. It is known that the ships contained a fortune in gold and precious gems.

The Channels 11 and 12 show will be narrated by Charles Collingwood who will accompany the skin divers in their jaunt down through the inky fathoms.

★ ★ ★

On an historical note, Alistair Cooke and Omnibus will relive history with "Lee at Gettysburg," Sunday, at 9 on Channel 5. Gettysburg, as viewers will remember, was the critical battle of the American Civil War. The 90-minute presentation will focus on Lee's two principal leaders, J. E. B. Stuart and James Longstreet.

It is felt by some historians that Lee lost Gettysburg only because these two men, in their own way and for their own special reasons, let him down. It was also felt that the southern general should have been firmer in his handling of them.

Here are the highlights in order of their appearance:

Prince Rainier Will Film Baby For Pro Cameramen

He is going to use a hand-held silent camera in the nursery to shoot footage for American and European television and newsreel companies. He will turn his salary over to the Monaco Red Cross.

The baby of the prince and Princess Grace is expected soon. The prince had first refused permission for television crews to take pictures of the baby.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

ISN'T IT TRUE . . . ?

That all this fuss, furore and mystery surrounding Terry Sawchuk's retirement from the Boston Bruins is just simply a case of a guy suffering from a nervous break-down . . . and that the Bruins, in the absence of general manager Lynn Patrick, have botched their handling of the case terribly . . . and that Sawchuk will be back with the Bruins this season if he is treated with a little patience and understanding instead of making a criminal out of him . . . and that coach Milt Schmidt's get-tough policy, initiated this year, may have caused Terry's crack-up while Patrick was here in Victoria?

That Al Pollard has the best sports program on television. . .?

And that fried eggs taste infinitely better when the yolks are broken . . .?

And that, with one more Cougar player still to go for the club to comply with the player limit, coach Colin Kilburn faces a stiff decision . . .?

Will Gordy Wilson's bad knee come around sufficiently for him to help the club through the stretch drive . . .? Will Ray Powell still be able to deal off those magnificent passes when he recovers from the broken wrist given to him by black-jacking Pete Durham. . . . And what about Don Chiupka, one of the best checking forwards on the team, but not a proficient goal-scorer. . . . "Chips" could be of great help to the Cougars if they were in a series against Vancouver or Seattle as he could be used to check Phil Maloney or Guyle Fielder. But, when you are fighting to get into the playoffs, can you afford to keep a player just for his defensive ability . . .?

And that, in the last couple of weeks, Chiupka has made the decision tougher by being one of the most improved players on the club . . .?

That Durham said a mouthful on television recently when he explained, "A guy just plays hockey according to his nature . . ."?

That war is hell, parsnips are ghastly but the worst thing in the world is getting up in the morning . . .?

That if the Senior B Basketball League ever did get any paying customers to their games, they would lose them quickly because of the way the players curse at the referees . . .?

And that Peewee Bradshaw's tummy right now contradicts his nick-name . . .?

That the Western Hockey League cannot survive another season like this and that the coast and prairie sections may have to part company . . .?

And that little babies can be described as "the bawl and change . . . "?

That Marcel Pelletier is the best-dressed hockey player outside the NHL . . .?

That the new title of The Racquets Club of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club is great but will never fit into a one-column headline . . .?

That if Alex Macdonald's application to become an Inter-city League referee is turned down, it will be hard for the Victoria Shamrocks to explain to their fans why they are going back into the league, facing the same referees that caused them to walk out of last year's playoffs . . .?

And that little Dougie Bambrough should put in a similar application because people who have seen him work junior games say he is a born referee, in spite of his tender years . . .?

That far too many cheap assists are being handed out in the WHL this year . . .?

That Doug Anderson can be a bell-ringing star in any game, even if he doesn't hit the score-sheet . . .?

That tomato juice, saurkraut and Tabasco sauce is the best early morning wake-up drink there is . . .?

That Paul Clarkson is perfect proof that extra weight and glasses need not stop a basketball player if he has enough hustle and determination . . .?

That the picture of Sal Maglie in Friday morning's paper, shaving his whiskers with an electric razor, makes me wonder about those Gillette commercials he was on . . .?

That the Cougars should write a story called, What's Wrong With Monte Roberts . . .?

That squash is an exciting, demanding game and you would be giving yourself a treat by looking in on the Pacific Northwest Championships . . .?

And that if you ask enough questions, it isn't necessary to think about a column . . .?

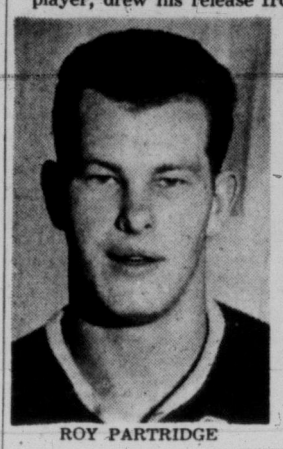
CATS CUT PARTRIDGE; TO JOIN KINGSTON CLUB

Roy Partridge, rookie Victoria Cougar utility player, drew his release from the team Friday night as coach Colin Kilburn continued to pare down the club to meet the 15-player limit, effective in mid-February.



ROY PARTRIDGE

Partridge, who has played forward and defence with the Cougars this season, has been sent to Kingston, Ont., where he will line up with the Western Ontario Senior Amateur Hockey League team.

He follows defenceman Arnott Whitney, who was cut earlier this week and sent to Winnipeg Warriors by the Hershey Bears.

Cougars still must cut one more player to comply with the limit but Kilburn would not comment on the possibility of the next player to go.

Kilburn hopes to have injured centre Ray Powell back in action soon, after missing three weeks with a broken arm.

SHUTTLE CHAMP DROPPED

Harvey Singes Hunt's Hopes

Bob Hunt, who escaped from the badminton frying pan Thursday, was caught in the fire Friday night.

Striving to retain the men's singles crown in the city championships being held at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, Hunt edged past "giant-killer" Mel Chapman Thursday.

But Friday, the heat generated by Harvey Hurd's shots was too much to overcome and Hunt's hopes of a second straight title went up in smoke. Hurd, winner of the host club's junior crown last weekend, singed Hunt in straight sets, 15-13, 17-16, to enter the singles final.

Hurd will tangle tonight with veteran Ed Hedley, who also registered an upset Friday by defeating second-seeded Jim Wells. Hedley came from behind for an 18-16 win in the opening set and grabbed a berth in the final by taking the second set, 15-10.

CHAMP MOVES ON

Maureen Bray continued along the trail of another women's singles championship, moving into the finals with an 11-5, 11-2 triumph over Jane Lee. Opposing Miss Bray tonight will be J. Kelly, who ousted Joyce Folbigg, 11-2, 11-1, in the semis.

Miss Bray and Mrs. Kelly will combine in the women's doubles final against Joyce MacDonald and Muriel Knott while Hedley and Dunc Tolson will meet Wells and Reg Hedley for the men's doubles diadem.

Tonight's draw follows:

"A" DIVISION

7.00 p.m.—Ladies' singles, M. Bray vs. J. Kelly.

7.30 p.m.—Men's sinsles, H. Hurd vs. E. Hedley.

8.00 p.m.—Ladies' doubles, J. MacDonald and M. Knott vs. M. Bray and J. Kelly.

8.30 p.m.—Men's doubles, E. Hedley and D. Tolson vs. J. Wells and R. Hoadley.

9.00 p.m.—Mixed doubles, C. King and L. Tolson vs. J. MacDonald and G. Lane.

9.30 p.m.—Veteran doubles, J. Wells and R. Hoadley vs. G. Lane and R. Knott.

"B" DIVISION

7.30 p.m.—Men's singles, W. Bell vs. D. Tolson.

Fluke Goals Help Flyers Tie Amerks

Even though Dame Fortune skated alongside the Edmonton Flyers Friday night, they had to settle for a 4-4 overtime tie with the Seattle Americans.

Most of Edmonton's good luck meant tough luck for Seattle goalie Emile Francis during the Western Hockey League exchange game.

The Flyers pushed three flukey goals behind Francis and drew abreast of the Coast leaders on each occasion.

The Winnipeg Warriors, cellar habitues of the Prairie division, relied on high-calibre hockey for their 3-2 victory over the unrelenting Brandon Regals.

BUSY NIGHT

Goaltender Francis was the busiest player on the ice at Edmonton. He turned back 50 shots.

The Flyers got their first lucky break midway through the second period after Guyle Fielder and Eddie Dorohoy had built up a 2-0 lead with a goal apiece.

Edmonton's Tony Leswick passed the puck from behind the Seattle goal. The puck caromed off the leg of Seattle defenceman Fred Creighton and rolled into the net.

Francis had even less chance on Edmonton's second goal. It resulted from a goal-mouth scramble and was credited to Murray Costello.

Seattle forward Alex Kuzma was the goat of Edmonton's next good fortune. The puck flipped up during a face-off near the Seattle goal and bounced off Kuzma's chest into the net.

The goal nullified one scored earlier in the third period by Ray Kinasewich and forced the game into overtime.

Table Manners Ignored As Cougars Eat and Run

Marcel Hurt But Stops Vancouver

The Victoria Cougars ate quickly and digested slowly Friday night in Vancouver.

The result was a hearty 3-2 victory over the Vancouver Canucks that left the Cougars only three points out of second place in the Western Hockey League's coast division and the Cats can make that only a one-point deficit if they come up with a victory tonight in New Westminster.

The Cougars bolted down two goals in the first one and one-half minutes of play and then sat back and waited until the third period, when Wayne Brown supplied the dessert, scoring the winning goal on a dramatic breakaway.

MARCEL CUT

The Cougars paid for their repast, though. Goalie Marcel Pelletier, who stood on his ear to thwart the powerful Vancouver team, was cut on the back of the right hand in the third period and the game was held up for 10 minutes while he had three stitches taken in the cut. He returned to play out the rest of the game and will be back in the nets tonight.

Victoria's two first-period goals, by Colin Kilburn and defenceman Nelson Bulloch, held up, Wayne Brown providing the winning goal in the third period.

Vancouver's goals, by Jackie McLeod and Bill Wylie, in the second and third periods, were the high points of a generally ragged performance.

Only six penalties were handed out in the game, four to Victoria.

SETS REBOUND

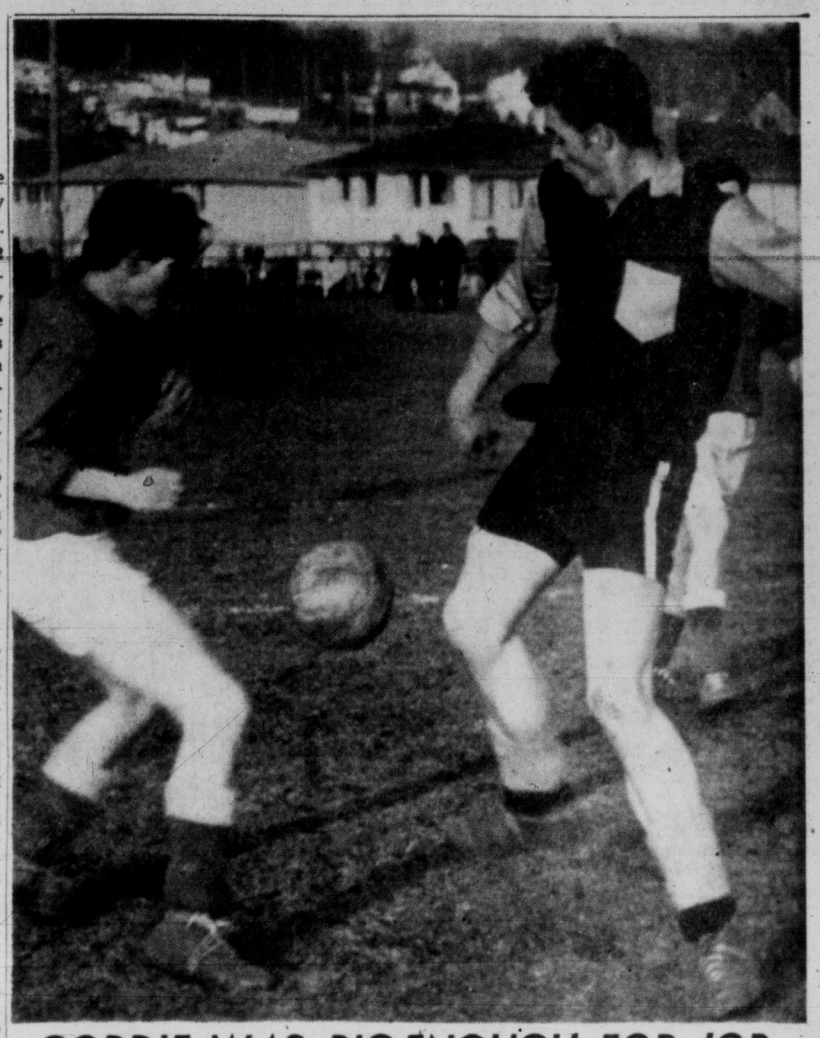
Kilburn's goal came after only 58 seconds of play. His first light shot against Mikulan from five feet out was stopped. He took the rebound and with another light tap, put it into the left-hand corner.

Only 27 seconds later, Bulloch, with George Ranieri and Gordie Haworth, blasted a long one in on a passout from the corner.

McLeod was the only second-period scorer. He took the puck from Ching Johnson during a Vancouver power play and loosed a clean shot from 15 feet out, directly in front of Pelletier.

Brown counted at 5.16 of the third period on a clean breakaway from centre ice. He hot-footed it in and banged a hard one into the left-hand corner.

Pelletier was cleanly beaten on Wylie's goal at 10.36, a low clear shot, after taking a long pass from Alf Cadman.



GORDIE WAS BIG ENOUGH FOR JOB

Little Gordie McBride (left) of Oak Bay took on a big job at Carnarvon Park Friday as he checked towering Lance Rutherford in deciding match of inter-high school senior soccer final. High-scoring Rutherford was held without a goal but Vic High chalked up a 3-0 victory to advance to the B.C. final.

Collett Grows Up Fast In Vic High Soccer Win

Tom Collett is just an average-sized soccer player. But on occasion, he can become a positive giant.

Tom was the king-sized hero of Victoria High School's senior soccer championship victory Friday afternoon as he bashed in all three goals as the Vics ended the extended series with a 3-0 victory over Oak Bay High School.

Victory, which came in the fourth game of what was originally a best-of-three series, did not come easily.

While the score was fairly indicative of play, there were some anxious moments for Vic High coach Keith Long, as only sensational work by goalie Robin Barnes kept the Oak Bay club scoreless.

Hustling from the opening whistle, Long's squad seemed determined not to repeat the mistakes that had given Oak Bay a 2-1 win in the first game, and almost lost them the third clash, which eventually ended in a 2-2 deadlock, forcing the extra game of the series.

Bernie Johnston, between the posts for Oak Bay, managed to keep the V's off the score sheets only until midway through the first half.

At the ten-minute mark, Collett received a pass from Lance Rutherford, juggled the ball with his foot and lobbed it into the corner well beyond Johnston's reach.

With seconds remaining in the first period and action again centred around the Oak Bay goalmouth, Collett booted his second marker from a large scramble of players.

A determined Oak Bay attack petered out in the second half as Collett completed his hat-trick after taking a well-placed kick from Ron Pederson.

Late in the game Rutherford was placed on the injury list when a kick in the ankle resulted in a painful bone bruise.

Vic High now prepares for the B.C. high school championship, tentatively scheduled for Vancouver next weekend, but they will have to go along without the services of Tommy Wyatt, who suffered a broken nose during the game and will be out of action for any further games.

Game Club Sets Meeting Tuesday Night

Annual meeting of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will be held at Liberal headquarters, 1322 Government Street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Included on the agenda will be election of officers and discussion of this year's program.

The game club, which has applied for the 1958 provincial game convention, is the voice of sportsmen in the Victoria area.

Often hampered in its efforts to obtain better hunting and angling conditions by a shortage of members, the VFGPA is seeking a larger membership to give it more authority in meetings with affiliated game clubs.

All sportsmen are invited to attend Tuesday's meeting.

Shrine Game Realizes $47,000 for Charity

VANCOUVER (CP) — The second annual Shrine all-star football game, played at Empire Stadium here Dec. 8, resulted in a profit of $47,111 for Shrine hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg, it was announced today.

Jack Streight, publicity chairman for Gizeh Temple in Vancouver, said the net revenue was more than double the net from the first annual game the year before in Toronto. The take at Toronto was $21,750.

The profit came on total revenue of $108,238, up more than $20,000 from the gross at Toronto of $80,000.

Streight said the money will provide treatment for almost 500 youngsters at the Shrine hospitals.

The audited statement showed gross revenue from ticket sales of $88,369, provincial amusement tax took $8,033, but half will be returned since the game was for charity.

Payment of players, coaches, trainers and team officials took the biggest slice of the money —$18,525. Members of the West team, which won 35-0, earned $350 and the losing Eastern All-Stars got $250 each.

Transportation for team members totaled $15,368. Empire Stadium was rented from the Pacific National Exhibition for $13,550, but the PNE returned $3,550 as a donation.

Insurance was a big item. The Shrine insured each player at a cost of $3,005 and paid out another $1,102 in insurance to cover the promoters in event of fog.

At least some of the insurance will be collected. Three players on the West squad—Mel Becket and Gord Sturtridge, both of Saskatchewan Roughriders, and Cal Jones of Winnipeg were among 62 persons killed in the crash of a TCA North Star the night after the game. The plane has not been found.

ON THE ALLEYS

10-Pin Band Wagon Jammed

It looks like everybody wants to get in on the act this year in the Victoria tenpin championships.

Manager Rod Hendry at Gibson's reports that entries are rolling in, with the roll-off a good two weeks away yet. Already, 38 team entries have been received, well over the team record. And it looks like entry totals are going to be broken all around.

Championships will be held Feb. 3 and 10 at Gibson's. There will be three events: singles, doubles, and team, plus the all-events title.

Wilbur Webb is the defending champion in the singles bracket, but he's due for a lot of competition this year.

Take Cec Dixon, who is also touted for a berth in the B.C. tenpin championships in Victoria in March. Cec blasted out a 615 (222) triple in the Strathcona senior this week, and followed it up with a 571 (215) in Gibson's senior.

Dixon's game was the only 600 series rolled this week in tenpin circles. Following him up at Strathcona was W. Smith with 598 (215, 201) and T. Bowcott, 574 (230). Notable singles went to J. Roper, 214; L. Oberg, 213; N. Chandler, 208 and R. Maysmith, 207. Ian McKeachie led the commercial with 540, while Cy Waters topped the mixed with 554.

* * *

At Gibson's, Gordie Bamford tied Dixon with 571 (209, 203), followed by Jack Bacon, 562 (205); W. Smith, 553 (203) and C. Sapala, 541, (211). In Gibson's commercial, George Gunniss led the pack with 567 (228), followed by B. Hill, 542; W. Mowat, 541; H. Sinden, 538, and Doug Elford, 533 (208). R. Harris turned in a 205 single.

Wilbur Webb's 581 (202) led the mixed, followed by Len Murrant with 557. Colin Corbett with 207; Pat Graham with 202 and Bill Coates, 201, turned in singular efforts, while Gladys Cornthswaite led the girls with 507. Hope Graham with 482 triple and Lolly Hughes with 177 led the the ladies league.

* * *

And Roy Begg at Strathcona reports that time is open Monday night at 9 for a commercial tenpin league. Anyone interested is to get in touch with him.

* * *

In fivepins, Charlie Pugh stole the thunder this week with a 910 triple at Gibson's, a season's record there. Bowling in the Dockyard League, Charlie hit for 334, 265 and 311. D. Beecher came up with a 346 single.

In the commercial five at Gibson's, Cy Wallis with 804 and B. Burrows with 737 led the way, while Harold Gent's 709 was the class of the major loop.

* * *

Over at Esquimalt, Alex Pylypa managed an 817 triple without hitting the 300 circle once. He was followed by Frank Morgan with 799 (371); Geoff Worrall, 797; Ben Price, 780; A. Smith, 773; Fred Worsley, 773 (303) and J. Craig, 338, and Ruth McWhorter, 332, as top singles.

At Strathcona, Bert Fogden led the Letter Carriers with 747 (296), while Bill Sanderson turned in a 303.

Viking Views

By ROBIN FARQUHAR

Having gained their "second wind" during the Christmas holidays, sports at Victoria College have once again broken into full stride,

Leading the way in the second lap of active competition is the men's rugby team.

Last term it was felt, by those who should know, that the college rugby team was not of a high enough calibre to be entered in the city's first division.

When members of the James Bay team spoke of the Vikings at a Rugby Union meeting, it was with a marked air of confident superiority. The Bays felt that the college squad was in a class far below that occupied by themselves and the Oak Bay Wanderers.

So, the college team decided to drop to the second division and a try at the provincial title for that league, playing only occasional exhibition games with the local first division units.

It seems, however, that some of the Vikings made some pretty potent New Year's resolutions, because last Saturday they handed the James Bay crowd a rather jolting surprise.

With Firm Purpose

Vikings hit the field with one purpose in mind, to show their adversaries that they were not the meek-and-mild-type students they were supposed to be.

Stew Smith, elected captain of the college fifteen in a pre-game meeting, scored the first points of the contest, skilfully splitting the uprights on a penalty kick.

Bays came back with a fast try to tie it up, but John Davies put the Vikings out on top again with a nice run around the left wing. Just before the half-time whistle, the Bays evened the score again as their powerful scrum, took the ball over from a couple of yards out. All three convert attempts failed.

Neither team scored in the second half as possession of the ball was equally shared until about five minutes from the end of the game.

At this time, Bob Abbott found a hole in the college backfield and plunged over for the winning try. This time the conversion was good, giving Bays the win.

But the Bays knew that they had been up against a team of their own calibre, and coach Ed Bourke admitted after the game that he was "surprised" at the drive of the collegians.

Vikings are looking forward to a possible re-match in the future as well as an encounter with the Wanderers, the other top-rated first division team.

Earn Rep Notice

Saturday's game was good enough to prompt Doug Bray, coach of Victoria's Crimson Tide, to invite four of the college students to try out for the reps.

Those asked were Stew Smith, Bob McKee, Mike Kaye and Doug Graham, all members of the powerful Viking scrum.

Other term-commencing action saw the men's basketball team lose a close game to a Morrisons-Drakes squad by a narrow four-point margin.

The Vikings soccer team won their first post-Christmas encounter by downing Oak Bay High School on the strength of two goals by Russ Shipley and one each by Doug Stewart and Sandy Graham.

The women's basketball team was downed last weekend by the Victoria senior B's. Next Friday night they will play Victoria High School girls in a preliminary match to a game between the college men and the Vic High Totems.

And that covers college sports action up to date since Christmas. The future looks good for the various Vikings teams as they start to move through their action-packed second-term schedules.

Exhibition Badminton Won by Belmont Team

Belmont defeated St. John's, 9-7, in a friendly Lower Island Badminton League match played at the St. John's courts Thursday night.

Belmopt earned the victory with a 5-3 margin in mixed doubles matches after the two clubs had finished women's and men's doubles events in a 4-4 deadlock.

IT'S GETTING TO BE A HABIT

Winning Vancouver Island curling titles is getting to be a habit with the Nanaimo rink of, left to right, Margaret Fuller, skip; Pat Hood, third; Sylvia Koster, second, and Edna Quimey, lead, who proudly hold crests emblematic of third successive crown, won at Duncan Friday. It was fourth straight year Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Hood and Mrs. Quimey have won Island title crests. Rink will represent Island in B.C. finals. (Flett Studio Photo.)

Nanaimo Rinks Capture Berths in Zone Finals

DUNCAN — Mrs. Margaret Fuller of Nanaimo will represent Vancouver Island for the fourth consecutive year when the B.C. zone women's curling finals are held at Nanaimo Feb. 20, 21, 22 and 23.

Mrs. Fuller, who finished with six straight victories in the Vancouver Island finals here, will be joined by Mrs. Minnie Holm, also of Nanaimo, in the provincial playdown.

Both Nanaimo rinks went through Friday's final games without a loss. Mrs. Fuller kept her record untarnished by downing Beulah Gilday of Duncan and Mary McKay of Victoria while Mrs. Holm finished the seven-rink round-robin with a 5-1 record as she polished off rinks skipped by Mrs. Gilday, Ann Langley of Victoria and Duncan's Fannie Berkey.

Mrs. Fuller, Pat Hood, who tossed third rocks for the top rink, and Edna Quimey, lead, have curled on the same rink in three previous B.C. finals. Sylvia Koster, second, has been with the quartet for two finals.

Mrs. Holm is also no stranger to provincial playdowns, skipping a rink in the annual event five years ago.

Other members of Mrs. Holm's rink are Irene Schroh, Marg Swanson and Helen McKinnon.

WEIGHT BATTLE STARTED TERRY'S PUCK TROUBLES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Terry Sawchuk has never been the same since he went on a strict diet to lose weight while playing for Detroit Red Wings, his mother said Friday.

Mrs. Sawchuk said here he weighed 210 pounds when he started dieting and lost about 50 pounds.

The hockey star's father, Louis Sawchuk, said he expects to hear from his son "momentarily." He said he planned a trip to Detroit but now feels the situation is being ironed out.

HARNEY IN LEAD, BUT . . .

Doug Ford Favored In Caliente Open

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP)—Durable Doug Ford, undefeated on the 1957 tournament trail, was installed as a 3-1 favorite to win the $15,000 Caliente Open Golf Tournament today—despite the fact he was in second place as the event went into the final 36 holes.

Paul Harney, a 27-year-old newcomer to the tournament trail from Bolton, Mass., was in front after firing a blistering 65 Friday to add to an opening round of 70 for a 135 total.

But Ford, the clever former PGA champion who never had won a winter tournament until he captured the Los Angeles Open the first week of this year and then triumphed in the Panama City Open, was only one stroke off the pace. He was tied at 136 with Al Besselink, after each man posted a five-under-par 67.

None of the Canadian players were able to make the list of leaders. Best score was that of Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., who came in with 72-68—140. The scores by the other Canadians: Gerry Kesselring, Toronto, 70-73—143; Bill Mahwinny, Vancouver, 72-71—143; Jack Kay, Montreal, 71-74—145; Al Balding, Erindale, Ont., 77-72—149; Murray Tucker, Toronto, 77-74—151; John Henrick, Ottawa, 81-76—157; and George Knudson, Winnipeg, 76-86—162.

In this big betting tourney, Besselink, Harney, Julius Boros and Ed Furgol are rated at 8-1. Boros and Furgol each have 139 scores, along with Harry Weetman, the Englishman, and Billy Casper, a young shotmaker from nearby Chula Vista, Calif.

But with all the betting, Harney stole the show Friday.

He had nine birdies while compiling a 34-31 score. He now has collected 15 birdies while playing 36 holes, but six bogies kept him from making a runaway of the show.

"I've never hit so many good iron shots in my life," said Harney after he posted his 65. "I'm laying most every shot up there to within six feet, it seems. If I can keep on doing that I should do all right."

Byng Hands Vic High First Loss

Vic High Totems dropped their first basketball game of the new year Friday night, 51-48, but they gave Lord Byng High School of Vancouver a battle.

Trailing 26-17 at the half, the Totems narrowed the margin to 41-39 at the three-quarter mark and managed to tie it up minutes later.

The Byng squad sank two field goals, however, and with that comfortable margin proceeded to keep things even from there on in.

Top scorer for the Vancouver club was Eddie Fyfe, who is also their smallest player. Fyfe potted 11 points as he master-minded the ball handling of his six-feet-plus teammates.

Dave Wilson led the Vic High squad with 17 points.

Reds Regain Lead in AHL

By The Canadian Press

Providence Reds regained the American Hockey League lead Friday night by holding the Rochester Americans to a 1-1 overtime tie.

The other game of the night, which also went into overtime, saw the tail-end Springfield Indians upset the third-place Cleveland Barons 3-2.

At Rochester, veteran Bronco Horvath beat Johnny Bower early in the first period to account for half the scoring. Providence waited until the final 66 seconds of the game to pull abreast on Bruce Cline's goal.

At Cleveland, Bob Bailey fired the winner at 1.39 of the overtime period. The other Springfield goals were credited to Jimmy Anderson and George Bouchard.

The Cleveland marksmen were Jack Gordon and Jimmy Moore, playing with a broken nose.

A's Drop C-Fun

ALBERNI (CP) — Alberni Athletics, led by centre Don Kregeo with 24 points, downed Vancouver C-Fun 89-85 in an exhibition basketball game at Alberni before some 700 fans Friday night.

Bob Pickell, one of Vancouver's top senior "A" players, racked up a 27-point total for C-Fun. Ron Bissett's 18 points, coupled with Krego's outstanding performance, turned the tide for the Athletics.

Scots Finally Win--- Only 249 Points Shy

WINNIPEG (CP)—The touring Scottish curlers, beginning the last half of their 20-game cross-Canada Strathcona Cup matches Friday, edged five Manitoba rinks 3-2 in matches and 62-46 in points. The Scots cut into the large Canadian lead in the series, and after an official check it reads 692-443.

The visitors were lead by J. F. Jock Waugh, who scored his second win over Manitoba rinks. He defeated two-time Canadian champion Ab Gowanlock of Dauphin, 18-6. Waugh, on Thursday, defeated H. Hindle of Winnipeg, 15-10.

Other Scottish wins were W. G. Piper over Jack Howatt of Glenboro, 19-9, and J. McWhirter over Errick F. Willis of Winnipeg, 11-9.

Mel Jenkins of Winnipeg eased passed William Mitchell, 9-8, while the second Manitoba victory was scored by Cam Haig, also of Winnipeg, over W. S. Henderson, 13-6.

Thursday, Manitoba took four of the five matches.

'Got To Be That Way', Says Terry

TORONTO (BUP) — Goalie Terry Sawchuk, who quit the Boston Bruins this week in a mystery move, said Friday night his decision "wasn't an overnight thought."

"I know it's not fair to people in hockey or to people who follow hockey, but it has got to be that way," the 27-year-old netminder said in a live television interview from Detroit on the CBC's "Graphic" program.

Sawchuk, who was voted top goalie in the National Hockey League, had dodged newsmen earlier during a train trip from New York to Detroit, but Joe McCulley, provost of Hart House in the University of Toronto, reached him on the TV program.

Sawchuck answered questions from his Detroit home while McCulley put them from a CBC studio in Toronto.

Sawchuck said he was going to work for a Detroit tool and die engineering company, and had no immediate plans except to visit his family in Winnipeg.

"I've always wanted to be a professional hockey player," he said. "Everything is kind of indefinite. I don't know what is going to become of it, but I should know in a month or so."

He said he had played hockey both as a sport and as a job, especially as a sport, before he was married.

Sawchuck's wife, Pat, who also appeared on the interview, said she was "glad Terry is leaving hockey and it is good to have him home again."

They have a two-year-old son, Gerry, and a six-month-old daughter, Jo Ann.

Sawchuck said he would "do the same again" as he had done over the past 10 years. His love for hockey would "never die," he said.

Sawchuck had brushed off newsmen's questions earlier in the day, but he told them: "I'll tell you the whole story next Monday at noon at my home."

SKI HEIL!

New Snow Like Magnet For Skiers

By A. SITZMARK

According to all reports coming in from Vancouver Island ski areas, this weekend should be one of the best for some time.

A repeat of last weekend's perfect conditions is almost a certainty, and Sunday should see every able-bodied member of the Victoria Sno Birds Ski Club fastening on planks to enjoy the new snow.

Stu Macleod's snowplow-equipped jeep is all set to clear the road to the bottom of the "short cut" on Mount Brenton, and among those going in to the cabin for the weekend will be Al and Betty Brawn, Audrey Emery, Denny Coverdale, Bud Peetz, Barbara Davies, Bob, Art and Thelma Davies, Dave Robson and Anita Clark.

A large party, headed by Theo and Grace Waters is planning to take advantage of more adjacent snow for day-skiing on the Renfrew Road, beyond Kapoor.

Either party welcomes new enthusiasts, whether good skiiers or novices. For further information contact Betty Brawn, 8-3489.

No Wide Open Spaces In Tiny Squash Pit

By BILL RAYNER

One thing about squash racquet players, they don't suffer from claustrophobia.

A peek over the edge of the pit at Victoria Squash Club courts at the Sussex Hotel Friday night at the start of the Pacific Coast Championships gave one an unobstructed view of four white walls and a floor.

The players smash an India-rubber ball around this cube with bouncing it off the walls, the floor and, occasionally, their opponents.

This game won't do for those that like the wide open spaces. The court is 32 ft. in length; 21 ft. in width and the front and side walls are 15 ft. in height. A bit of a bottomless pit for anyone who can't stand being shut up.

Even the spectators are virtually ignored in this sport. At Victoria Squash Club, they get to look down on the players from a tiny balcony at the back of the two courts. That's all. There's not even a popcorn concession.

COMES OF AGE

Despite the insular aspects of this sport, squash racquets comes of age in Victoria this weekend, with the staging of the first Pacific Coast tournament ever held in the city.

Things got under way at the squash club Friday night. Play in men's A and B and veterans' classes will continue today at the Sussex, while C and D and women's divisions play at HMCS Naden court.

But, what with close to 100 of the 127 entrants coming from outside the city, Dr. Kemble Greenwood, in charge of things, was having a strenuous time himself Friday without even stepping on the courts.

"Things are a bit chaotic right now," he told the Times, "but we have the draws ready and we're just waiting for the players to show up."

And show up they did, all the way from defending "A" class champion Gene Hoover of Vancouver to the smallest, bubbliest woman entrant.

Hoover and Seattle's Ted Clarke, who are favored to meet in the final for the second straight year, both won their matches. Hoover had a lengthy struggle before ousting Bill Atkinson of Seattle, 15-10, 11-15, 15-4, 7-15, and 15-9, but Clarke had an easier path into the second round, downing John Waldron of the RCN, 15-10, 15-12, 15-11.

Dr. Greenwood, Victoria singles champ, defeated Tom MacDonald, 15-16, 15-2, 16-14.

Competition continues at the Sussex and HMCS Naden courts tonight and all finals will be played at the host club courts Sunday.

Tiger Jones Wins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ralph Tiger Jones, Yonkers, N.Y., middleweight, won a unanimous 10-round decision Friday night over Hardy Bazooka Smallwood of Brooklyn in a nationally-televised boxing match. Jones weighed 156, Smallwood 158½.

Jones, a 4-to-1 favorite over his less-experienced foe, won easily. The fight was a substitute for the championship scrap between welterweight titleholder Carmen Basilio and Johnny Saxton, which was moved back to Feb. 22 because of a Basilio injury.

There were no knockdowns but Smallwood's face was a bloody mess from the third round on. Jones had a slight forehead abrasion to show for the scuffle.

ORFU REBUFFED

Big Four Rejects Interlocking Bid

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union, with its bid for a partial interlocking schedule with the Big Four Football Union rebuffed, today will learn if the same league will support its move to return to Grey Cup competition.

The Big Four decision will be made at its annual meeting, held here along with the annual sessions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the Canadian Football Council, which governs both Canada's two major professional loops. All meetings are closed to the press.

The ORFU representatives were told at the first of two-day Big Four sessions Friday that an interlocking schedule would not be feasible because of the lack of playing dates and the expense involved.

SUGGEST U.S. DRAFT

The Big Four heard reports from committees and its commissioner, Judge Allan Fraser of Ottawa, and also set up committees on rule changes, rosters, cutoff dates on imports, relations with the National Football League in the United States, and negotiation lists.

The WIFU also set up committees to study matters similar to those of the Big Four. The rules committee again was expected to ask for additional blocking but no proposals for radical rule changes were indicated.

EYE ON OFFICIALS

Some concern was shown by western delegates about the brand of officiating. They empowered commissioner G. Sydney Halter to appoint a "commissioner's officiating representative" who will attend all league games Halter cannot attend.

B.C. Lions Sign Two More Imports

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Lions, of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, announced this week the signing of two more United States players for the 1957 season.

Signing $10,000 contracts were O'Day Williams, an end, and fullback Vernon Hallbeck. Williams and Hallbeck played last year for Texas Christian, victors in the 1956 Cotton Bowl.

RAIN ENDS PLAY

PIETERMARITZBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—A rain and hail storm ended play for the day before the tea break when England's touring MCC cricket club had scored 137 for three wickets against Natal here today.

Packers Sign Garrett

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers announced Friday Bobby Garrett, former Stanford University quarterback, has signed a 1957 National Football League contract and will be available to the Packers this fall.

Leafs' Smith Makes Critics Eat 'Over-the-Hill' Words

The sideline critics who are quick to tell a National Hockey League player he is over the hill, frequently are nowhere to be found when he begins to climb back up.

Take the case of Toronto Maple Leafs' Sid Smith, a hawk-nosed 31-year-old left-winger.

Last year Smith had one of the most dismal slumps an acknowledged star ever suffered. A two-time winner of the Lady Byng Trophy for the league's most gentlemanly player and a seven-year man with Leafs, he went from a 33-goal, 21-assist season which gave him an all-star berth to a four-goal, 17-assist year.

The critics were on him immediately. He was all washed up, they said.

Smith apparently agreed with his critics to some extent. He resigned the captaincy of the Leafs and took a voluntary pay cut, with promises of a raise if he improved.

But he stuck it out and gradually began to find his scoring touch. Though he's still not setting the league afire, he has counted 10 goals and assisted on 17 others with 27 games left in the schedule.

Smith himself isn't sure of the explanation for his return to form, but he thinks his trouble last year was partly that he was trying to fill the skates of the retired Ted Kennedy.

"I kept trying to do the things Teeder used to do," the Toronto native says. "All that happened was that I didn't do my own job."

Right now, Leafs are grimly hanging on to fourth place, one point ahead of New York Rangers, who have two games in hand. Tonight they are host to third-place Boston Bruins, having their own share of troubles after a brilliant start, and Sunday they go to Boston for the return match.

Rangers have the difficult task of trying to improve their status against first-place Montreal Canadiens in Montreal tonight and Sunday are at home to second-place Detroit Red Wings, an equally uninviting evening.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Early Spring Is Time To Plant Strawberries

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. I have two flats of dwarf strawberries grown from seed last year. Some have blossoms already, can I set out the plants now into prepared soil on a warm day? M.E.B., Brentwood.

A. Although your plants will be perfectly winter hardy once they are growing outdoors, it is not advisable to plant them out now from the protection of a greenhouse. Wait until good weather in early spring. You probably have one of the alpine strain which is so delicious. Remove all flowers until the plants are established in the garden.

Q. Do you know where I could buy a portable cold frame, such as is sold in England, made of some slate composition which is impervious to mildew, rot and termites? M.E.B., Brentwood.

A. Our files reveal no information on such structures as you mention. The weight would likely prevent their exportation to this country.

WHY WAIT UNTIL SPRING?

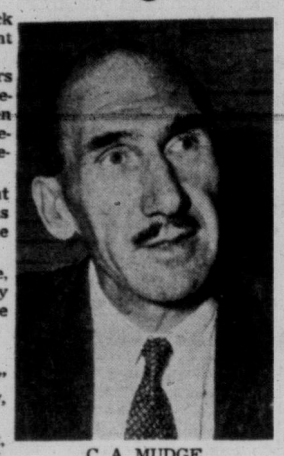
'Do It Now' House Repair Drive Aimed at Easing Unemployment

A concerted campaign to pick up the seasonal unemployment slack in Victoria has started.

Civic and business leaders have thrown their weight behind a push to utilize tradesmen for household repairs now, before traditional spring "revamps."

This way, much of the present residue of unemployed persons can have winter work in the contracting trades.

The campaign is nation-wide, and has been pinpointed here by National Employment Office manager C. A. Mudge.



C. A. MUDGE
. . . do it now!

DO IT NOW

Arrange for work in the "off" season, he says. "Do it now, why wait for spring?"

While Victoria and district, due to mild climate, is not affected to the same extent as many other communities, "nonetheless our unemployment doubles during the winter months."

Peak of employment is reached in mid-September when there is an average of 1,800 without work here. Then the numbers of jobless increase, and at the start of February, total of average jobless is about 3,600.

LEVEL OUT

"Habit is strong," says Mr. Mudge, "and our buying and marketing habits and traditional attitudes toward the season have continued to place a drag on progress towards levelling out the economy between summer and winter.

Winter, he goes on, is the time for alterations, repairs, maintenance work and renovation around home and business.

The reasons why?

Skilled tradesmen are now available to do this work immediately. They won't be available during the busy summer months.

BETTER WORK

Money can be saved, as when tradesmen are not rushed better work is done. This means economy. Also, some firms discount at this time of year.

Deliveries and services are more prompt because the demand isn't heavy.

If home or business is built during the winter, one can move in much earlier than if spring was awaited before construction. Consequently there is a financial saving.

In addition, employment created for workmen who are now idle results in a saving in community welfare costs—which is a saving to the householder or businessman.

PROSPER

And more employed persons means more pay cheques which in turn means a more prosperous community.

Where everybody works, everybody benefits.

Heres' what two community leaders think of the campaign:

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele: "It is an excellent thing, this winter work. Householders should definitely think ahead. After all, it is too their own advantage as costs are spread, not lumped together in the spring."

Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris: "As an idea it is excellent, and the only appeal that can be made is to the people. They should have explanations as to how winter work can be advantageous to them."

BEASTALL ADVISES

Public Library Well Supplied With Garden Books in Variety

A letter signed "Seven Oaks" asks where in the Victoria Public Library can one find any of the gardening books referred to in this column. It continues, "There is half a shelf of gardening books on the main floor and that appears to be the sum total. Does this indicate the balance are in the homes of Victoria gardeners all the time?"

In answer to the last question I would say that while gardening books are popular with Victorians, only a small percentage of the library's entire collection are on loan at any given time.

The "half shelf" on the main floor contains only the most recent additions and these are in constant demand. To obtain a wanted title from this section it is best to place a "reserve" at the desk.

To reserve any book, leave the title, together with your name and address at the desk and you will be notified as soon as the book returns to circulation.

BIG SECTION

It is upstairs on the balcony that the main shelves of gardenbooks are to be found. The section number is 635, and if my memory is not failing too badly, related books pertaining to soil, conservation, farming and so forth will be found from about section 630 onwards.

In addition to the books in these sections are encyclopedias, monographs, and dictionaries of gardening which may be perused in the reference room. While these may not be borrowed, one is at liberty to copy any information desired.

The card index files on the main floor will supply most of the information a borrower requires in regard to books available, scope of text, and authors, and when all else fails to turn up the book you seek, the competent assistants are at your service.

Speaking of gardening and plant encyclopedias, it sometimes happens a good dictionary is the book in which to find the answer. That was the case when Q.K. asked if sago and tapioca are the seeds of plants or manufactured products.

FROM PALMS

Neither are seeds but both are made from parts of plants. Sago comes from the pith of certain East Indian palms and is the common name of these palms—the sago palms.

Tapioca is a starch prepared from the fleshy roots of the bitter cassava, or manioc. The word comes from the Portuguese "tipioca," being "tipi," the dregs, plus "ok" to squeeze.

While on the subject of reference books, nothing beats the seed catalogues for down-to-earth gardening information at a minimum cost, namely a postage stamp.

GET ON LISTS

If you have not received a dozen seed catalogues by this date, get out the old seed packetes and write to firms whose names appear on them, asking to be placed on their mailing list and for a copy of their 1957 catalogue. Several firms adpertise their catalogues in the newspapers.

A week ago a young lad came into a local store and asked if the new seed catalogues had arrived. Surprised, the clerk sought his reason and he replied "I'm making a scrap book of all the plant pictures and their names."

Such a statement from a 12-year-old intrigued me and I started asking questions which elicited the information that this young man intends to be a park superintendant. He added, "But I won't get anywhere unless I know all the plants and this is the cheapest way to learn."

Maybe there is a lesson in that statement for us dirt dobbers!

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Tubers of gloxinia, begonia, gesnera and achimenes (known in some parts as Cupid's Bower) may all be started into growth if light, warm accommodation can be provided.

If weather is mild, slugs will appear in greenhouse and cold frames. Bait carefully so that pets, children and birds do not contact the poison. Collect the slugs each morning for disposal.

Cuttings of garden chrysanthemums which have been dug and stored, may be taken now.

Spread manure or well rotted compost on asparagus bed.

Radishes may be sown in cold frame if weather mild.

Prick out the tomato seedlings sown last week of December. Use 3-inch pots for first move, then direct into final 7-inch pots. Use no fertilizer until first fruits are set.

Watch closely for seed germination after sowing indoors. Light and air must be given immediately, or trouble brews quickly in the form of damping off, or legginess and general weakness.

Check frequently all fruit and vegetables in storage. Rot develops unexpectedly, and spreads rapidly. Use produce at once if a soft spot is noticed.

Woman Hooked By Speeding Car

Tots Narrowly Escape; Drinking Driver Fined

A Milnes Landing logger pleaded guilty in Sooke RCMP court today to impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident Friday afternoon when he knocked down a woman pedestrian.

Edward Frederick George was fined $250 or three months in jail for hit-and-run and $50 or 15 days on the impaired charge.

He told the court that he would serve time in jail instead of paying the fines.

Victim of the accident, Mrs. Miriam Welsh, 33, of Sooke, was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with a deep gash on her arm.

RCMP said Mrs. Welch was walking along the highway through the village with her two small children when she was struck.

Police said she saw the car approaching and steered a stroller with one child off to the side of the road and walked clear herself with the other youngster holding her hand.

DOOR HANDLE

As the car sped by, the door handle caught her arm and she was hurled to the ground. The car kept on going.

Police said the accident could have been much more serious if Mrs. Welsh had not guided the children off the roadway.

George was arrested at the Elder Logging Co. camp at Muir Creek, about 10 miles from Sooke, at 5.15 p.m., about three-quarters of an hour after the accident.

RCMP said his car was identified by witnesses.

George admitted later that he had stopped at a cafe about a quarter of a mile from the accident scene and bought some cigarets.

THREW IT AWAY

He saw a piece of the woman's coat hanging on the door handle and threw it away.

Two men and a woman were riding in the car with him.

George's car was observed before the accident traveling at a high rate of speed on the Sooke Road.

Besides the jail term, George's driver's licence was suspended for one year.

Mrs. Welsh was struck in the village about 500 yards from the RCMP station.

Canada Owes Money to POWs, Says Victorian

Hong Kong Veteran Denies Overpayment

Canada still owes internment money to Canadian ex-prisoners of the Japanese, captured at Hong Kong early in the Second World War, a Victoria ex-POW claimed today.

Lionel Speller, Vancouver Island representative of the Hong Kong Veterans' Association, denied a claim by an Ottawa official that three times the amount owing Canadian ex-prisoners from a fund administered by the Red Cross has already been paid by the government.

"They still owe us money," he said. "This official says we have been paid three times as much as the Geneva Red Cross convention allows and have been paid earlier than we should have been.

IT'S BUNK

"That's all bunk. We haven't been paid as much as the Australians and Americans.

"This statement is false and misleading."

American and Australian prisoners received $2 a day, compared with $1 a day for Canadians, Mr. Speller said.

Only a few more than 900 men were given the $1 a day from $10,000,000 war reparations paid by Japan to Canada, he said. Hong Kong veterans, who have headquarters in Toronto, have tried five years to come into line with payments made to American and Australian prisoners.

There are 22 ex-prisoners on Vancouver Island, mostly men who served with the Royal Rifles and Winnipeg Rifles in Hong Kong before their capture by the Japanese.

Mr. Speller was a member of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals attached to China Command headquarters, and was interned four years as were most of the other 218,000 men taken prisoner.

Gorge Hospital In Chronic Plan

Solarium Also Among First To Gain From New BCHIS Scheme

Directors of Gorge Road Hospital and the Queen Alexandra Solarium today welcomed an announcement from Health Minister Eric Martin that they are high on the list of hospitals to benefit from the government's new chronic care plan.

Mr. Martin said a limited form of B.C. Hospital Insurance coverage for persons suffering from chronic ailments will go into effect within a year.

He added the Gorge Road and the Solarium will be among the first to be included.

"The government's present plan to offer coverage for three months, subject to extension. The average length of stay of a patient in the Solarium is 270 days.

"However, the plan is still in a tentative stage and we hope to settle this problem in consultation with the health minister."

Solarium directors will meet next week to hammer out a list of proposals to be sumbitted to Mr. Martin.

In its present form the government's chronic care program will be available to B.C. residents at a cost of $1 a day.

Actual costs will be borne on the basis of 70 cents a day from municipalities, 70 cents a day from the provincial government, $1 a day from the patient and the remainder—between $3 and $12 a day—from the province's consolidated revenue.

IN LEGISLATURE

Legislation will be introduced at the coming session amending the present Health Act to permit introduction of the plan.

The minister said the plan will be limited in its early stages by the lack of hospital accommodation and shortage of medical specialists and qualified nurses.

"The services required will be expensive unless they are shared by enough persons to make fullest use of personnel and facilities."

Mr. Martin estimated that more than 1,400 chronic and convalescent beds will be needed to put the plan into effect.

He stated that the dollar-a-day chronic care plan was originally designed to fit into the National Health Care Program. The provincial government was prepared to carry the plan until the federal program started.

"We hope it will serve to lessen the burden on our acute hospital facilities," Mr. Martin said.

"There are many patients no longer acutely ill who cannot yet be moved out of acute general hospitals, and this places a strain on acute hospital beds. As new chronic facilities become available, this strain will be eased."

The stage of illness considered as qualifying for benefits "is that phase between the subsiding or arresting of a disease and as complete a restoration of health as possible."

Said Mrs. Florence Mutrie, administrator of the Gorge Road Hospital:

MEETING MONDAY

"We are very gratified that the government is taking steps to add clinic and convalescent coverage to BCHIS legislation, as our hospital has the facilities necessary to carry out a rehabilitation plan.

"We are making a close study of the minister's proposals and they will be discussed at a meeting of the board next Monday afternoon. We shall co-operate with the health ministry in every way possible."

Mrs. Mutrie added that the government's plan would not eliminate the need for public appeals as it would not cover cost of building and equipment.

"We have a hard-working auxiliary which only last week raised $500 in cash and 250 pieces of linen for the hospital. Their efforts will continue to be needed."

A spokesman for the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Children said:

"We certainly approve any step that will improve conditions both for patients and for the Solarium equipment. But we have a domestic problem regarding duration of the coverage offered.

He added that the health department is also considering patients, not likely to improve but who require in-patient hospital care below the level of an acute general hospital.

ASK The TIMES

Q. In the recent gale which swept Victoria, meteorological instruments showed that gusts extended from 30 miles an hour to as high as 72 miles. What is the cause of this wide variation when some winds are steady and of almost uniform force? A.B.L.

A. This column is given a simple explanation by William Mackie, director of the Gonzales Observatory. His explanation is that those gusts are the result of eddies. Interference by topographical natural features with what was originally a vast uniform flow of air causes the turbulences or gusts as they are usually called. A vivid example is the violent gusts encountered at the corner of a tall building. He points out that the scientific instruments at his observatory are at the top of Gonzales Hill and in reaching them the moving air must travel up the hill. The effect on the vast flow of air is readily understandable.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Ernie Winch Memorial Proposed

Saanich CCF Constituency Association voted Friday to support the idea of a public fund to add a unit to New Vista Homes, for old age pensioners in Burnaby, as a memorial to the founder, the late Ernest Winch.

The annual meeting opened with one minute of silence in memory of the long-time CCF MLA, who died last week, and Alf Kellow, pioneer socialist and supporter of CCF policies in this area who died earlier.

Frank Snowsell was elected association president for 1957, with vice-president Arthur Rhodes, auditors James Lancaster and N. P. Finnemore, literature chairman Mr. Lancaster and membership chairman Mr. Finnemore.

Secretary-treasurer will be appointed at the first executive meeting of the year Feb. 1.

TV TOO COSTLY

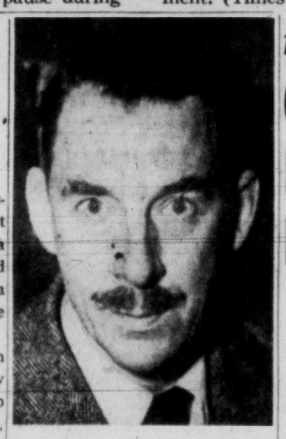
Proposed use of radio and TV mediums in election campaigns was turned down after investigation showed them to be too costly. Educational forums through the riding are proposed instead.

Mrs. J. M. Thomas reported for the CCF Women's Council, which will hold its annual banquet for CCF MLAs Feb. 15.

Constitution and by-laws were adopted at a monthly meeting of Oak Bay CCF Association Wednesday, when elections were completed.

President Patrick H. Thomas, named to the position before Christmas, was elected provincial council representative; co-ordinator, William K. Cross; literature, Don K. Brantner; finance, Mrs. W. Bugg; program, John B. Robertson.

Secretary-treasurer Mrs. Alex Crow and vice-president Mr. Cross were previously named.



NATIONALLY-KNOWN literary critic, Dr. Roy Daniells, head of the department of English at UBC, will address a public meeting in Victoria College auditorium Monday at 8.15 p.m. His subject will be "Canadian Writing and the Achievement of Literary Form." Meeting will be sponsored by the Victoria University Extension Association.

Police Quiet On City Hall Robbery Probe

City police stepped up their investigation today into the armed holdup Thursday at City Hall in which a gunman escaped with $965.

Police were mum on their activities but it was known they were carefully tracking down a number of rumors and tips.

Extra detectives were called in this morning to work on the case.

Only clue turned up since the bandit slipped out a side door of City Hall unnoticed was the discovery of his hat and jacket on Saanich Road.

The clothing, found just a few minutes after the holdup, was bought expressly for the robbery.

1,000 SUN-SEEKERS

City Holidayers Prefer Hawaii For Winter

By DINAH KERR

More and more Victorians are yielding to the siren song of travel folders in the winter.

This month and next, about 1,000 will bolt the front door and head for sunnier climes, local travel agencies report.

Arizona is becoming a bit of a fad for sun-seekers, but the majority will strike out for Honolulu, says E. F. Marshall, manager of George Paulin Ltd., travel service.

"Actually," he said, "there's nowhere else to go from here."

Hawaii is the only island within nine hours of Victoria offering warm-water bathing on "tawny beaches" the year-round.

TAHITI COSTLY

According to Blaney's Travel Service, "lots of people" go to Tahiti, but it's a pretty expensive way to get sun-stroke.

The West Indies shares second place in popularity with Mexico, which boasts one of the most delightful climates in the world at Cuernavaca, a city mid-way between Mexico City and Acapulco. Temperature there averages 70 degrees the year-round.

Most parts of Mexico are "warm and comfortable all year," says C. E. Blaney. The 10-hour flight to Mexico leaves Vancouver once a week.

LOST NOVELTY

A smaller percentage of travellers prefers Australia, New Zealand or California for winter holidays, although California traffic has taken a dip because "so many people have been there that it's lost its novelty," Mr. Marshall said.

Winter travel has become increasingly popular among Victorians but it is usually limited to retired "gardeners".

"The January crowd is composed mainly of homeowners who want to get back in time to dig their bulbs," said Mr. Marshall.

"They will only travel in the wintertime when their gardens can be left," he said. "You couldn't drag them out in the summer."

Travel agencies here feel very strongly that people should be educated to take their holidays in the winter.

After all, said Mr. Marshall, "what more beautiful place is there than Victoria in the summer?"

Bennett Aims To Avoid Night Sittings

The government will endeavor to get through the coming session of the Legislature without night sittings, Premier Bennett said today.

"If there are any night sittings they will be dictated by circumstances and they will be very few," the premier said. "In other words, we shall not hold night sittings in order to push new legislation."

The premier said the session, starting Feb. 7, will be of "moderate length—probably shorter than last year."

Norris Gives Cadboro Bay Tax Warning

Taxes would jump and become a burden for several years to residents of Cadboro Bay area if they voted to join Oak Bay municipality, Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris predicted today.

He said he felt Oak Bay residents would favor such a move, which he called a logical step, and that Oak Bay council would be willing to discuss it in order to bring out all implications.

"They'd have to realize this is no Utopia they'd be getting into," he said.

A number of Cadboro Bay residents, complaining of high taxes with little improvement to show for them, indicate they would like the area, including Ten Mile Point, to break from Saanich to unite with more firmly established Oak Bay.

Referendums in both municipalities in 1950 met with an impasse when Oak Bay rejected the plan, mainly because of the Saanich Panhandle which present technical problems, such as drainage and conflict with city boundaries.

There is no established movement to campaign for union with Oak Bay, although it is reported a canvass of the 'Bay area is being taken by interested residents.

Those who have spoken out on the subject were cautioned by Arnold Edmonds, secretary-treasurer of Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association, not to "go off half-cocked."

"The place to start off," he said, "is the local ratepayers' association."

A meeting of the association executive will discuss the subject Monday.

SPCA FIRES INSPECTOR OVER NEW POUND ISSUE

SPCA inspector Cyril McRoberts has been given two weeks' notice in a letter signed by the president of the Victoria branch, William Leach.

Reason given for the dismissal notice was failure of Mr. McRoberts to agree to taking over operation of the Esquimalt pound, using the present facilities of the SPCA shelter at 111 Wilson.

Mr. McRoberts said today he did not think present facilities were adequate to operate a pound, as well as a shelter.

He was given 24 hours to decide whether he would carry on the new duties, and then received the notice of dismissal Friday.

Mrs. McRoberts, who has acted as clerk and accountant at the shelter, has also been dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. McRoberts were hired in June, to replace former inspector Ted Hayward, who resigned due to "strain and stress of working conditions."

Mr. Leach could not be reached today for comment on the dismissal notice.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

With your kind permission, we will now discuss the matter of February.

And if you are about to ask, what is the matter with February? that is a very good question.

Because the reason we are about to discuss the matter of February is because so much is the matter with February.

In fact—as is well known to all loyal constituents—I have long been an exponent of the total elimination of February.

February has nothing whatsoever to recommend it.

February has no justification for existence.

February has no place in song, poem, or story. If ever there WERE a song written about February, it would be entitled "I can get along without you very well."

Most of us have a certain amount of trouble with every month in the year. But all of us have too much trouble with February.

February occurs in the dark of the year, when life's cycle is at its nadir. February makes January hard to take, because all during January one cannot help but be aware that February is coming.

And then when February comes, what does it do?

It delays the arrival of March, that's what it does.

If it weren't for February, March would arrive much sooner, and with March arrives spring, and with spring hope springs eternal, a young man's thoughts turn, and can April be far behind?

Now, if it were possible to eliminate February, much of the drabness and sadness would go out of man's life.

February, customarily, is the month which throws the last dread kick of winter at us. In December and January, one does not mind winter. But by February, one has accepted the false notion that spring is here, only to find that winter has not yet left.

It should not be hard to eliminate February. It would just be a matter of tearing a page off the calendar, and distributing a mere 28, or possibly 29, days among the better months of the year.

I would suggest that February's days be given to May, June and July—months which know what to do for mankind.

I'm not sure where or how a movement to eliminate February should start.

But if someone wishes to get up a petition of protest, I will be only too happy to sign.

TODAY'S BEEFS

Recently there was an article in Drivers' Letters by Mrs. S. B. She stated she saw a car approaching a crosswalk at a good rate of speed (45 mph). She walked in front of it, expecting it to stop, and then "leaped for her life" when it didn't. Even though she was right, Mrs. S. B. should use her head rather than lose it for the sake of the right-of-way.—B.C.

Last Tuesday evening at about 10.30, I was headed south on Humboldt Street in my car and while stopped at the traffic light at Government and Humboldt, a small light brown Hillman car rushed past me, ignored the traffic light and proceeded on Humboldt without slowing down at the blinking red light at Douglas.—S.H.

January 16, at 4 p.m., I was driving south on Quadra Street near Lake Hill. Ahead of me was a 1950 or '51 ash grey Pontiac sedan with a load in the trunk which projected several feet beyond the rear bumper.

The car was proceeding in rather an erratic manner and weaving on the road. On getting closer I observed two men in the car. A quart bottle of either rum or whisky was being passed back and forth between the passenger and driver. After following them for one mile, only half the bottle was left.

—Miss A.L.D.

Jan. 17 at 1.35 p.m., I was driving across the Oak Bay Junction from Oak Bay Avenue to Pandora, with the light and in the correct lane. I was more than halfway across when suddenly a bus swung right across in front of me, turning left down Fort from Pandora.

No signals—and in any case as I was so far across he should have let me go on. I have a small English car and would certainly have come off the worst in the collision that nearly resulted. No doubt that driver muttered "woman driver" as he tore off down Fort Street. He was going far too fast when he made the turn. Luckily there was no car behind me because I certainly had to slam on my brakes. —Mrs. E.W.

Mission at Dunvegan To Become Monument

DUNVEGAN, Alta. (CP)—A Roman Catholic mission at Dunvegan Crossing, 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, is being restored as a monument to earlier days in Alberta. Work on the mission began in 1883 and historians say it is "the oldest hand-hewn church in the north."

The Alberta government pledged $500 towards repairs to the abandoned log church's roof, doors and windows, and interested parties in this Peace River country are attempting to get the work done.

Perched on the north bank of the Peace River, the dilapidated shell of the once-sturdy house of worship stands with its doors open, its roof sagging, an eerie reminder of Dunvegan's past as a main outpost of the North West Company's fur-trading route to the north.

HISTORIC SITE

Not far from the church, which served northern Beaver Indians from 1885 to 1903, explorer Alexander Mackenzie paused on his journey into the northwest. A cairn now marks the valley lookout where the adventurer stopped.

Bishop Grouard, one of Northern Alberta's pioneer missionaries, decorated the church with paintings, including one he did himself on a large moose skin.

When the mission was closed in 1919 because of the dwindling Indian population in the area, the moose skin painting was removed to the town of Peace River. It was later lost in a fire.

Today, all that decorates the old structure are names and addresses from almost every province of Canada and many parts of the United States, inscribed by visitors on the rough walls and pillars.

STUMPED 'ASK THE TIMES'

Message of Faith Was 400 Years Old

A question that stumped "Ask The Times" two weeks ago has been solved by two subscribers, uncovering a timeless message of hope penned in the 16th century.

Asked by Mrs. F.W.K., the question was:

"In a speech following the recent U.S. election, Mr. Stevenson used the following phrase: 'There is radiance and glory in the darkness for those who have eyes to see; and to see we have only to look.' Did this originate with Mr. Stevenson or was he quoting? If quoting, would you tell us its source?"

It was answered this week by L. McNeely and Miss Mildred U. Barker; originator of the phrase was Fra Giovanni in the year 1513.

The phrase originally read: "There is radiance and glory in the darkness, could we but see, and to see, we have only to look."

Fra Giovanni wrote the lines on Christmas Eve to the Countessina Allagia dela Aldobrandeschi, on the Via de' Martelli, Firenze.

Main portion of the letter to his dear friend follows:

". . . there is nothing I can give you which you have not got; but there is much, very much, that, while I cannot give it, you can take. No Heaven can come to us unless our hearts find rest in it today. Take Heaven! No peace lies in the future which is not hidden in this present little instant. Take peace!

"The gloom of the world is but a shadow. Behind it, yet within our reach, is joy. There is radiance and glory in the darkness, could we but see; and to see, we have only to look.

Contessina, I beseech you to look.

"Life is a generous giver, but we, judging its gifts by their covering, cast them away as ugly or heavy or hard. Remove the covering and you will find beneath it a living splendor, woven of love, by wisdom, with power.

"Welcome it, grasp it, and you touch the angel's hand that brings it to you. Everything we call a trial, a sorrow, or a duty; believe me, that angel's hand is there; the gift is there, and the wonder of an overshadowing Presence.

"Our joys, too: be not content with them as joys. They, too, conceal divine gifts.

"Life is so full of meaning and of purpose, so full of beauty—beneath its covering—that you will find earth but cloaks your heaven. Courage, then, to claim it; that is all! But courage you have; and the knowledge that we are pilgrims together, wending through unknown country, home . . ."

Green and White Theme at Wedding of Jan Garber

Of interest in Victoria, is the lovely ceremony in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Seattle, which united in marriage Miss Jan Marie Garber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Garber, of Sumas, Wash., formerly of Victoria, with Leon P. Griffin of Seattle.

The bride, who lived in Victoria for 10 years and attended St. Margaret's School, will graduate from University of Washington next December. Her gown, of white bridal satin, was styled on princess lines, the skirt sweeping to floor length, and neckline and lily point sleeves outlined with tiny seed pearls. A pearl-studded tiara held her chapel veil of net illusion and she carried a white bible mounted with an orchid and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Sandra Humber of Victoria, who wore a gown of emerald green velveteen panelled with crystallette. The gown was styled on princess lines with wide, bateau neckline. Two bands of matching velvet formed her hair bandeau and she carried a bouquet of white carnations sprinkled with silver glitter dust.

Two bridesmaids, Misses Patti Steere and Pat Robinson, were gowned identically with Miss Humber.

Best man was Larry Wold of Seattle, and ushers were Dave King, Harold Cowman and Frank Henisley. Joan and Jean Garber were servers.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin have made their home temporarily in Seattle.

Coming down the aisle of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, are Mr. and Mrs. J. Daniel Francis, who were married recently. The bride is the former Miss Christine Cook, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Leonard Cook, 340 Beach Drive. Mr. Francis is son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Francis, Prospect Lake. Both are graduates of University of British Columbia. (Photo by S. H. Draper.)

Pictured cutting their wedding cake, following their wedding in St. John's Anglican Church, are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Douglas Baird. Formerly Kathryn Elizabeth Cecile Clayton, the bride is daughter of Dr. C. J. Clayton. Mr. Baird, who is with the RCMP, is son of Lt.-Col. James D. Baird, CSO, CD, and Mrs. Baird of Victoria. The bride is a graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing. (Photo by Paul Joncas.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Genuine Leather at Prices Keyed to Fit Your Budget

By PENNY SAVER

Leather goods of all types and descriptions are carrying marked down price tags, this week, and if you're in the market for a wallet, purse, tote bag or belt, now's the time to buy.

Greatly reduced are leather and tartan purses. Your favorite tartan, to match accessories or as a patterned contrast for a solid color, is inset on the surface of these well-made leather bags. They were $7.95, and are now just $3.95.

Tote bags, that can be used to carry dozens of things, from parcels from shopping to lunches, are also on sale at a good price. These were $7.95, and are now $5.25. The leather handles ensure long wear.

Lined coach hide belts, in a versatile natural color, are all reduced. For your sportswear outfits or smartly tailored dresses these belts are just the thing. Formerly $3.75 and $2.75, they're now $2.75 and $2. Some have buckle or stud designs that are reflected in the matching purses, and some are perfectly plain, to be worn with various outfits.

Change purses of genuine leather are just 50 and 95 cents, and wallets are $2.50 and $2.95. Milanese leather work from Italy can be seen in snap-closed wallets at $2.95 and picture holders, $1. One novelty change purse features a small but complete map of Scotland traced in gold. This purse is 95 cents.

Made in the Highlands of Scotland are the feather earring and pin sets I saw. Birds of a feather — there are peacocks, bluebirds, parrots and many other colorful birds copied for the attractive pins. A set costs $3.80. On sale at a reduced price are similar pins of many-hued feathers. The pins alone are 95 cents each.

For those of you who find yourself in need of a food carry-all on different occasions, the fitted bags of canvas and leather will serve you well. A thermos bottle, cup and sandwich case are fitted in the $4.75 case, and in another larger one at $5.95 are two thermos flasks. Both cases are greatly reduced in price.

For the businessman in the family there is a smart natural leather briefcase with handles and corner lock. It was $16.50, and is now selling at a special price of $12.50.

For information about the items here in the column, call me at 2-3131. I'll be pleased to give you names of the stores where I found them.

Soft But Slender Lines Seen in 1957 Collections

By NONA DAMASKE

Softly! . . . Softly! . . . Softly! . . . That is how designers have approached the spring and summer fashion picture for 1957. Soft but slender lines for daytime dresses . . . soft and flowing lines for evening. So, if you're looking for a new ensemble for the opening of the Legislature in early February, or a new evening gown for the State Ball, take heed before you buy.

It is still a "My Fair Lady" era but with a difference, a more wearable difference. The waistline has returned to its natural place, hemlines have settled at a length much as we in Victoria have worn them for the past several years. New York designers have added an inch to daytime clothes, but as women in the West have always worn their clothes a little longer . . . without any worry we are up to the minute.

Nona

The Empire sheath and the flying panels are still with us but their numbers are diminished. Daytime skirts are again slim but the severe sheath is being replaced by the softer peg-top skirt.

Very much in the limelight for daytime dresses is the tunic skirt. The most popular tunic length at the moment is the seven-eighths overskirt. Bodices are very often bloused or gathered to create a very soft feminine line. Necklines tend to stand away from the throat and the use of multiple strand, bulky necklaces is with us again.

Silk is the undisputed star among dress fabrics, silk faille, silk linen, silk satin and silk chiffon — all soft . . . soft . . . soft!

Beige is climbing close to the top rung of the color ladder. Adele Simpson says its a blond hair season and she feels a blond should complete the soft color picture by wearing a costume in the new blond color named meringe beige. Oleg Cassini, the designer who put on the maddest of all shows when I was in New York last July also favors beige but his beige costumes must have a touch of vivid color.

Light to soft neutrals, such as chalk beige, fawn and desert tan, have an equal color value with clear flower shades in the Herbert Sondheim collection.

Fashion is saying it softly this spring and again we are most fortunate as this is all to the advantage of women who want to be feminine . . . and I think most of us do.

THE QUESTION BOX

Dear Tats and Tangles: Just recently I found the perfect answer to the problem of hair that tangled after shampooing. It is a new preparation put out by Richard Hudnut and is called "Rinse'n Set." When you have washed and rinsed your hair, you apply this fluid right out of the bottle and just comb it throught your hair. Unlike former cream rinses, this one stays in the hair and helps with the setting.

Exclusive to Holt-Renfrew of Canada is this pale blue taffeta shantung coat with a black silk sheath designed by Christian Dior. The coat is slit on both sides to show the slim sheath. The short-sleeved dress has a simulated bolero bodice. The twisted turban, also designed by Christian Dior, is matched to the coat.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Indifference to Food Can Have Many Causes

By NANCY CLEAVER

A poor appetite is not the problem of two-thirds of the human race, who according to Dr. Brock Chisholm are chronically hungry and seriously undernourished. But once in a while Canadian parents are worried by a child who just doesn't want to eat. Instead of meals being a pleasure they become a time for fussing. Poverty-stricken homes are not apt to be vexed by this difficulty but middle class and wealthy mothers are perplexed by it when it appears.

Nancy

Here is one place where a child can successfully defy his parents. "Force feeding," even of a gentle type, is utterly useless for a normal, healthy child. Bribes, threats, punishments, none of these are effective in solving this difficulty.

Parents must try to discover what is the underlying cause of the child's indifference to food. There are a number of reasons why a child may not want to eat. His refusal may not have one simple origin. Rather this may arise for several combined reasons. Only by patient observation can mother put her finger on the reason or reasons why her child won't eat.

The child may be a sick child, and a doctor's advice is needed. Perhaps candy or nibbling food between meals is destroying the child's appetite. If he is worried or feels hurried, he will not be keen about his food. Perhaps the child is copying an adult who has voiced a dislike for food. If the child's health is suffering over a period of time a physician must be consulted. But if the problem has just appeared, mother may be able to deal with it herself.

When a child says "I don't want it!" over one particular food, don't worry too much. If he won't drink his milk, give him more junket, custards, milk puddings, soup and cheese. Before long he will likely ask for milk to drink, and you will have avoided an unnecessary issue. Parents who are not too insistent on "clean plates" for every meal, have fewer eating problems than those who are too strict.

If a child refuses to eat what is set before him at one particular meal, don't let him get you all excited! Perhaps he is seeing if he can have some fun by "getting a rise" out of you. Give him 20 minutes to finish his meal. Don't coax, fuss or threaten. At the end of meal time remove his dishes, and do not give him anything else to eat until the next meal time. This may sound hard-hearted, but many parents can testify that this plan works.

There is a chance that a child may be refusing food because he is emotionally upset. He thinks baby sister has been receiving too much attention. When he is reassured that he is receiving his share of mother's care, his appetite suddenly returns to him.

Mothers are concerned that their children should eat a well balanced diet. If they are too conscientious they may produce a poor appetite problem. A worried, anxious atmosphere at meal time destroys the relaxed, contented feeling which should be present. Are meals a happy occasion or a battle-ground at your home?

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Time Is Now, Teen-Agers, To Remedy Figure Defects

Every once in a while I send a message to the teen-agers who read my column, and there are many of them. They have just about taken over the Friday Question Box. Many letters from them tell me that their mothers have read and followed "Why Grow Old?" for 20 years and that now they themselves want help.

I wish that young women in this age group could realize that now is the time to remedy any defects in figure and especially in posture. During these years you are more pliable in every way. You are not so "set" in physique or in personality.

Poor posture can be remedied now whereas later on it will be much more difficult, if not impossible. I can look at you today and tell you much about how you will look at 20 or 25 or 30. Will you have a protruding abdomen, wings for shoulder blades, a double chin, or a hump at the base of your neck? This depends to a great degree on how you carry yourself today. You are creating the woman of tomorrow by the way you eat, exercise, sleep and carry yourself today.

It is a human trait to want to "belong," to be liked. This is especially true at teen age when the gang is so important to you. I would like to call your attention to the fact that much which passes for "sophistication" during the teen age is so pitifully different from true sophistication.

The true sophisticate has her values straightened out. She is mature enough and has enough self-confidence to stick to her own beliefs, rather than to try to follow the crowd. The really-grown-up teen-ager does what she does because she wants to and thinks it is right, not because she is mimicking others.

This doesn't mean that you should not be tolerant of others, that you must be stuffy, but you really will be grown up when you can be understanding and still stick to your own standards. This is the individual right of every human being, and no teen-ager or adult is mature so long as they plan their lives on the ideas of others.

If you would like to have my leaflet written especially for teen-agers send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 58, "Popularity." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

HERBS IN THE HOME

By PATRICIA RAE

Those Common, Everyday Garden Weeds Can Add Zest to Your Home-Made Soups

Cold January days bring thoughts of hot, savory soups as we trudge homewards after work! Herbs are ideal for these and, once you've mastered the art of mixing them correctly, they help with their own individual flavor and aroma to produce the most tasty and comforting of soups.

But, you may ask, how will I know (a) if they are blended correctly and (b) the quantities to be used, as even the most accurate of recipes cannot gauge the size of my family or soup-pot!

I'll tell you my own little testing trick when first learning to use culinary herbs. If your husband or children, when drinking their soup, fish little green bits out with their spoons and ask—rather suspiciously: "Say, what's this in the soup?" you obviously haven't used enough herbs to make a good impression. When they mutter "Herbs in the soup again, I see!" and groan rather expressively, you'll know you've been over-lavish! But . . . when they consume the soup with relish and immediately go over to the stove, sniffing appreciatively, then you'll realize you have been 100 per cent successful. Hurray!

One winter's morning in New Zealand, I was tearing up large fistfuls of chickweed from an overgrown flower bed when a neighbor called. "What a cold day for weeding!" she remarked. I chuckled: "Weeding? I'm collecting greenstuff for our soup!" and her mouth stayed open.

We had chickweed soup alright, and loved it. I first got the idea from Eleanor Sinclair Rhode's "A Garden of Herbs," where I learned that chickweed was in former days an esteemed pot-herb and, being rich in salts of potash, could be used to advantage in vegetable soups!

I made ours with a potato and milk base, dipped a large "pulch" of chickweed into the mixture about one-quarter hour before it stopped simmering and then fished it out before serving. Garnished with home-dried Chervil (a kind of parsley) and a sprinkling of freshly chopped green chives, this made a delicious and satisfying winter "weed-soup" straight from our own back door!

NETTLE SOUP!

As children we loved to read of gypsies eating nettle-soup, followed by hedgehogs roasted whole in the ashes of their campfires! I found in an old herb book that nettle-soups were rich in minerals and what-have-you; so added them to my list of "wanted" weeds. For nettle-soup, take two small potatoes cut fine with one small onion. Bring to boil in about a pint of water. Simmer for 10 minutes. Take five or six young heads of nettle cut with long scissors (mind your fingers!) and add to the boiling soup. Then add one pint of milk (or as much as required), a walnut of butter and seasoning.

Note—If you have any questions regarding herbs or her herb growing, write to Patricia Rae, care of the women's department, Victoria Daily Times.

A Challenge in Canada For New Zealand Nurse

LA RONGE, Sask. (CP)—Nurse to 1,400 Indians—that's Nancy Ferguson, New Zealand - born brunette who has worked for two years among northern Saskatchewan's Indian population.

At 27, this attractive woman has handled problems few nurses have to face. Last year she delivered 43 babies without a hitch.

Miss Ferguson is one of a half-dozen nurses with the Federal Indian Health Services who handle the nursing chores among 8,000 Indians in more than 80,000 square miles or northern Saskatchewan.

Trained in New Zealand, she was working in England when she decided to come to Canada.

Now she flies thousands of miles annually into rugged bush and muskeg country to treat hundreds of patients. She must decide whether a patient should be taken to the nearest hospital, treated at the main clinic in Prince Albert, 170 miles to the south, or at the little nursing station at La Ronge which is her headquarters.

BUSY CENTRE

"We have three adult beds, one maternity bed, two cots, two cribs and a spare mattress I was lucky enough to find one night when I didn't know where on earth I'd put a patient," she said in an interview here.

The station's ground floor has three rooms for patients, a kitchen and an office where voluminous records are kept. Upstairs is Nancy's bedroom and a small sitting room where she seldom has time to sit.

She shares the hospital with Mrs. Enid Broome, a public health nurse who treats the area's metis and delivers about the same number of babies each year as Nancy. Mrs. Broome, wife of the Saskatchewan government trading post manager here, lives out.

Nancy, like the nurses working out of Prince Albert and at two other northern stations, has a modern station wagon which converts easily to an ambulance. She uses it mainly to drive patients to and from the airport. Dressed in blue jeans and a sweater in summer or bundled up warmly in winter, she commandeers a government or private plane.

Dr. Douglas Jamieson, in charge of the Prince Albert division, says most nurses stay in the north only a year.

"They can stay longer if they want but the work is so hard it is better to give them a change at the end of a year."

The doctor, who speaks Cree with the Scottish accent he brought from Scotland three years ago, said the nurses face a big problem in public health and hygiene.

Miss Ferguson said "the work is encouraging when they respond to treatment and instruction but so often they don't. Then you wonder if you're doing any good or not."

She plans to return soon to New Zealand, but she is enjoying the work here. "There's more of a challenge here than any other nursing offers," she said.

"There's a problem here and you feel you're doing something about it."

Bride Wears Gown of Blue For Wedding at Parksville

Pale blue lace was the choice of Edith Ellen Dunn when she became the bride of CPO William Thomas Glanfield in Knox United Church, Parksville, B.C. Her gown, fashioned in ballerina length with bolero jacket, was complemented by a corsage of carnations and gardenias mounted on a small Bible, which she carried. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel Bailey, Victoria, and the late Harry Dunn of Ottawa. Her mother gave her in marriage.

Bridesmatron, Mrs. B. Nordhagen of Parksville, wore a gown of pale gold color.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Glanfield, Parksville, B.C., had as his best man, Bjorn Nordhagen. Chrysanthemums and carnations decorated the church.

Reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Avalon Beach, Parksville, where the newlyweds cut a tiered cake topped by a minuiature bride and groom and a silver bell. Toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Nordhagen.

For receiving guests, mother of the bride wore a two-piece dress of navy taffeta, and mother of the groom, wore a black lace dress.

A honeymoon was spent on the Island, the bride wearing a going away suit of wine with black accessories, a grey fur coat and corsage.

CPO and Mrs. Glanfield are living at 250 Gorge Road East.

Delinquent Must Be Treated As Patient if Cure to Come

Affects of increasing delinquency and hoodlumism on our civilization was outlined at the University Women's Club last Wednesday evening by Hugh Christie, warden of Oakalla.

The delinquent should be viewed, Mr. Christie said, as a patient in need of treatment for his mental and emotional attitudes are the direct result of a lack within his own environment.

"Not only does the child have to find a means of fulfilling his basic needs for food, warmth, security, affection, he must also learn to adjust to the artificial standards of our society.

"His parents must face the youngster with problems which he can solve and thus gradually gain confidence in himself. Difficulties successfully overcome develop a feeling of harmony with the family and later with the community."

The neglected child, the speaker pointed out, is faced with problems greater than he can solve. The spoiled child has never been faced with problems.

"The individual personality," he said, "can grow in only one way —by helping someone else."

Speaking of future trends in penology, Mr. Christie emphasized that the delinquent would be treated as a patient. His case would be diagnosed and classified. His sentence would be indefinite, terminating only when he was cured. Release would always be under supervision.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. G. A. Wood and thanked by Mrs. W. G. Welburn.

Mrs. M. F. Smith presided at the meeting and welcomed a former member, Miss Edith Green, recently returned from Egypt. Mrs. C. D. Stockdill introduced the following new members: Mrs. P. E. Beauchemin, Mrs. C. R. D. Hare and Mrs. G. D. Pearce.

Mrs. A. H. Gunning reported on plans for the regional conference to be held in the Empress Hotel in early March.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. G. Dempsey, assisted by Mrs. P. Henderson, Mrs. P. E. Regehr, Mrs. H. L. McIntyre, Mrs. G. A. Wood, Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson, Miss Margaret Hastings and Miss Echo Lidster.

Suggestions Given Those Interested in Radio Work

"Practice reading aloud, learn to use your voice properly and think on your feet." These were the suggestions given by Ralph Pashley of radio station CJVI when he spoke recently at the Xi Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi meeting at the Art Centre, Moss Street. Mr. Pashley's suggestions to those interested in radio announcing also included the practice of using basic English with colorful but not elongated words.

His subject was "What's Going On Behind the Scenes in Radio, TV and Movies." He spoke about Marconi, who only a little over 50 years ago was the first man to transmit sound. After almost 20 years of research, De Forest invented the vacuum tube, and our first radios were being built.

Mr. Pashley demonstrated a pocket-size portable radio and predicted it would not be too many years before we would be wearing small radios on our wrists, and carrying portable television sets to the beach.

Mrs. Grace Waters presided at the meeting, and expressing the appreciation of the club was Mrs. Mary Youson.

Kimberchiks Have a Record for Outstanding Performance

During the 5 years ending with 1955, Kimberchiks entered in the California Official Random Sample Laying Test averaged:

250 eggs per bird, based on the number of pullets at one week of age.

91.9% livability to about 18 months.

$5.58 income over feed costs.

Although this five-year record indicates very fine breeding, the real worth of Kimberchiks is how they perform on commercial poultry farms.

Because of their large early egg size, high production and good livability, Kimberchiks may well be the answer to more profitable operation for you. That's why we suggest you start some K-137 Kimberchiks and compare them under your own farm conditions with the birds you have previously raised. Fine chart for a social life, for a peculiar charm is present that draws them to your humanitarian-minded offspring.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Expensive Way Found To Beat Gas Ration

LONDON (Reuters)—One London motorist has found a new way around gasoline rationing — when she ran out of gas she poured a bottle of whisky into the tank and the car took off "like a bomb".

"It seemed such a waste at 35 shillings ($4.90 a bottle), but it got us home," said Mrs. Alice Klouda.

Engineers at the Royal Automobile Club said a hot engine might go for a while on whisky but they did not recommend it as a ration stand-by fuel.

HITCHIN, England (AP) — A man who bumped into a passing car and dented a fender has been ordered to pay the motorist £26 damages.

"I don't see why a motorist who suffers damage by a pedestrian should not claim damages just like a pedestrian hurt by a motorist," ruled Judge Lawson Campbell.

The pedestrian, Paul Walker, said he struck the car while running for a bus.

TORONTO (CP) — A car owner was sentenced to seven days in jail here Friday for being drunk while in control of his car, although he wasn't driving.

Police said that while Peter B. Donson, 42, was drunk in his car, a man with only a beginner's permit was at the wheel.

Magistrate F. C. Gullen ruled that since the actual driver was a beginner, the licensed driver beside him had control of the car.

CANYON, Texas (AP)—Hank Harwood, 49, owner of the Harwood Grocery in this west Texas town, complained to police that two men robbed his till of $125 and then served two customers while he lay bound and gagged on the floor behind a counter.

OTTAWA (CP) — Constable Thomas Flanagan had a busy mission. He found a missing 91-year-old grandmother, extinguished a fire in her home and admonished her two grandchildren who set the fire when she was away.

He found the missing Mrs. Annie Mitchell a few minutes after getting a radio call to look for her. When he had driven her home he found smoke seeping from the windows.

The constable broke into the house and found the two children setting fire to scraps of paper in a stove and putting them on a chesterfield. Their mother was in another apartment in the house.

One of First Woman Drivers Dies in City

Mrs. E. Simpson, 72, widow of the late George Y. Simpson, died Friday night in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, after a brief illness.

Born in Gisbourn, New Zealand, she moved here with her family in 1912. She married in 1914. Mr. Simpson was kell known in golfing circles here, and as manager for many years of the Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Co. branch in Victoria.

He was a direct descendant of Sir George Simpson, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company from 1825 to 1830.

Mrs. Simpson, whose home was at 1310 Dallas Road, was proud of the fact she was one of the first women in Victoria to drive a car, having learned in 1912, and had been driving all her life.

Surviving are three sons, George, in Victoria; Owen, Alert Bay, and David, Vancouver.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Chaplin's.

Military Bases on Moon Key to World Domination

United States rocket expert says the first country to establish a rocket base on the moon will dominate, militarily, the rest of the world.

G. E. Pendray, former president and a founder of the American Rocket Society, predicted such a landing within 10 to 20 years.

Mr. Pendray said military considerations and the possibility of radio-active minerals on the moon will be the strongest stimuli to produce man-carrying moon rockets.

He said in an interview Friday the moon's low gravity would permit low-powered cheap rockets to be launched to the earth with only one-sixth of the energy required for a point-to-point rocket trip on the earth's surface.

Mr. Pendray started rocket experiments in the late 1920s and was an advisor in the United States government's rocket research program.

Several experimental rockets would be sent before a man-carrying rocket was launched, he said. Medical research had established with reasonable certainty that man could live under the weightless conditions of space travel.

20 Suspects Freed After IRA Raiders Blow Up Barracks

DUNGANNON, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Twenty young men held for questioning after explosions badly damaged new army barracks here Friday night were released today.

Police and troops renewed their search for masked and armed raiders who blew up the $100,000 barracks which are only 100 yards from a police station, after warning bystanders to leave the area.

Two explosions followed.

Despite the precautions of the raiders there were two casualties.

An eight-year-old girl, frightened by the explosions, ran across a road and was involved in an accident with a motorcyclist. She was taken to hospital with a fractured skull.

A special policeman was shot in the leg when his rifle accidentally went off as he climbed into his car to hurry to the scene of the explosion.

Meanwhile, more than 500 British troops arrived in Northern Ireland from England today to reinforce the garrison against IRA attacks.

They will be stationed at Omagh, County Tyrone, not far from the scene of Friday night's attack.

School Minister To Ottawa Monday On Money Request

Education Minister Leslie Peterson leaves for Ottawa Monday to seek increased federal financial aid toward the cost of technical education.

"I shall ask for Federal grants which would pay for 50 per cent of both capital and operating costs of all vocational schools in B.C.," the minister said.

At present B.C. gets a maximum of 50 per cent operating costs.

Mr. Peterson said he is opposed to the suggestion made in the House of Commons this week by Victoria MP Dr. F. T. Fairey that the federal government should take over all technical education from the province.

"We do not agree that federal authorities should continue the present trend towards centralization by taking over our educational system, whether technical or otherwise.

"But we are aware of the need for vocational training in this province, and if the federal government will share in the cost, we will do our utmost to meet this need."

Judgment Delayed In Appeal Over $369,450

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, in B.C. Appeal Court here, reserved judgment in the appeal of Helicopter Exploration Ltd. against a Supreme Court judgment awarding mining engineer Wendell Dawson, Tacoma, $369,450 damages for an unfulfilled contract by the company.

Appeal basis was that the Vancouver company alleged Mr. Dawson received more money in the judgment than he would have if the contract had been fulfilled.

Mr. Dawson originally claimed he had entered into a contract to show the company mineral outcroppings at the head of Leduc River, B.C., but that the organization had not fulfilled its obligations in percentage payments to him.

UN Gives Israel 5 Days To Get Army Out of Gaza

Assembly Backs Resolution 74-2

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The UN General Assembly today voted 74-2 with two abstentions for a resolution calling on Israel again to get all its troops out of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

It called for a compliance report within five days.

The overwhelming vote came despite a final plea from Israeli ambassador Abba S. Eban for the General Assembly not to permit the situation in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip to return to the "status quo" that existed before the Israli invasion of Egypt.

WARNING

He warned that for Israel to withdraw its troops from those areas without "simultaneous related action" by the United Nations would be to permit a return to a "state of belligerency."

The Netherlands, France, Costa Rica, Belgium, Ireland and Australia criticized the resolution for not recognizing the extent Israel already has withdrawn from Egypt.

Several speakers stressed that some assurances should be given that Israel would be permitted free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban voiced doubt that the secretary-general would have anything substantial to report about Israeli withdrawal within five days.

Israel and France voted against the resolution. Costa Rica and Cuba abstained.

The Netherlands ambassador, M. C. W. A. Schurmann, told the General Assembly earlier that "disaster" faces the Middle East and the United Nations if the world body does not assume responsibility for such as the Aqaba and Gaza problems.

"It would be nothing short of disastrous for the United Nations and the peoples of the Middle East if the United Nations should leave unfinished the task it has undertaken," he said.

British ambassador Allan Nobel suggested the "internationalization" under UN control of the crucial zones.

"IMPERATIVE"

He said it is "imperative" the UNEF be deployed as a "shield" between Israel and Egypt to prevent a "recurrence of attacks."

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, hinted strongly India might withdraw its contingent from the UN police troops if they were sent into the areas.

External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson outlined Canada's position when he said there is no excuse for the United Nations to avoid "a responsibility which is inescapable." The UN Emergency Force should be stationed on all Israel-Arab borders, and in the Gaza Strip, to help "ensure the security of the nations concerned which is so vital if they are to approach with the necessary confidence negotiations toward a comprehensive solution of their conflicts."

Before today's UN vote France branded as unjust and unfair any demand that Israel withdraw her forces completely from Egypt without assurances that Egypt also will comply.

PRINCE IN WAITING

GRACE KELLY BABY SWEEP

Monaco Gambles On Diaper Derby

MONACO (UP)—Making book on Princess Grace's expected baby today has become the favorite pastime of the Monte Carlo gambling crowd.

Odds are on a boy, with next Friday the most heavily-played date for his arrival.

The roulette wheels and the gaming tables at the Casino have been virtually deserted for the "maternity sweepstakes."

Books on gynecology and heredity have replaced number systems as the prime source of reference for the men and women willing to "go for broke" on the turn of a card or the spin of a wheel.

Physicians have taken over from mathematicians as the favorite drinking companions of the betting set.

The croupiers in the plush old Casino were fretting away their time at the almost empty gambling tables. But the Casino's bar was jammed with "experts" and admitted amateurs placing bets on the impending birth.

Prince Rainier is said to expect the arrival of his heir—or heiress—any time between Sunday and Friday. But most of the betting was on the later date.

CAN GUNS FIRE?

Two retired British artillery officers offered to bet anyone the two old French .47-mm "batteries" of the Monaco Army would not be able to fire the 101-gun salute to herald the birth of a boy.

With "D" (for delivery) day drawing near, Monacans displayed more interest and began pulling from mothballs the flags and decorations they used during the wedding last year.

There was some talk of organizing street dances—if the birth takes place at a "decent" time of day. Some bars announced they will remain open around the clock when the announcement comes that Grace has begun her labor pains.

U.S. CAN DROP BOMB ANYWHERE

Global Flight Warning to Russ

WASHINGTON (UP) — More global demonstrations of U.S. air-atomic power can be expected to follow the historic round-the-world flight of B-52 jet bombers capable of carrying a hydrogen bomb, military authorities said today.

They saw the first nonstop jet circuit of the earth as one in a series of manoeuvres that will make their significance felt in the Kremlin and will buoy up Allied confidence in American power to deter war.

Three of the huge B-52 Stratoforts winged into March air force base, Calif., Friday, to complete a 24,325-mile flight that took just 45 hours 19 minutes at an average speed of more than 525 miles an hour. They simulated a bomb drop halfway through the mission—about 50 miles west of the Malay Peninsula.

The "bomb" could have been dropped anywhere "on the face of the earth," the Strategic Air Command pointed out.

SAC is slated to get 11 B-52 wings, each with 45 bombers.

Within a single day such a force could fly missions of 12,000 miles and deliver on distant targets nuclear weapons with the destructive power of billions of tons of TNT.

President Eisenhower put such air-atomic forces to deter aggression at the top of U.S. defence missions in the new budget just sent to Congress.

ROUTINE MANOEUVRE

The B-52 operation was carried out as a regular combat-type maneouvre. It was routine—though dramatic—training for SAC crews.

Along the B-52s' global path there probably were 1,000 air bases where tankers could be stationed in wartime, an almost impossible target array for an enemy. The Strategic Air Command conducts an average of one air refueling somewhere in the world every 3½ minutes around the clock.

CANADA ASKS NUCLEAR TEST REGISTRATION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) —Canada, Norway and Japan want the big atomic powers to consider establishing a system of registering nuclear test explosions with the United Nations The idea is to keep an eye on radiation dangers.

The three submitted a resolution to that effect Friday for introduction in the UN General Assembly's political committee, which is resuming Monday a debate on disarmament.

HANNA CASE BEFORE UN

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Nations has taken up the case of Christian George Hanna, man without a country.

The Vancouver Province says in a copyright story this information was contained in a letter received here from John P. Humphrey, director of the UN division of human rights.

UN action in the case of the 23-year-old stowaway, who is trying to establish domicile in Canada after 15 months on the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, would mark perhaps the first time that the international organization has taken up the cause of an individual stateless person.

RAIN COMING

Snow Won't Last

Snow that fell generally over the Greater Victoria area today is expected to turn to rain Sunday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"Our snow today actually was mixed with rain," he said. "The temperature was mild — 35 degrees—and it will only take a one-degree rise to turn it wholly into rain."

Despite the comparatively mild temperature and moisture of the snow, most of Greater Victoria lay under a mantle of white by press time.

Only in the city did it have trouble at first in staying. Farther out the countryside began turning white by 11 a.m.

GOING UP-ISLAND

Mr. Mackie said the snowstorm will continue to spread up-Island. It had already reached Duncan by noon.

Victoria's snow marked the end — temporarily — of the "banana belt" the city and district have enjoyed in the last two weeks.

Until today up-Island travelers have found that once they drove north of Goldstream they moved into a diffeernt country, where snow is general everywhere but on the roads.

Moving south again, the change from a white countryside to the green of Victoria district has been even more pronounced.

4 INCHES AT DUNCAN

Duncan reported four inches of snow on the ground, Chemainus six inches, and Nanaimo four inches, although Cassidy airport has recorded 10 inches on the ground.

Courtenay is worst off of all Island centres with 15 inches of snow remaining from the heavy fall of 10 days ago that interrupted telephone and electrical power service in the district for several days.

All roads were reported clear.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Thousands Pour Into Washington For Ike's Inauguration Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mighty throng poured into Washington today to join in celebrating the second inauguration of President Eisenhower.

An estimated 750,000 persons are expected to witness or take part in many events planned for the next four days. But the over-all attendance wasn't expected to be as big as in 1953 when Eisenhower entered the White House and the Republicans resumed government power after 20 years.

The high point will be the public oath-taking by Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon in front of the Capitol Building Monday. Then will come the traditional inaugural parade from the Capitol to the White House, and four glittering inaugural balls that night.

Things get going in earnest today with receptions by various Republican and other groups, and an inaugural festival tonight featuring big names in the entertainment world.

The weather bureau said it expects colder than normal weather Monday, with a chance of rain or snow late in the day.

GOOSE ALMOST COOKED; BUT NOT SO TURKEY

DUNCAN (CP)—The excitement of watching final games in the women's curling playoffs here almost "cooked the goose" of the sumptuous banquet Duncan ladies were preparing for their out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Don Gibson, delegated to roast one of the 19-pound turkeys for the 5 p.m. dinner, suddenly remembered 15 minutes before the hour that she had not even put the bird in the oven. She had been too busy rooting for a host club rink.

All ended happily when a large, pre-cooked ham was hurriedly purchased to replace the turkey.

3,000 Friends, Music Lovers Attend Mass for 'The Maestro'

NEW YORK (AP) — Three thousand friends and music lovers attended a pontifical requiem mass for Arturo Toscanini today in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The world-famed conductor died Wednesday in his New York home at 89. He had suffered a stroke New Year's Day.

The maestro's body reposed in a solid copper casket.

The Most Rev. Joseph M. Pernicone, Italian-born auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of New York, sang the mass.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, presided in the sanctuary and sang the absolution.

Honorary pall bearers included Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Manlio Brosio, Italian ambassador to the United States. They led the procession in the cathedral.

Among the mourners were many persons prominent in the world of music.

They included Fritz Kreisler, violinist; Leonard Bernstein, conductor and pianist, and Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan Opera singer.

Some 5,000 filed past Toscanini's bier Friday at the funeral home where his body has lain in state since Thursday.

Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston symphony, said he had known Toscanini for about 30 years and called him "the greatest of the great."

Mourners appeared at the flower-banked funeral chapel singly or in small groups. Pausing before the bier, some kneeled and said short prayers for the musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations.

Toscanini will be buried in a family chapel in Milan, Italy.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Gas Blast Hurls Three From Store

VANCOUVER (CP)—Natural gas ignited in a dry cleaning store here late Friday, causing an explosion that flung three people out on to the sidewalk, painfully burned.

The explosion wrecked Mac's Cleaning Store on Main Street, rocking next-door shops and touching off a fire.

There was no official estimate of damage.

Fire department officials said they believe the blast was caused by the combination of a lighted match and a leaky gas main.

Mrs. Florence Dubno, 46-year-old proprietress of the shop, was busy at her steam presser, which is powered by natural gas. There were two customers in the shop—William Clayton, 32, and Robert Hamilton, 27.

The two men were blown to the sidewalk suffering from second and third-degree burns. Mrs. Dubno was blown beyond the doorway. She suffered second-degree burns to her face, an arm and leg.

Sea Wanderer's 'Last Chance' Hearing Monday

Authorities Order Hanna's Deportation

VANCOUVER (CP) — An immigration officer Friday ordered the deportation of Christian George Hanna, 23-year-old itinerant stowaway with no place to go.

Counsel for the small, dark-skinned exile, who until Thursday had not set foot on land in 15 months, immediately filed notice of appeal.

The appeal is expected to be heard Monday. It will be conducted by Immigration Minister Pickersgill personally or, if he decides, by a three-man board sitting in Vancouver. The board would be appointed by Ottawa and its decision would automatically be reviewed by the immigration minister, counsel for the department said.

In the meantime, Hanna, who was removed from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig at Port Alberni by Donald White, a young Vancouver lawyer who espoused his cause, is being held in custody at the immigration building here.

The deportation order was made by Frank Wragg, special inquiry officer, who acted as a one-man board set up by the department to hear Hanna's application for domicile.

Hanna, who says he was born at sea, has no passport or citizenship papers of any kind. He stowed away on the Gudveig 15 months ago at Beirut, Lebanon, and since then has been turned away by at least six countries.

CLOSED INQUIRY

The closed board of inquiry lasted 2½ hours. It was ordered by Ottawa on application of Hanna's counsel.

The hearing followed one in Supreme Court chambers earlier Friday at which Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne refused to grant Hanna a writ of habeas corpus.

The jurist ordered a sheriff's officer to take custody of Hanna and see that he was returned to the ship, scheduled to leave Port Alberni Monday. The sheriff's officer turned Hanna over to immigration authorities after it was announced an inquiry would be held.

One of those in attendance at the hearing reported Hanna, whose native tongue is Somali but who speaks some English, traced his life history.

He said his mother was French Somali and his father Liberian. She died when he was six years old. He never saw his father and does not know whether he is living. He has no other known family connections.

FAST ACTION VITAL

Most of his life, he said, has been spent wandering around French Somaliland, British Somaliland, Ethiopia and other countries of East Africa. When he was 21 he stowed away at Berbera, British Somaliland, aboard an Italian freighter bound for Beirut. Forced to leave Beirut because he had no papers, he hid in a lifeboat of the Gudveig, which became his home and exile for 15 months.

Immigration department counsel Arthur MacLennan said today it is likely that Mr. Pickersgill will refer the appeal to a three-man board rather than hear it himself.

He said a "very serious problem" will arise if the ship sails before Hanna's appeal is disposed of, should the decision go against him.

The shipping firm would then become liable for Hanna's upkeep, and responsible for getting him aboard another vessel, Mr. MacLennan said.

Wanted Bank Teller Picked Up by Police

TORONTO (CP)—A routine check of a car bearing Manitoba licence plates led to the arrest early Friday of William Aitken, 18-year-old bank teller, for theft.

EASTBOURNE DEATHS

Post-Mortem Asked Before Patient Died

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (Reuters) — A coroner testified Friday that Dr. John Bodkin Adams, accused by the Crown of poisoning three patients, tried to arrange for a post-mortem while one was still alive.

The coroner, Angus C. Sommerville, said the doctor wanted him to arrange a post-mortem for 50-year-old Mrs. Gertrude Hullett the day before she died.

He said Adams told him he was not certain of what Mrs. Hullett was going to die from and he wished to have a private post-mortem examination.

Asked by the Crown counsel whether it was usual to have a private post-mortem, the coroner replied: "Never." Nor, he added, had he ever been asked to arrange a post-mortem before a patient's death.

Adams is specifically charged with the murder of 88-year-old Edith Morrell, a widow who died in 1950. But in the course of a preliminary hearing to determine whether he will face trial on the murder charge, the Crown also has accused him of being responsible for the deaths of Mrs. Hullett last July and of her husband, Alfred Hullett, 71, who died four months earlier.

The plump society doctor is accused of poisoning his patients because he thought he would benefit from their wills.

DECLARED SUICIDE

So far, 37 witnesses have been called by the Crown. The hearings are expected to last into next week.

Friday, evidence revolved around the death of Mrs. Hullett, originally declared a suicide at an inquest.

Adams allegedly wrote to the coroner that she died after losing "the will to live" after the death of her "adoring and rich husband."

SPRINGHILL DISASTER

Draegermen Reach Mine Victims' Bodies

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—A draegerman said early today the bodies of 24 miners who died in the depths of the Cumberland Coal Company's No. 4 colliery have been found. He added: "We have a good idea where the other two are."

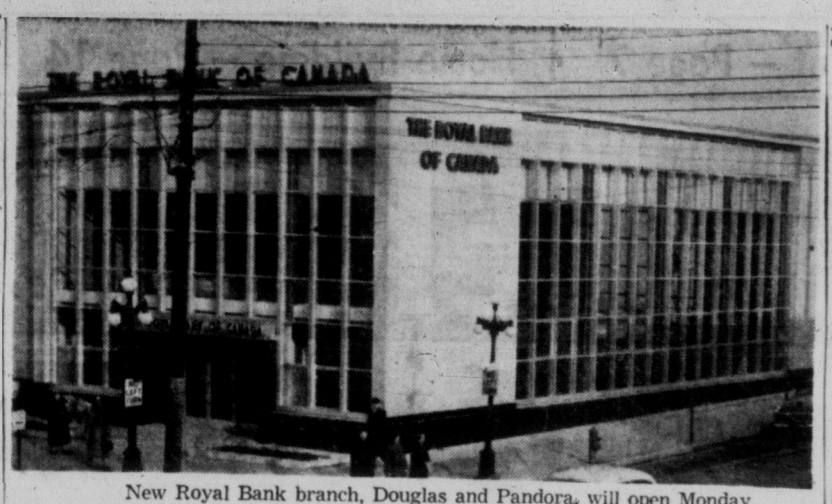
The unidentified man said several of the bodies could be brought out immediately but the crews are first attempting the clear the mine of gas and rockfalls. This is expected to take another day. The mine, sealed off after the disastrous explosion Nov. 1 which killed 39 miners, was reopened Friday. Draegermen fought through a rockfall to reach the bodies of the 26 men left underground.

The bodies will be placed in steel caskets and taken to the town armory to be claimed by relatives for burial.

A widow said she will only be allowed to bring the body of her husband home for two hours "for fear of disease."

Townsfolk, tense at the prospect of the mine re-opening, with its danger of another explosion, received several slight scares Friday. A truck skidded into the side of a jewelry store, doing little damage but upsetting the occupants, who thought it might have been another mine blast.

An ambulance roared to All Saints Hospital but worried citizens, afraid gas might have overcome a miner, were relieved to find he only had collapsed from strain and exhaustion.



New Royal Bank branch, Douglas and Pandora, will open Monday.

Treasure in Cash, Securities Moved to New Royal Bank Building

An undisclosed treasure in cash and securities was moved Friday night from the Royal Bank locaton across from City Hall to new premises, also across from City Hall, a hop-skip-and-jump south, to 1502 Douglas.

The spanking new bank premises are separated from the old location only by a bake shop and a cigar store. Site is where the old B.C. Electric building was situated before the BCE moved to its big premises at Pandora and Blanshard.

Construction of the $300,000 Royal Bank structure started 14 months ago; architectural supervisors were Wade, Stockdill and Armour, from Montreal plans, and actual builders, Farmer Construction Ltd.

MOVE MONDAY

The 35-member staff moves Monday. There will be no changes in personnel.

It will be a shift, but not really, for old-time bank workers. Since 1912 the Royal has been in the area, only a few yards removed. The new switch is in keeping with the pattern: a Royal branch in the immediate vicinity.

Reason for the move?

Bank needs larger quarters to handle increased customers.

The Douglas Street branch serves many downtown firms—and the largest percentage of Chinese depositors of any city bank.

HOW MUCH?

Banks being a business, manager Reginald R. Wilde refused to state how much money was transferred, or the number of depositors, or the number of Chinese customers.

"Can't tell the competition what we are doing," he said.

He's been with the Royal since 1926 and manager here since 1950. His banking career includes spells in Vancouver, Kamloops, Quesnel, Montreal.

Planning for the new building dates back to 1951.

The old building will be taken over by another bank, the Commerce, which is currently situated just across Cormorant St. at the Douglas St. intersection.

Official opening will be Monday, at five minutes to 10 a.m. Then Mayor Percy Scurrah will cut a ribbon across the door. Among officials on hand will be A. F. McAlpine, supervisor of Royal Bank branches in B.C., and J. S. Cooke, bank premises officer for the province.

Business Tax Gaining Favor

Special Council Committee Cool On Revising Trades Licence Setup

By PETE LOUDON

There were strong indications at City Hall Friday that business tax in Victoria will become more than a political football before the dawning of 1958.

The first meeting of a special council committee set to study fees charged merchants for operating here, leaned more to business tax than to revision of the trade licence structure.

However, it was indicated that no definite recommendations will be reached until after the spring session of the legislature.

Two minor recommendations were passed to council by the three-man committee of Aldermen Austin Curtis, (chairman), Hugh Ramsay and Elmer McEwen.

First proposal was that city trade licence inspector William Wallace and city solicitor T. P. O'Grady should discuss new legislation aimed at modernizing the Municipal Act with Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black.

AMENDMENTS

This is to ensure that if the revised act gives the city new leeway in taxing business the city's private act will also be amended. Otherwise, the new laws could apply elsewhere in the province while Victoria is held to the out-dated requirements of the Victoria City Act.

One way or another, the committee wants to be certain it can add to its revenue from the downtown business section.

The second recommendation was aimed at ending the immunity from either licence or tax which is now enjoyed by trust companies here by federal dispensation.

The committee's discussion showed they were thinking along the lines of where is the most money to be found, business tax or trade licences.

Business tax won hands down.

Here are a few statements of the aldermen, some of them proving to the skeptical that some aldermen will support a measure which is good for the city regardless of the fact that they might personally suffer:

PAY MORE

Ald. McEwen, plumping for preparation of a business tax roll now:

"Do you think for one moment we won't institute it?

"I would pay $1,000 (business tax) in Camrose, Alta., where I pay $320 now (in business licence)."

Ald. Curtis: "I am definitely in favor of putting in business tax if we can't do what we want to do under a business licencing system. If we throw up business licencing (due to new legislation), we still have time to put in business tax in 1958, although it is almost impossible this year."

Following are random comments in the same vein by the department heads concerned:

City assessor Alfred Joyce: "Business tax would be far more equitable."

Licence inspector William Wallace, making a rough estimate: "There would be a 50 per cent increase in business tax revenues over trade licence. If applied as in Vancouver it would probably mean $80,000 more for the city."

The two officials said, while more revenue could be obtained from some businesses, inequalities might continue.

Mr. Joyce estimated cost of setting up a business tax system would be about $30,000 the first year.

ARNOLD WEBB

Webb Named Manager Of Chamber

Arnold Webb was appointed secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at a directors' meeting at the Empress Hotel Friday.

Mr. Webb, who has been with the Chamber since late 1955, succeeds Hector L. Crombie, who resigned to enter private business.

Born in England, Mr. Webb, 46, lived 18 years in New Zealand before coming to Canada. He served with the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War.

After the war, Mr. Webb served for eight and a half years an official of the B.C. Milk Board. He has been a resident of Victoria for 11 years.

Brentwood Plant Down To Minimum

Brentwood steam plant of the B.C. Electric, in operation since 1912 as a standby plant for emergency and peak load periods, will be all but closed by the end of April.

Company officials Friday said operation of the Georgia Strait cable, that brings all the BCE mainland production of power within reach of Vancouver Island, is responsible for the move.

The plant consists of three steam turbine-powered generators, and it has been planned to keep the newest, completed in 1944, on an operating basis.

ANXILIARY SOURCE

Its output was 13,000 kilowatts. Although it was primarily an auxiliary source of power, augmenting the Jordan River plant and, in later years, the B.C. Power Commission's supply of power to Victoria, it provided a full third of the power used in this area during the Second World War.

Plant superintendent in recent years was George Moody, who was appointed this week as superintendent of the Jordan River plant to replace the late Lewis Fatt.

His successor is Hugh Macdonald.

The Tod Inlet plant made its trial run Nov. 8, 1912, and just two weeks later had to carry the whole of the Victoria load because of a washout at Jordan River.

During the Second World War it was converted to coal fuel to conserve fuel oil, and was reconverted to oil in 1946.

OPEN SEASON ON BOYS

Varied Courses Available In City Army Cadet Corps

Open season for recruiting 14-16-year-old boys was declared today by Capt. Fred Fotheringham, commanding officer of 4 Light Anti-Aircraft Battery Army Cadet Corps.

As the unit goes into its second phase of training for the 1956-57 season it is able to absorb a practically unlimited number of new members, Capt. Fotheringham said.

Definite openings are available to boys wishing to learn wind instruments in the corps brass band, only one in a cadet unit in Western Canada.

The January-June training period will give cadets more extensive knowledge in parade ground work, map reading and army field signals. Also offered is a course in motor mechanics, driving and maintenance, already found popular with boys.

A new course is the science of judo, instructed by Provost Corps expert Cpl. Glen Waddell who is now training a nucleus of cadets in the art of self-defence and unarmed combat.

Permission to take this course must first be obtained from parents.

Being trained for future assistant instructors are Cadet Sgt. Maj. Gary Bosence, Cadet QMS Robert Nicholson and Bdrs. Gary Quayle and Eddie Walker.

Parades are held each Thursday and Friday nights at Work Point Barracks, transportation leaving city scales, Fisgard Street, at 7.25 p.m.

Parents or cadet prospects wishing information may contact Lt. R. G. Bosence, at 2-7008, or Capt. Fotheringham, at 2-5219.

Boy Breaks Leg In Car Collision

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — Paddy Odowichuk, 7, of the Big Rock area south of here, was taken to hospital here Friday after being hit by a car.

He suffered fractures to the leg and hip and face injuries.

He is reported to have run in front of the car to board a school bus.

GOODWILL TRIP TO U.K. CANCELLED BY CHAMBER

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday cancelled its proposed goodwill air trip to Britain because of the lack of sufficient reservations.

The trip, which was scheduled for April, was planned for the promotion of trade between British Columbia and Britain.

William Yardley, chairman of the membership committee, reported that only 18 out of 47 members questioned said they would definitely go on the trip. The remainder, he said, were uncertain.

Reservations by 67 members were necessary for the Chamber to be able to charter a plane.

Some members felt the proposed trip could be reconsidered next year.

FIRST DROP IN 4 WEEKS

Profit-Taking Sweeps Markets

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets eased during heavy trading this week as profit-taking swept into most sections.

It was the first time in four weeks that the markets lost ground and followed several sessions of higher prices, sparked by uraniums, western oils and refining oils.

There were a few sharp advances recorded in those sections again this week but the general trend was downward. Specialty issues were buoyant in most sections while the rest of the stocks followed the downward influence of Wall Street.

Trading was exceptionally heavy. Total volume for the week at Toronto was 31,823,000 shares, the heaviest since last May.

Uraniums, nickels and low-priced western oils supplied a large portion of the volume but price changes were not too great. In the week, uraniums rolled ahead, led by Consolidated Denison which was the inspiration to the previous week's climb.

Algom Uranium took over a leading role in the final two days of trading but Friday saw many stocks lose their gains to profit takers.

Nickel issues in general were higher. Senior base metals eased in lighter trading. Falconbridge was down $2.75 on the week.

Del Rio and Central Leduc marked up repeated new highs and showed gains of 85 and 80 cents, respectively.

Royal Bank added $3.25 at $71.75 and touched a high of $72.50. Aluminium was ahead $1.50 on the week.

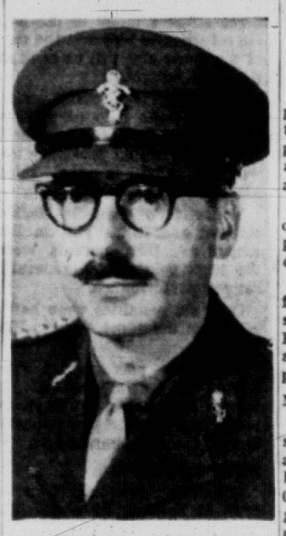
Fifth Nuclear Power Plant

LONDON (U.P.) — Britain launched construction of its fifth full-size nuclear power plant Friday and a big boost in plans to build more was predicted.

Lord Citrine, chairman of the Nationalized Central Electricity Authority, said the present construction schedule probably would be "doubled or trebled" by the government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

He presided at groundbreaking ceremonies for the Bradwell nuclear power station in Essex, first atomic plant in the London area and the fifth now completed or under construction in Britain.

Nowhere else in the world is full scale nuclear power already in service.



FORMER INSPECTING OFFICER at B.C. Area headquarters, Vancouver, native Victorian Capt. D. A. (Doug) Saunders has been posted to army headquarters in Ottawa. A graduate of Victoria High School, Capt. ANIMALS AROUND US

Coastal Shrimps Well Camouflaged

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

Most people get no closer to shrimps and prawns than an occasional meeting in a sea-food cocktail yet these animals are common all along our coast. Of course most commercial species live in relatively deep water and therefore are not seen by the casual beach visitor but a number of smaller species inhabit tide pools and other shallow areas where they can be seen by all who look.

Dr. Carl

That is, they may be seen if you have keen eyes, and know where to turn them, for most of our local shrimps are beautifully designed so as to escape detection. Most small forms are translucent or almost transparent so that they seem to melt into their background. Those that live among the bright green fronds or sea lettuce are themselves a vivid green, just another piece of plant tissue until they dart into the open. Those among the stones and stems of plants are brownish in hue and often striped so that their body outline merges with the lights and shadows of their surroundings.

Shrimps are the most dainty members of the crustaceans. With their glass-like bodies equipped with long delicate feelers and eyes on stalks and with slender legs upon which they seem to walk on tip toe they give a fairy-like illusion. The swimming motion, too, is effortless like floating through the air on invisible wings. But when alarmed they can dart quickly backwards and disappear in a twinkling.

The rapid reverse movement is accomplished by a quick flexing motion of the abdomen, the end of which is provided with a tail fan that literally scoops its way through the water. It is the muscle tissue of the abdomen and tail that provides the principal ingredient to the shrimp cocktail.

Several species inhabit our shores; most are of small size and apart from their beauty are of little direct interest to man. The larger kinds frequent waters ranging in depth from 10 to 70 fathoms and these are the ones that are taken commercially for food. Most are taken by bottom trawl and the fishing areas include Burrard Inlet, Point Grey, Howe Sound, mainland inlets near Queen Charlotte Sound and various places along the coast of Vancouver Island.

One of the five species commonly taken for food along our coast is called a "prawn" apparently because it is larger in size than the others. Technically, there is no difference between a "prawn" and a "shrimp."

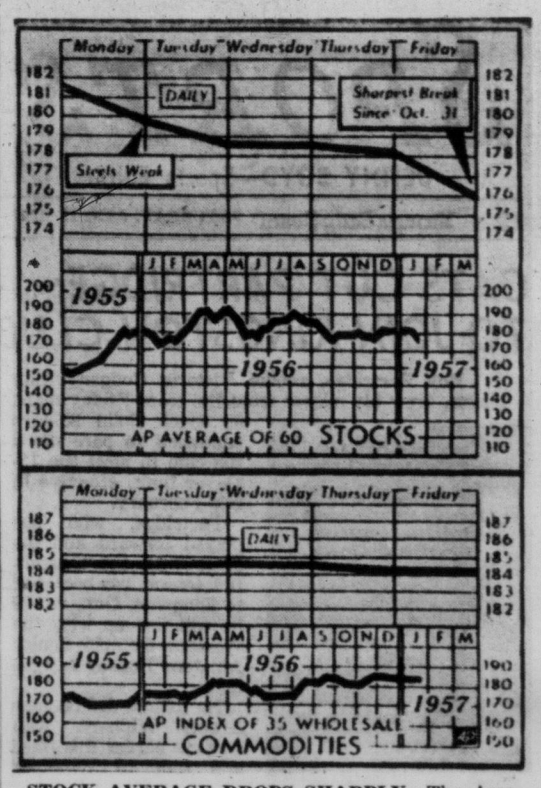
Some Shrimps Can Change Their Sex

Some shrimps are of interest to biologists because they are unusual in the matter of sex. All young commercial shrimps are males; after attaining a certain size they become females, a fact that mystified fishermen for many years. A similar plan of sex reversal is found in oysters and in most clams and seems to be largely influenced by abundance of food which of course is reflected by size in the individual.

Several other shrimp-like crustaces are also found locally. In muddy bottom at low tide or under boulders the clam digger often turns up a sluggish creature that outwardly resembles a shrimp. This is the so-called mud-shrimp which inhabits burrows of its own making for protection, sometimes sharing its accommodation with various other animals including small fish called gobies, two species of crabs and a polymoid worm. Since the mud shrimp has a pair of pincers the novice is apt to confuse this animal with the lobster which does not exist on our coast.

A related species, the ghost shrimp, is sometimes discovered in muddy sand, where it makes a series of burrows as does the more common mud shrimp. The ghost shrimp is pink, white and yellow in color and the male has one pincer greatly enlarged which it carries in front of the head like a shield.

The experimenter will be disappointed in these two creatures as food. Though edible, they are said to taste like the mud they live in, which is not surprising. However, they do make good bait; many a steelhead has fallen for a mud shrimp temptingly lashed to a hook by an invisible thread.



STOCK AVERAGE DROPS SHARPLY—The Associated Press average of 60 stocks underwent its sharpest weekly break since last May when it closed Friday at 176.0 from 181.5 a week ago. The commodity index declined slightly this week to 184.1 from 184.3 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto.)

Post-Christmas Lull Hits Key Businesses

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—Signs of a post-Christmas lull popped up on the business scene at several key points this week—notably in steel, autos, appliances, home building and factory construction.

The trend found a strong echo on the stock market which experienced its biggest weekly decline since last May.

Economists said the lull stemmed from a combination of circumstances including tight credit, Europe's oil famine, and resistance of U.S. consumers to higher prices of some new cars.

NO TAX CUTS

As the boom showed signs of slowing down, businessmen took a long look at President Eisenhower's plan for a record $72,000,000,000 federal spending program, spelled out in his budget message.

Some economists were quick to point out that the huge budget could be balanced only if the business boom maintained its record pace—that only an era of continued good times could produce the taxes necessary to support it.

One thing seemed certain: Tax cuts this year would be "out."

Treasury Secretary Humphrey commented: "If we don't begin taking less out of this economy, I predict we'll have a depression that will make your hair curl."

There were others, though, who said the giant budget was the best insurance against depression. Biggest support of the boom so far had been free - handed business and consumer spending. If this spending tapered off, the government programs would take up the slack.

EVIDENCE OF LETUP

Evidence of a moderate let-up could be seen at several spots. Auto production was cut back again as consumer demand for many of the new models lagged behind manufacturers' expectations. General Electric Co. furloughed 500 production workers in Louisville, Ky., most of them in the refrigerator department.

There were reports that the steel industry had over-estimated the size of its markets. Robert G. Welch, executive secretary of the American Steel Warehouse Association, said the only steel products in short supply today are structurals, heavy plates, tubular goods and other items used in capital goods expansion — and these represent only 15 per cent of the industrial steel sold by warehouses. Items making up the remaining 85 per cent are "in plentiful supply," he added.

Oil Pipeline Network Proposed for Europe

LONDON (AP)—Plans for a network of pipelines to criss-cross France, Germany and the Benelux countries are reported today in a survey of Western Europe's oil situation compiled by The Financial Times.

The report says the Royal Dutch-Shell group is studying plans for the largest of the pipelines—a 900-mile trans-European project which would run from Marseilles, Nancy, Cologne and Rotterdam. It would have arms extending out of Nancy—east to Strasbourg and west to Paris, and another arm linking Antwerp to the Cologne-Rotterdam branch.

The construction of this line is being studied by a new company, Sappeur, specially organized in The Netherlands for this project, the newspaper says.

Initial cost is estimated at £100,000,000 and the line would carry more than 30,000,000 tons of crude oil a year to the main refining areas.

The survey says the German subsidiaries of Esso and British Petroleum have decided to build a 215-mile, 28-inch pipeline from Wilhelmshaven to an undetermined terminal, probably in the Cologne area.

Jobless Women Total Highest of Winter

Applications by women for unemployment insurance last week numbered 1,135, the highest total here this winter and only 51 below the highest figure ever recorded in the Victoria office, the National Employment Service reported today.

Junior stenographers and waitresses are in demand, but there are few other vacancies.

Number of unemployed men dropped 32 to 2,704, lower than during similar periods in 1955 and 1954, though slightly above average for this time of year.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

ISN'T IT TRUE . . . ?

That all this fuss, furore and mystery surrounding Terry Sawchuk's retirement from the Boston Bruins is just simply a case of a guy suffering from a nervous break-down . . . and that the Bruins, in the absence of general manager Lynn Patrick, have botched their handling of the case terribly . . . and that Sawchuk will be back with the Bruins this season if he is treated with a little patience and understanding instead of making a criminal out of him . . . and that coach Milt Schmidt's get-tough policy, initiated this year, may have caused Terry's crack-up while Patrick was here in Victoria?

That Al Pollard has the best sports program on television. . .?

And that fried eggs taste infinitely better when the yolks are broken . . .?

And that, with one more Cougar player still to go for the club to comply with the player limit, coach Colin Kilburn faces a stiff decision . . .?

Will Gordy Wilson's bad knee come around sufficiently for him to help the club through the stretch drive . . .? Will Ray Powell still be able to deal off those magnificent passes when he recovers from the broken wrist given to him by blackjacking Pete Durham. . . . And what about Don Chiupka, one of the best checking forwards on the team, but not a proficient goal-scorer. . . . "Chips" could be of great help to the Cougars if they were in a series against Vancouver or Seattle as he could be used to check Phil Maloney or Guyle Fielder. But, when you are fighting to get into the playoffs, can you afford to keep a player just for his defensive ability . . .?

And that, in the last couple of weeks, Chiupka has made the decision tougher by being one of the most improved players on the club . . .?

That Durham said a mouthful on television recently when he explained, "A guy just plays hockey according to his nature . . ."?

That war is hell, parsnips are ghastly but the worst thing in the world is getting up in the morning . . .?

That if the Senior B Basketball League ever did get any paying customers to their games, they would lose them quickly because of the way the players curse at the referees . . .?

And that Peewee Bradshaw's tummy right now contradicts his nick-name . . .?

That the Western Hockey League cannot survive another season like this and that the coast and prairie sections may have to part company . . .?

And that little babies can be described as "the bawl and change . . . "?

That Marcel Pelletier is the best-dressed hockey player outside the NHL . . .?

That the new title of The Racquets Club of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club is great but will never fit into a one-column headline . . .?

That if Alex Macdonald's application to become an Intercity League referee is turned down, it will be hard for the Victoria Shamrocks to explain to their fans why they are going back into the league, facing the same referees that caused them to walk out of last year's playoffs . . .?

And that little Dougie Bambrough should put in a similar application because people who have seen him work junior games say he is a born referee, in spite of his tender years . . .?

That far too many cheap assists are being handed out in the WHL this year . . .?

That Doug Anderson can be a bell-ringing star in any game, even if he doesn't hit the score-sheet . . .?

That tomato juice, saurkraut and Tabasco sauce is the best early morning wake-up drink there is . . .?

That Paul Clarkson is perfect proof that extra weight and glasses need not stop a basketball player if he has enough hustle and determination . . .?

That the picture of Sal Maglie in Friday morning's paper, shaving his whiskers with an electric razor, makes me wonder about those Gillette commercials he was on . . .?

That the Cougars should write a story called, What's Wrong With Monte Roberts . . .?

That squash is an exciting, demanding game and you would be giving yourself a treat by looking in on the Pacific Northwest Championships . . .?

And that if you ask enough questions, it isn't necessary to think about a column . . .?

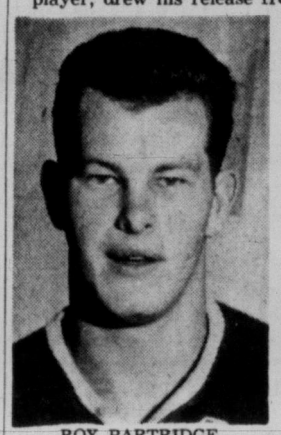
CATS CUT PARTRIDGE; TO JOIN KINGSTON CLUB

Roy Partridge, rookie Victoria Cougar utility player, drew his release from the team Friday night as coach Colin Kilburn continued to pare down the club to meet the 15-player limit, effective in mid-February.



ROY PARTRIDGE

Partridge, who has played forward and defence with the Cougars this season, has been sent to Kingston, Ont., where he will line up with the Western Ontario Senior Amateur Hockey League team.

He follows defenceman Arnott Whitney, who was cut earlier this week and sent to Winnipeg Warriors by the Hershey Bears.

Cougars still must cut one more player to comply with the limit but Kilburn would not comment on the possibility of the next player to go.

Kilburn hopes to have injured centre Ray Powell back in action soon, after missing three weeks with a broken arm.

SHUTTLE CHAMP DROPPED

Harvey Singes Hunt's Hopes

Bob Hunt, who escaped from the badminton frying pan Thursday, was caught in the fire Friday night.

Striving to retain the men's singles crown in the city championships being held at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, Hunt edged past "giant-killer" Mel Chapman Thursday.

But Friday, the heat generated by Harvey Hurd's shots was too much to overcome and Hunt's hopes of a second straight title went up in smoke. Hurd, winner of the host club's junior crown last weekend, singed Hunt in straight sets, 15-13, 17-16, to enter the singles final.

Hurd will tangle tonight with veteran Ed Hedley, who also registered an upset Friday by defeating second-seeded Jim Wells. Hedley came from behind for an 18-16 win in the opening set and grabbed a berth in the final by taking the second set, 15-10.

CHAMP MOVES ON

Maureen Bray continued along the trail of another women's singles championship, moving into the finals with an 11-5, 11-2 triumph over Jane Lee. Opposing Miss Bray tonight will be J. Kelly, who ousted Joyce Folbigg, 11-2, 11-1, in the semis.

Miss Bray and Mrs. Kelly will combine in the women's doubles final against Joyce MacDonald and Muriel Knott while Hedley and Dunc Tolson will meet Wells and Reg Hedley for the men's doubles diadem.

Tonight's draw follows:

"A" DIVISION

7.00 p.m.—Ladies' singles, M. Bray vs. J. Kelly.

7.30 p.m.—Men's singles, H. Hurd vs. E. Hedley.

8.00 p.m.—Ladies' doubles, J. MacDonald and M. Knott vs. M. Bray and J. Kelly.

8.30 p.m.—Men's doubles, E. Hedley and D. Tolson vs. J. Wells and R. Hoadley.

9.00 p.m.—Mixed doubles, C. King and L. Tolson vs. J. MacDonald and G. Lane.

9.30 p.m.—Veteran doubles, J. Wells and R. Hoadley vs. G. Lane and R. Knott.

"B" DIVISION

7.30 p.m.—Men's singles, W. Bell vs. D. Tolson.

8.00 p.m.—Ladies' doubles, M. Hunt and J. Rothe vs. M. Johnstone and H. MacDonald.

8.30 p.m.—Men's doubles, P. Crampton and D. Radford vs. L. Wilson and B. Sluggett.

9.00 p.m.—Mixed doubles, D. Sluggett and G. Sluggett vs. O. Robson and J. Wells.

"C" DIVISION

7.30 p.m.—Ladies Doubles, H. Sinclair and C. Collison vs. V. Lindal and M. Elliott.

8.00 p.m.—Men's doubles, D. Whitehead and E. Smithers vs. M. Smith and B. Smith.

8.30 p.m.—Mixed doubles, E. Dunlop and W. Stone vs. E. Ruttle and R. Hedgson.

Fluke Goals Help Flyers Tie Amerks

Even though Dame Fortune skated alongside the Edmonton Flyers Friday night, they had to settle for a 4-4 overtime tie with the Seattle Americans.

Most of Edmonton's good luck meant tough luck for Seattle goalie Emile Francis during the Western Hockey League exchange game.

The Flyers pushed three flukey goals behind Francis and drew abreast of the Coast leaders on each occasion.

BUSY NIGHT

Goaltender Francis was the busiest player on the ice at Edmonton. He turned back 50 shots.

The Flyers got their first lucky break midway through the second period after Guyle Fielder and Eddie Dorohoy had built up a 2-0 lead with a goal apiece.

Edmonton's Tony Leswick passed the puck from behind the Seattle goal. The puck caromed off the leg of Seattle defenceman Fred Creighton and rolled into the net.

Francis had even less chance on Edmonton's second goal. It resulted from a goal-mouth scramble and was credited to Murray Costello.

Seattle forward Alex Kuzma was the goat of Edmonton's next good fortune. The puck flipped up during a face-off near the Seattle goal and bounced off Kuzma's chest into the net.

The goal nullified one scored earlier in the third period by Ray Kinasewich and forced the game into overtime.

Table Manners Ignored As Cougars Eat and Run

Marcel Hurt But Stops Vancouver

The Victoria Cougars ate quickly and digested slowly Friday night in Vancouver.

The result was a hearty 3-2 victory over the Vancouver Canucks that left the Cougars only three points out of second place in the Western Hockey League's coast division, and the Cats can make that only a one-point deficit if they come up with a victory tonight in New Westminster.

The Cougars bolted down two goals in the first one and one-half minutes of play and then sat back and waited until the third period, when Wayne Brown supplied the dessert, scoring the winning goal on a dramatic breakaway.

MARCEL CUT

The Cougars paid for their repast, though. Goalie Marcel Pelletier, who stood on his ear to thwart the powerful Vancouver team, was cut on the back of the right hand in the third period and the game was held up for 10 minutes while he had three stitches taken in the cut. He returned to play out the rest of the game and will be back in the nets tonight.

Victoria's two first-period goals, by Colin Kilburn and defenceman Nelson Bulloch, held up, Wayne Brown providing the winning goal in the third period.

Vancouver's goals, by Jackie McLeod and Bill Wylie, in the second and third periods, were the high points of a generally ragged performance.

Only six penalties were handed out in the game, four to Victoria.

SETS REBOUND

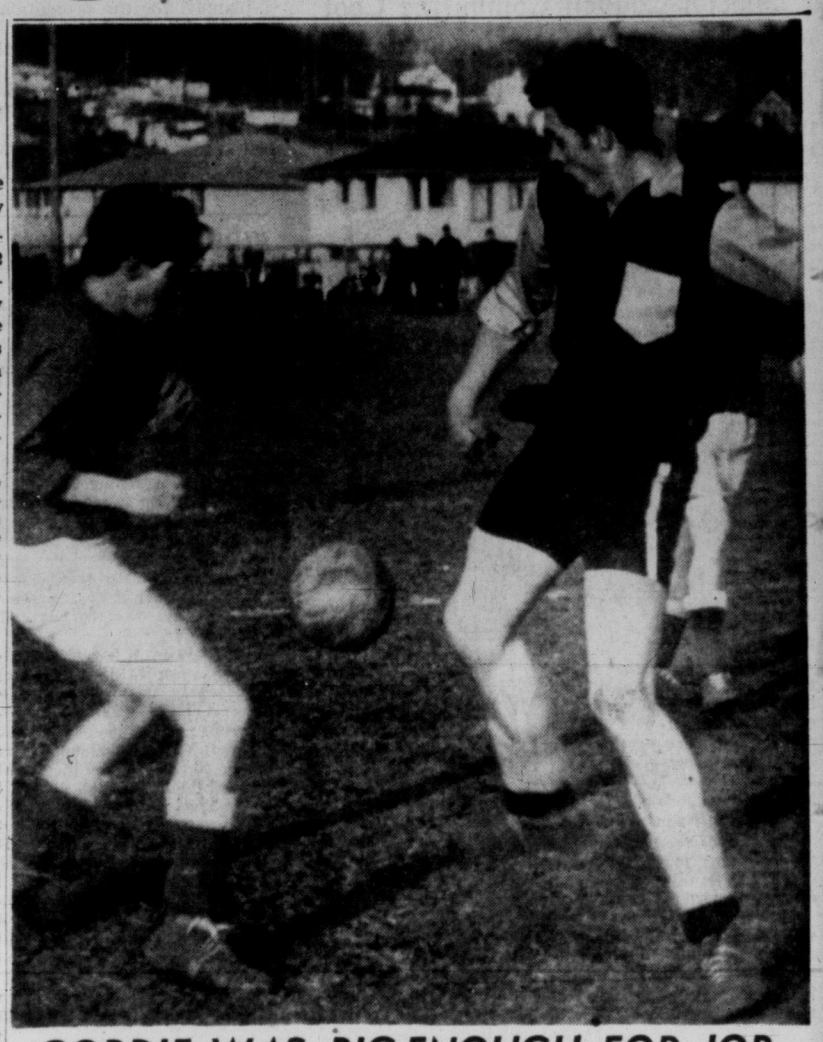
Kilburn's goal came after only 58 seconds of play. His first light shot against Mikulan from five feet out was stopped. He took the rebound and with another light tap, put it into the left-hand corner.

Only 27 seconds later, Bulloch, with George Ranieri and Gordie Haworth, blasted a long one in on a passout from the corner.

McLeod was the only second-period scorer. He took the puck from Ching Johnson during a Vancouver power play and loosed a clean shot from 15 feet out, directly in front of Pelletier.

Brown counted at 5.16 of the third period on a clean breakaway from centre ice. He hot-footed it in and banged a hard one into the left-hand corner.

Pelletier was cleanly beaten on Wylie's goal at 10.36, a low clear shot, after taking a long pass from Alf Cadman.



GORDIE WAS BIG ENOUGH FOR JOB

Collett Grows Up Fast In Vic High Soccer Win

Tom Collett is just an average-sized soccer player. But on occasion, he can become a positive giant.

Tom was the king-sized hero of Victoria High School's senior soccer championship victory Friday afternoon as he bashed in all three goals as the Vics ended the extended series with a 3-0 victory over Oak Bay High School.

Victory, which came in the fourth game of what was originally a best-of-three series, did not come easily.

While the score was fairly indicative of play, there were some anxious moments for Vic High coach Keith Long, as only sensational work by goalie Robin Barnes kept the Oak Bay club scoreless.

Hustling from the opening whistle, Long's squad seemed determined not to repeat the mistakes that had given Oak Bay a 2-1 win in the first game, and almost lost them the third clash, which eventually ended in a 2-2 deadlock, forcing the extra game of the series.

Bernie Johnston, between the posts for Oak Bay, managed to keep the V's off the score sheets only until midway through the first half.

At the ten-minute mark, Collett received a pass from Lance Rutherford, juggled the ball with his foot and lobbed it into the corner well beyond Johnston's reach.

With seconds remaining in the first period and action again centred around the Oak Bay goalmouth, Collett booted his second marker from a large scramble of players.

A determined Oak Bay attack petered out in the second half as Collett completed his hat-trick after taking a well-placed kick from Ron Pederson.

Late in the game Rutherford was placed on the injury list when a kick in the ankle resulted in a painful bone bruise.

Vic High now prepares for the B.C. high school championship, tentatively scheduled for Vancouver next weekend, but they will have to go along without the services of Tommy Wyatt, who suffered a broken nose during the game and will be out of action for any further games.

Game Club Sets Meeting Tuesday Night

Annual meeting of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will be held at Liberal headquarters, 1322 Government Street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Included on the agenda will be election of officers and discussion of this year's program.

The game club, which has applied for the 1958 provincial game convention, is the voice of sportsmen in the Victoria area.

Often hampered in its efforts to obtain better hunting and angling conditions by a shortage of members, the VFGPA is seeking a larger membership to give it more authority in meetings with affiliated game clubs.

All sportsmen are invited to attend Tuesday's meeting.

MORRISON STARS

Al Webb

Morrison's basketball team always gets a good steady performance from this former Esquimalt High School star. A guard, he's 5 ft. 8 in. tall and 150 lbs.

Don Norbury

A 185-lb. guard on Morrison's this year, a very good rebound player and good club man. Don is 6 ft. tall and is a former Saanich and Suburban League player.

Shrine Game Realizes $47,000 for Charity

VANCOUVER (CP) — The second annual Shrine all-star football game, played at Empire Stadium here Dec. 8, resulted in a profit of $47,111 for Shrine hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg, it was announced today.

Jack Streight, publicity chairman for Gizeh Temple in Vancouver, said the net revenue was more than double the net from the first annual game the year before in Toronto. The take at Toronto was $21,750.

The profit came on total revenue of $108,238, up more than $20,000 from the gross at Toronto of $80,000.

Streight said the money will provide treatment for almost 500 youngsters at the Shrine hospitals.

The audited statement showed gross revenue from ticket sales of $88,369, provincial amusement tax took $8,033, but half will be returned since the game was for charity.

Payment of players, coaches, trainers and team officials took the biggest slice of the money —$18,525. Members of the West team, which won 35-0, earned $350 and the losing Eastern All-Stars got $250 each.

Transportation for team members totaled $15,368. Empire Stadium was rented from the Pacific National Exhibition for $13,550, but the PNE returned $3,550 as a donation.

Insurance was a big item. The Shrine insured each player at a cost of $3,005 and paid out another $1,102 in insurance to cover the promoters in event of fog.

At least some of the insurance will be collected. Three players on the West squad—Mel Becket and Gord Sturtridge, both of Saskatchewan Roughriders, and Cal Jones of Winnipeg were among 62 persons killed in the crash of a TCA North Star the night after the game. The plane has not been found.

10-Pin Band Wagon Jammed

It looks like everybody wants to get in on the act this year in the Victoria tenpin championships.

Manager Rod Hendry at Gibson's reports that entries are rolling in, with the roll-off a good two weeks away yet. Already, 38 team entries have been received, well over the team record. And it looks like entry totals are going to be broken all around.

Championships will be held Feb. 3 and 10 at Gibson's. There will be three events: singles, doubles, and team, plus the all-events title.

Wilbur Webb is the defending champion in the singles bracket, but he's due for a lot of competition this year.

Take Cec Dixon, who is also touted for a berth in the B.C. tenpin championships in Victoria in March. Cec blasted out a 615 (222), triple in the Strathcona senior this week, and followed it up with a 571 (215) in Gibson's senior.

Dixon's game was the only 600 series rolled this week in tenpin circles. Following him up at Strathcona was W. Smith with 598 (215, 201) and T. Bowcott, 574 (230). Notable singles went to J. Roper, 214; L. Oberg, 213; N. Chandler, 208 and R. Maysmith, 207. Ian McKeachie led the commercial with 540, while Cy Waters topped the mixed with 554.

* * *

At Gibson's, Gordie Bamford tied Dixon with 571 (209, 203), followed by Jack Bacon, 562 (205); W. Smith, 553 (203) and C. Sapala, 541, (211). In Gibson's commercial, George Gunniss led the pack with 567 (228), followed by B. Hill, 542; W. Mowat, 541; H. Sinden, 538; and Doug Elford, 533 (208). R. Harris turned in a 205 single.

Wilbur Webb's 581 (202) led the mixed, followed by Len Murrant with 557. Colin Corbett with 207; Pat Graham with 202 and Bill Coates, 201, turned in singular efforts, while Gladys Cornthswaite led the girls with 507. Hope Graham with 482 triple and Lolly Hughes with 177 led the the ladies league.

* * *

And Roy Begg at Strathcona reports that time is open Monday night at 9 for a commercial tenpin league. Anyone interested is to get in touch with him.

* * *

In fivepins, Charlie Pugh stole the thunder this week with a 910 triple at Gibson's, a season's record there. Bowling in the Dockyard League, Charlie hit for 334, 265 and 311. D. Beecher came up with a 346 single.

In the commercial five at Gibson's, Cy Wallis with 804 and B. Burrows with 737 led the way, while Harold Gent's 709 was the class of the major loop.

* * *

Over at Esquimalt, Alex Pylypa managed an 817 triple without hitting the 300 circle once. He was followed by Frank Morgan with 799 (371); Geoff Worrall, 797; Ben Price, 780; A. Smith, 773; Fred Worsley, 773 (303) and J. Craig, 338, and Ruth McWhorter, 332, as top singles.

At Strathcona, Bert Fogden led the Letter Carriers with 747 (296), while Bill Sanderson turned in a 303.

SPCA FIRES INSPECTOR OVER NEW POUND ISSUE

SPCA inspector Cyril McRoberts has been given two weeks' notice in a letter signed by the president of the Victoria branch, William Leach.

Reason given for the dismissal notice was failure of Mr. McRoberts to agree to taking over operation of the Esquimalt pound, using the present facilities of the SPCA shelter at 111 Wilson.

Mr. McRoberts said today he did not think present facilities were adequate to operate a pound, as well as a shelter.

He was given 24 hours to decide whether he would carry on the new duties, and then received the notice of dismissal Friday.

Mrs. McRoberts, who has acted as clerk and accountant at the shelter, has also been dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. McRoberts were hired in June, to replace former inspector Ted Hayward, who resigned due to "strain and stress of working conditions."

Mr. Leach could not be reached today for comment on the dismissal notice.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

With your kind permission, we will now discuss the matter of February.

And if you are about to ask, what is the matter with February? that is a very good question.

Because the reason we are about to discuss the matter of February is because so much is the matter with February.

In fact—as is well known to all loyal constituents—I have long been an exponent of the total elimination of February.

February has nothing whatsoever to recommend it.

February has no justification for existence.

February has no place in song, poem, or story. If ever there WERE a song written about February, it would be entitled "I can get along without you very well."

Most of us have a certain amount of trouble with every month in the year. But all of us have too much trouble with February.

February occurs in the dark of the year, when life's cycle is at its nadir. February makes January hard to take, because all during January one cannot help but be aware that February is coming.

And then when February comes, what does it do?

It delays the arrival of March, that's what it does.

If it weren't for February, March would arrive much sooner, and with March arrives spring, and with spring hope springs eternal, a young man's thoughts turn, and can April be far behind?

Now, if it were possible to eliminate February, much of the drabness and sadness would go out of man's life.

February, customarily, is the month which throws the last dread kick of winter at us. In December and January, one does not mind winter. But by February, one has accepted the false notion that spring is here, only to find that winter has not yet left.

It should not be hard to eliminate February. It would just be a matter of tearing a page off the calendar, and distributing a mere 28, or possibly 29, days among the better months of the year.

I would suggest that February's days be given to May, June and July—months which know what to do for mankind.

I'm not sure where or how a movement to eliminate February should start.

But if someone wishes to get up a petition of protest, I will be only too happy to sign.

Police Quiet On City Hall Robbery Probe

City police stepped up their investigation today into the armed holdup Thursday at City Hall in which a gunman escaped with $965.

Police were mum on their activities but it was known they were carefully tracking down a number of rumors and tips.

Extra detectives were called in this morning to work on the case.

Only clue turned up since the bandit slipped out a side door of City Hall unnoticed was the discovery of his hat and jacket on Saanich Road.

The clothing, found just a few minutes after the holdup, was bought expressly for the robbery.

1,000 SUN-SEEKERS

City Holidayers Prefer Hawaii For Winter

By DINAH KERR

More and more Victorians are yielding to the siren song of travel folders in the winter.

This month and next, about 1,000 will bolt the front door and head for sunnier climes, local travel agencies report.

Arizona is becoming a bit of a fad for sun-seekers, but the majority will strike out for Honolulu, says E. F. Marshall, manager of George Paulin Ltd., travel service.

"Actually," he said, "there's nowhere else to go from here."

Hawaii is the only island within nine hours of Victoria offering warm-water bathing on "tawny beaches" the year-round.

TAHITI COSTLY

According to Blaney's Travel Service, "lots of people" go to Tahiti, but it's a pretty expensive way to get sun-stroke.

The West Indies shares second place in popularity with Mexico, which boasts one of the most delightful climates in the world at Cuernavaca, a city mid-way between Mexico City and Acapulco. Temperature there averages 70 degrees the year-round.

Most parts of Mexico are "warm and comfortable all year," says C. E. Blaney. The 10-hour flight to Mexico leaves Vancouver once a week.

LOST NOVELTY

A smaller percentage of travellers prefers Australia, New Zealand or California for winter holidays, although California traffic has taken a dip because "so many people have been there that it's lost its novelty," Mr. Marshall said.

Winter travel has become increasingly popular among Victorians but it is usually limited to retired "gardeners".

"The January crowd is composed mainly of homeowners who want to get back in time to dig their bulbs," said Mr. Marshall.

"They will only travel in the wintertime when their gardens can be left," he said. "You couldn't drag them out in the summer."

Travel agencies here feel very strongly that people should be educated to take their holidays in the winter.

After all, said Mr. Marshall, "what more beautiful place is there than Victoria in the summer?"

Bennett Aims To Avoid Night Sittings

The government will endeavor to get through the coming session of the Legislature without night sittings, Premier Bennett said today.

"If there are any night sittings they will be dictated by circumstances and they will be very few," the premier said. "In other words, we shall not hold night sittings in order to push new legislation."

The premier said the session, starting Feb. 7, will be of "moderate length—probably shorter than last year."

TODAY'S BEEFS

Recently there was an article in Drivers' Letters by Mrs. S. B. She stated she saw a car approaching a crosswalk at a good rate of speed (45 mph). She walked in front of it, expecting it to stop, and then "leaped for her life" when it didn't. Even though she was right, Mrs. S. B. should use her head rather than lose it for the sake of the right-of-way.—B.C.

Last Tuesday evening at about 10.30, I was headed south on Humboldt Street in my car and while stopped at the traffic light at Government and Humboldt, a small light brown Hillman car rushed past me, ignored the traffic light and proceeded on Humboldt without slowing down at the blinking red light at Douglas.—S.H.

January 16, at 4 p.m., I was driving south on Quadra Street near Lake Hill. Ahead of me was a 1950 or '51 ash grey Pontiac sedan with a load in the trunk which projected several feet beyond the rear bumper. The car was proceeding in rather an erratic manner and weaving on the road. On getting closer I observed two men in the car. A quart bottle of either rum or whisky was being passed back and forth between the passenger and driver. After following them for one mile, only half the bottle was left.

Jan. 17 at 1.35 p.m., I was driving across the Oak Bay Junction from Oak Bay Avenue to Pandora, with the light and in the correct lane. I was more than halfway across when suddenly a bus swung right across in front of me, turning left down Fort from Pandora.

No signals—and in any case as I was so far across he should have let me go on. I have a small English car and would certainly have come off the worst in the collision that nearly resulted. No doubt that driver muttered "woman driver" as he tore off down Fort Street. He was going far too fast when he made the turn. Luckily there was no car behind me because I certainly had to slam on my brakes. —Mrs. E.W.

Woman Hooked By Speeding Car

Tots Narrowly Escape; Drinking Driver Fined

A Milnes Landing logger pleaded guilty in Sooke RCMP court today to impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident Friday afternoon when he knocked down a woman pedestrian.

Edward Frederick George was fined $250 or three months in jail for hit-and-run and $50 or 15 days on the impaired charge.

He told the court that he would serve time in jail instead of paying the fines.

Victim of the accident, Mrs. Miriam Welsh, 33, of Sooke, was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with a deep gash on her arm.

RCMP said Mrs. Welsh was walking along the highway through the village with her two small children when she was struck.

Police said she saw the car approaching and steered a stroller with one child off to the side of the road and walked clear herself with the other youngster holding her hand.

DOOR HANDLE

As the car sped by, the door handle caught her arm and she was hurled to the ground. The car kept on going.

Police said the accident could have been much more serious if Mrs. Welsh had not guided the children off the roadway.

George was arrested at the Elder Logging Co. camp at Muir Creek, about 10 miles from Sooke, at 5.15 p.m., three-quarters of an hour after the accident.

RCMP said his car was identified by witnesses.

George admitted later that he had stopped at a cafe about a quarter of a mile from the accident scene and bought some cigarets.

THREW IT AWAY

He saw a piece of the woman's coat hanging on the door handle and threw it away.

Two men and a woman were riding in the car with him.

George's car was observed before the accident traveling at a high rate of speed on the Sooke Road.

Canada Owes Money to POWs, Says Victorian

Hong Kong Veteran Denies Overpayment

Canada still owes internment money to Canadian ex-prisoners of the Japanese, captured at Hong Kong early in the Second World War, a Victoria ex-POW claimed today.

Lionel Speller, Vancouver Island representative of the Hong Kong Veterans' Association, denied a claim by an Ottawa official that three times the amount owing Canadian ex-prisoners from a fund administered by the Red Cross has already been paid by the government.

"They still owe us money," he said. "This official says we have been paid three times as much as the Geneva Red Cross convention allows and have been paid earlier than we should have been.

IT'S BUNK

"That's all bunk. We haven't been paid as much as the Australians and Americans.

"This statement is false and misleading."

American and Australian prisoners received $2 a day, compared with $1 a day for Canadians, Mr. Speller said.

Only a few more than 900 men were given the $1 a day from $10,000,000 war reparations paid by Japan to Canada, he said. Hong Kong veterans, who have headquarters in Toronto, have tried five years to come into line with payments made to American and Australian prisoners.

22 HERE

There are 22 ex-prisoners on Vancouver Island, mostly men who served with the Royal Rifles and Winnipeg Rifles in Hong Kong before their capture by the Japanese.

Mr. Speller was a member of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals attached to China Command headquarters, and was interned four years as were most of the other 218,000 men taken prisoner.

Norris Gives Cadboro Bay Tax Warning

Taxes would jump and become a burden for several years to residents of Cadboro Bay area if they voted to join Oak Bay municipality, Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris predicted today.

He said he felt Oak Bay residents would favor such a move, which he called a logical step, and that Oak Bay council would be willing to discuss it in order to bring out all implications.

"They'd have to realize this is no Utopia they'd be getting into," he said.

A number of Cadboro Bay residents, complaining of high taxes with little improvement to show for them, indicate they would like the area, including Ten Mile Point, to break from Saanich to unite with more firmly established Oak Bay.

Referendums in both municipalities in 1950 met with an impasse when Oak Bay rejected the plan, mainly because of the Saanich Panhandle which present technical problems, such as drainage and conflict with city boundaries.

There is no established movement to campaign for union with Oak Bay, although it is reported a canvass of the Bay area is being taken by interested residents.

Those who have spoken out on the subject were cautioned by Arnold Edmonds, secretary-treasurer of Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association, not to "go off half-cocked."

"The place to start off," he said, "is the local ratepayers' association."

A meeting of the association executive will discuss the subject Monday.

Gorge Hospital In Chronic Plan

Solarium Also Among First To Gain From New BCHIS Scheme

Directors of Gorge Road Hospital and the Queen Alexandra Solarium today welcomed an announcement from Health Minister Eric Martin that they are high on the list of hospitals to benefit from the government's new chronic care plan.

Mr. Martin said a limited form of B.C. Hospital Insurance coverage for persons suffering from chronic ailments will go into effect within a year.

He added the Gorge Road Hospital and the Solarium will be among the first to be included.

Said Mrs. Florence Mutrie, administrator of the Gorge Road Hospital:

"We are very gratified that the government is taking steps to add clinic and convalescent coverage to BCHIS legislation, as our hospital has the facilities necessary to carry out a rehabilitation plan.

MEETING MONDAY

"We are making a close study of the minister's proposals and they will be discussed at a meeting of the board next Monday afternoon. We shall co-operate with the health ministry in every way possible."

Mrs. Mutrie added that the government's plan would not eliminate the need for public appeals as it would not cover cost of building and equipment.

"We have a hard-working auxiliary which only last week raised $500 in cash and 250 pieces of linen for the hospital. Their efforts will continue to be needed."

A spokesman for the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Children said:

"We certainly approve any step that will improve conditions both for patients and for the Solarium equipment. But we have a domestic problem regarding duration of the coverage offered.

"The government's present plan is to offer coverage for three months, subject to extension. The average length of stay of a patient in the Solarium is 270 days.

"However, the plan is still in a tentative stage and we hope to settle this problem in consultation with the health minister."

Solarium directors will meet next week to hammer out a list of proposals to be sumbitted to Mr. Martin.

In its present form the government's chronic care program will be available to B.C. residents at a cost of $1 a day.

Actual costs will be borne on the basis of 70 cents a day from municipalities, 70 cents a day from the provincial government, $1 a day from the patient and the remainder—between $8 and $12 a day—from the province's consolidated revenue.

IN LEGISLATURE

Legislation will be introduced at the coming session amending the present Health Act to permit introduction of the plan.

The minister said the plan will be limited in its early stages by the lack of hospital accommodation and shortage of medical specialists and qualified nurses.

"The services required will be expensive unless they are shared by enough persons to make fullest use of personnel and facilities."

Mr. Martin estimated that more than 1,400 chronic and convalescent beds will be needed to put the plan into effect.

He stated that the dollar-a-day chronic care plan was originally designed to fit into the National Health Care Program. The provincial government was prepared to carry the plan until the federal program started.

"We hope it will serve to lessen the burden on our acute hospital facilities," Mr. Martin said.

"There are many patients no longer acutely ill who cannot yet be moved out of acute general hospitals, and this places a strain on acute hospital beds. As new chronic facilities become available, this strain will be eased."

The stage of illness considered as qualifying for benefits "is that phase between the subsiding or arresting of a disease and as complete a restoration of health as possible."

He added that the health department is also considering patients, not likely to improve but who require in-patient hospital care below the level of an acute general hospital.

ASK The TIMES

Q. In the recent gale which swept Victoria, meteorological instruments showed that gusts extended from 30 miles an hour to as high as 72 miles. What is the cause of this wide variation when some winds are steady and of almost uniform force? A.B.L.

A. This column is given a simple explanation by William Mackie, director of the Gonzales Observatory. His explanation is that those gusts are the result of eddies. Interference by topographical natural features with what was originally a vast uniform flow of air causes the turbulences or gusts as they are usually called. A vivid example is the violent gusts encountered at the corner of a tall building. He points out that the scientific instruments at his observatory are at the top of Gonzales Hill and in reaching them the moving air must travel up the hill. The effect on the vast flow of air is readily understandable.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Mission at Dunvegan To Become Monument

DUNVEGAN, Alta. (CP)—A Roman Catholic mission at Dunvegan Crossing, 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, is being restored as a monument to earlier days in Alberta. Work on the mission began in 1883 and historians say it is "the oldest hand-hewn church in the north."

The Alberta government pledged $500 towards repairs to the abandoned log church's roof, doors and windows, and interested parties in this Peace River country are attempting to get the work done.

Perched on the north bank of the Peace River, the dilapidated shell of the once-sturdy house of worship stands with its doors open, its roof sagging, an eerie reminder of Dunvegan's past as a main outpost of the North West Company's fur-trading route to the north.

HISTORIC SITE

Not far from the church, which served northern Beaver Indians from 1885 to 1903, explorer Alexander Mackenzie paused on his journey into the northwest. A cairn now marks the valley lookout where the adventurer stopped.

Bishop Grouard, one of Northern Alberta's pioneer missionaries, decorated the church with paintings, including one he did himself on a large moose skin.

When the mission was closed in 1919 because of the dwindling Indian population in the area, the moose skin painting was removed to the town of Peace River. It was later lost in a fire.

Today, all that decorates the old structure are names and addresses from almost every province of Canada and many parts of the United States, inscribed by visitors on the rough walls and pillars.

STUMPED 'ASK THE TIMES'

Message of Faith Was 400 Years Old

A question that stumped "Ask The Times" two weeks ago has been solved by two subscribers, uncovering a timeless message of hope penned in the 16th century.

Asked by Mrs. F.W.K., the question was:

"In a speech following the recent U.S. election, Mr. Stevenson used the following phrase: 'There is radiance and glory in the darkness for those who have eyes to see; and to see we have only to look.' Did this originate with Mr. Stevenson or was he quoting? If quoting, would you tell us its source?"

It was answered this week by L. McNeely and Miss Mildred U. Barker; originator of the phrase was Fra Giovanni in the year 1513.

The phrase originally read: "There is radiance and glory in the darkness, could we but see, and to see, we have only to look."

Fra Giovanni wrote the lines on Christmas Eve to the Countessina Allagia dela Aldobrandeschi, on the Via de' Martelli, Firenze.

Main portion of the letter to his dear friend follows:

". . . there is nothing I can give you which you have not got; but there is much, very much, that, while I cannot give it, you can take. No Heaven can come to us unless our hearts find rest in it today. Take Heaven! No peace lies in the future which is not hidden in this present little instant. Take peace!

"The gloom of the world is but a shadow. Behind it, yet within our reach, is joy. There is radiance and glory in the darkness, could we but see; and to see, we have only to look.

Contessina, I beseech you to look.

"Life is a generous giver, but we, judging its gifts by their covering, cast them away as ugly or heavy or hard. Remove the covering and you will find beneath it a living splendor, woven of love, by wisdom, with power.

"Welcome it, grasp it, and you touch the angel's hand that brings it to you. Everything we call a trial, a sorrow, or a duty; believe me, that angel's hand is there; the gift is there, and the wonder of an overshadowing Presence.

"Our joys, too: be not content with them as joys. They, too, conceal divine gifts.

"Life is so full of meaning and of purpose, so full of beauty—beneath its covering—that you will find earth but cloaks your heaven. Courage, then, to claim it; that is all! But courage you have; and the knowledge that we are pilgrims together, wending through unknown country, home . . ."

U.S. CAN DROP BOMB ANYWHERE

Global Flight Warning to Russ

WASHINGTON (UP) — More global demonstrations of U.S. air-atomic power can be expected to follow the historic round-the-world flight of B-52 jet bombers capable of carrying a hydrogen bomb, military authorities said today.

They saw the first nonstop jet circuit of the earth as one in a series of manoeuvres that will make their significance felt in the Kremlin and will buoy up Allied confidence in American power to deter war.

Three of the huge B-52 Stratofortes winged into March air force base, Calif., Friday, to complete a 24,325-mile flight that took just 45 hours 19 minutes at an average speed of more than 525 miles an hour. They simulated a bomb drop halfway through the mission—about 50 miles west of the Malay Peninsula.

The "bomb" could have been dropped anywhere "on the face of the earth," the Strategic Air Command pointed out.

SAC is slated to get 11 B-52 wings, each with 45 bombers.

Within a single day such a force could fly missions of 12,000 miles and deliver on distant targets nuclear weapons with the destructive power of billions of tons of TNT.

President Eisenhower put such air-atomic forces to deter aggression at the top of U.S. defence missions in the new budget just sent to Congress.

ROUTINE MANOEUVRE

The B-52 operation was carried out as a regular combat-type maneouvre. It was routine—though dramatic—training for SAC crews.

Along the B-52s' global path there probably were 1,000 air bases where tankers could be stationed in wartime, an almost impossible target array for an enemy. The Strategic Air Command conducts an average of one air refueling somewhere in the world every 3½ minutes around the clock.

CANADA ASKS NUCLEAR TEST REGISTRATION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada, Norway and Japan want the big atomic powers to consider establishing a system of registering nuclear test explosions with the United Nations. The idea is to keep an eye on radiation dangers.

The three submitted a resolution to that effect Friday for introduction in the UN General Assembly's political committee, which is resuming Monday a debate on disarmament.

Israel Given 5 Days To Get Out of Gaza

Pull-Out of Troops Demanded In 74-2 Vote by UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The UN General Assembly today voted 74-2 with two abstentions for a resolution calling on Israel again to get all its troops out of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

It called for a compliance report within five days.

The overwhelming vote came despite a final plea from Israeli ambassador Abba S. Eban for the General Assembly not to permit the situation in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip to return to the "status quo" that existed before the Israli invasion of Egypt.

WARNING

He warned that for Israel to withdraw its troops from those areas without "simultaneous related action" by the United Nations would be to permit a return to a "state of belligerency."

The Netherlands, France, Costa Rica, Belgium, Ireland and Australia criticized the resolution for not recognizing the extent Israel already has withdrawn from Egypt.

Several speakers stressed that some assurances should be given that Israel would be permitted free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban voiced doubt that the secretary-general would have anything substantial to report about Israeli withdrawal within five days.

Israel and France voted against the resolution. Costa Rica and Cuba abstained.

The Netherlands ambassador, M. C. W. A. Schurmann, told the General Assembly earlier that "disaster" faces the Middle East and the United Nations if the world body does not assume responsibility for such as the Aqaba and Gaza problems.

"It would be nothing short of disastrous for the United Nations and the peoples of the Middle East if the United Nations should leave unfinished the task it has undertaken," he said.

British ambassador Allan Nobel suggested the "internationalization" under UN control of the crucial zones.

"IMPERATIVE"

He said it is "imperative" the UNEF be deployed as a "shield" between Israel and Egypt to prevent a "recurrence of attacks."

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, hinted strongly India might withdraw its contingent from the UN police troops if they were sent into the areas.

External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson outlined Canada's position when he said there is no excuse for the United Nations to avoid "a responsibility which is inescapable." The UN Emergency Force should be stationed on all Israel-Arab borders, and in the Gaza Strip, to help "ensure the security of the nations concerned which is so vital if they are to approach with the necessary confidence negotiations toward a comprehensive solution of their conflicts."

Before today's UN vote France branded as unjust and unfair any demand that Israel withdraw her forces completely from Egypt without assurances that Egypt also will comply.

GRACE KELLY BABY SWEEP

Monaco Gambles On Diaper Derby

MONACO (UP)—Making book on Princess Grace's expected baby today has become the favorite pastime of the Monte Carlo gambling crowd.

Odds are on a boy, with next Friday the most heavily-played date for his arrival.

The roulette wheels and the gaming tables at the Casino have been virtually deserted for the "maternity sweepstakes."

Books on gynecology and heredity have replaced number systems as the prime source of reference for the men and women willing to "go for broke" on the turn of a card or the spin of a wheel.

Physicians have taken over from mathematicians as the favorite drinking companions of the betting set.

The croupiers in the plush old Casino were fretting away their time at the almost empty gambling tables. But the Casino's bar was jammed with "experts" and admitted amateurs placing bets on the impending birth.

Driving Hazardous; Rain Due Sunday

Today's sudden snowfall caught hundreds of motorists by surprise.

Police reported traffic jams at a number of spots in the city. Driving conditions were bad in Saanich and outlying areas.

At least half a dozen collisions were reported between noon and 2 p.m. but no one was injured.

First snow to fall on Victoria was mixed with rain but began sticking as the temperature dropped a couple of degrees in advance of the anticipated warmer air.

The prospect of milder temperatures and rain later tonight was held out for the Greater Victoria area this afternoon, as motorists and pedestrians slithered on snowy streets.

"We're hoping that warmer air will gradually move in," said weatherman William Mackie at 2 p.m.

Despite the comparatively mild temperature and moisture of the snow, most of Greater Victoria lay under a mantle of white by press time.

Only in the city did it have trouble at first in staying. Farther out the countryside began turning white by 11 a.m.

GOING UP-ISLAND

Mr. Mackie said the snowstorm will continue to spread up-Island. It had already reached Duncan by noon.

Victoria's snow marked the end — temporarily — of the "banana belt" the city and district have enjoyed in the last two weeks.

Until today up-Island travelers have found that once they drove north of Goldstream they moved into a diffeernt country, where snow is general everywhere but on the roads.

Moving south again, the change from a white countryside to the green of Victoria district has been even more pronounced.

4 INCHES AT DUNCAN

Duncan reported four inches of snow on the ground, Chemainus six inches, and Nanaimo four inches, although Cassidy airport has recorded 10 inches on the ground.

Courtenay is worst off of all Island centres with 15 inches of snow remaining from the heavy fall of 10 days ago that interrupted telephone and electrical power service in the district for several days.

All roads were reported clear.

HANNA CASE BEFORE UN

(See Page 2)

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Nations has taken up the case of Christian George Hanna, man without a country.

The Vancouver Province says in a copyright story this information was contained in a letter received here from John P. Humphrey, director of the UN division of human rights.

UN action in the case of the 23-year-old stowaway, who is trying to establish domicile in Canada after 15 months on the Norwegian freighter Gudveig, would mark perhaps the first time that the international organization has taken up the cause of an individual stateless person.

Tottenham Wins to Gain On Leaders

LONDON (Reuters)—Tottenham Hotspur, led by Al Stokes who scored two goals, moved to within four points of the lead in the English Soccer League's first division today with a 3-0 victory over Aston Villa.

Manchester United, the first division leader, bowed 2-1 to Sheffield Wednesday. The defeat came on top of a mid-week European Cup loss to the Spanish Bilbao team.

Third-place Arsenal failed to shake off its jinx against Newcastle United and was beaten 3-1. Lee White led Newcastle's attack with two goals. It was Arsenal's first loss in 12 games.

3,000 Friends, Music Lovers Attend Mass for 'The Maestro'

NEW YORK (AP) — Three thousand friends and music lovers attended a pontifical requiem mass for Arturo Toscanini today in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The world-famed conductor died Wednesday in his New York home at 89. He had suffered a stroke New Year's Day.

The maestro's body reposed in a solid copper casket.

The Most Rev. Joseph M. Pernicone, Italian-born auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of New York, sang the mass.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, presided in the sanctuary and sang the absolution.

Honorary pall bearers included Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Manlio Brosio, Italian ambassador to the United States. They led the procession in the cathedral.

Among the mourners were many persons prominent in the world of music.

They included Fritz Kreisler, violinist; Leonard Bernstein, conductor and pianist, and Lucrezia Bori, Metropolitan Opera singer.

Some 5,000 filed past Toscanini's bier Friday at the funeral home where his body has lain in state since Thursday.

Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston symphony, said he had known Toscanini for about 30 years and called him "the greatest of the great."

Mourners appeared at the flower-banked funeral chapel singly or in small groups. Pausing before the bier, some kneeled and said short prayers for the musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations.

Toscanini will be buried in a family chapel in Milan, Italy.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Gas Blast Hurls Three From Store

VANCOUVER (CP)—Natural gas ignited in a dry cleaning store here late Friday, causing an explosion that flung three people out on to the sidewalk, painfully burned.

The explosion wrecked Mac's Cleaning Store on Main Street, rocking next-door shops and touching off a fire.

There was no official estimate of damage.

Fire department officials said they believe the blast was caused by the combination of a lighted match and a leaky gas main.

Mrs. Florence Dubno, 46-year-old proprietress of the shop, was busy at her steam presser, which is powered by natural gas. There were two customers in the shop—William Clayton, 32, and Robert Hamilton, 27.

The two men were blown to the sidewalk suffering from second and third-degree burns. Mrs. Dubno was blown beyond the doorway. She suffered second-degree burns to her face, an arm and leg.

Sea Wanderer's 'Last Chance' Hearing Monday

Authorities Order Hanna's Deportation

VANCOUVER (CP) — An immigration officer Friday ordered the deportation of Christian George Hanna, 23-year-old itinerant stowaway with no place to go.

Counsel for the small, dark-skinned exile, who until Thursday had not set foot on land in 15 months, immediately filed notice of appeal.

The appeal is expected to be heard Monday. It will be conducted by Immigration Minister Pickersgill personally or, if he decides, by a three-man board sitting in Vancouver. The board would be appointed by Ottawa and its decision would automatically be reviewed by the immigration minister, counsel for the department said.

In the meantime, Hanna, who was removed from the Norwegian freighter Gudveig at Port Alberni by Donald White, a young Vancouver lawyer who espoused his cause, is being held in custody at the immigration building here.

The deportation order was made by Frank Wragg, special inquiry officer, who acted as a one-man board set up by the department to hear Hanna's application for domicile.

Hanna, who says he was born at sea, has no passport or citizenship papers of any kind. He stowed away on the Gudveig 15 months ago at Beirut, Lebanon, and since then has been turned away by at least six countries.

CLOSED INQUIRY

The closed board of inquiry lasted 2½ hours. It was ordered by Ottawa on application of Hanna's counsel.

The hearing followed one in Supreme Court chambers earlier Friday at which Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne refused to grant Hanna a writ of habeas corpus.

The jurist ordered a sheriff's officer to take custody of Hanna and see that he was returned to the ship, scheduled to leave Port Alberni Monday. The sheriff's officer turned Hanna over to immigration authorities after it was announced an inquiry would be held.

One of those in attendance at the hearing reported Hanna, whose native tongue is Somali but who speaks some English, traced his life history.

He said his mother was French Somali and his father Liberian. She died when he was six years old. He never saw his father and does not know whether he is living. He has no other known family connections.

FAST ACTION VITAL

Most of his life, he said, has been spent wandering around French Somaliland, British Somaliland, Ethiopia and other countries of East Africa. When he was 21 he stowed away at Berbera, British Somaliland, aboard an Italian freighter bound for Beirut. Forced to leave Beirut because he had no papers, he hid in a lifeboat of the Gudveig, which became his home and exile for 15 months.

Immigration department counsel Arthur MacLennan said today it is likely that Mr. Pickersgill will refer the appeal to a three-man board rather than hear it himself.

He said a "very serious problem" will arise if the ship sails before Hanna's appeal is disposed of, should the decision go against him.

The shipping firm would then become liable for Hanna's upkeep, and responsible for getting him aboard another vessel, Mr. MacLennan said.

Wanted Bank Teller Picked Up by Police

TORONTO (CP)—A routine check of a car bearing Manitoba licence plates led to the arrest early Friday of William Aitken, 18-year-old bank teller, for theft.

Aitken had been the object of a widespread search since the disappearance of $7,051 from a mid-town branch of the Imperial Bank 10 days ago.

WANT LIQUOR TAX HIKE FOR AID TO ALCOHOLICS

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was urged today by Canadian Temperance Federation to ban the sale of alcoholic beverages on trains and planes and to increase taxes on the liquor industry to help pay for a bigger program of rehabilitation for Canada's 200,000 alcoholics.

EASTBOURNE DEATHS

Post-Mortem Asked Before Patient Died

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (Reuters) — A coroner testified Friday that Dr. John Bodkin Adams, accused by the Crown of poisoning three patients, tried to arrange for a post-mortem while one was still alive.

The coroner, Angus C. Sommerville, said the doctor wanted him to arrange a post-mortem for 50-year-old Mrs. Gertrude Hullett the day before she died.

He said Adams told him he was not certain of what Mrs. Hullett was going to die from and he wished to have a private post-mortem examination.

Asked by the Crown counsel whether it was usual to have a private post-mortem, the coroner replied: "Never." Nor, he added, had he ever been asked to arrange a post-mortem before a patient's death.

Adams is specifically charged with the murder of 88-year-old Edith Morrell, a widow who died in 1950. But in the course of a preliminary hearing to determine whether he will face trial on the murder charge, the Crown also has accused him of being responsible for the deaths of Mrs. Hullett last July and of her husband, Alfred Hullett, 71, who died four months earlier.

The plump society doctor is accused of poisoning his patients because he thought he would benefit from their wills.

DECLARED SUICIDE

So far, 37 witnesses have been called by the Crown. The hearings are expected to last into next week.

Friday, evidence revolved around the death of Mrs. Hullett, originally declared a suicide at an inquest.

Adams allegedly wrote to the coroner that she died after losing "the will to live" after the death of her "adoring and rich husband."

SPRINGHILL DISASTER

Draegermen Reach Mine Victims' Bodies

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—A draegerman said early today the bodies of 24 miners who died in the depths of the Cumberland Coal Company's No. 4 colliery have been found. He added: "We have a good idea where the other two are."

The unidentified man said several of the bodies could be brought out immediately but the crews are first attempting the clear the mine of gas and rockfalls. This is expected to take another day. The mine, sealed off after the disastrous explosion Nov. 1 which killed 39 miners, was reopened Friday. Draegermen fought through a rockfall to reach the bodies of the 26 men left underground.

The bodies will be placed in steel caskets and taken to the town armory to be claimed by relatives for burial.

A widow said she will only be allowed to bring the body of her husband home for two hours "for fear of disease."

Townsfolk, tense at the prospect of the mine re-opening, with its danger of another explosion, received several slight scares Friday. A truck skidded into the side of a jewelry store, doing little damage but upsetting the occupants, who thought it might have been another mine blast.

An ambulance roared to All Saints Hospital but worried citizens, afraid gas might have overcome a miner, were relieved to find he only had collapsed from strain and exhaustion.

New Royal Bank branch, Douglas and Pandora, will open Monday.

Treasure in Cash, Securities Moved to New Royal Bank Building

An undisclosed treasure in cash and securities was moved Friday night from the Royal Bank locaton across from City Hall to new premises, also across from City Hall, a hop-skip-and-jump south, to 1502 Douglas.

The spanking new bank premises are separated from the old location only by a bake shop and a cigar store. Site is where the old B.C. Electric building was situated before the BCE moved to its big premises at Pandora and Blanshard.

Construction of the $300,000 Royal Bank structure started 14 months ago; architectural supervisors were Wade, Stockdill and Armour, from Montreal plans, and actual builders, Farmer Construction Ltd.

MOVE MONDAY

The 35-member staff moves Monday. There will be no changes in personnel.

It will be a shift, but not really, for old-time bank workers. Since 1912 the Royal has been in the area, only a few yards removed. The new switch is in keeping with the pattern: a Royal branch in the immediate vicinity.

Reason for the move?

Bank needs larger quarters to handle increased customers.

The Douglas Street branch serves many downtown firms—and the largest percentage of Chinese depositors of any city bank.

HOW MUCH?

Banks being a business, manager Reginald R. Wilde refused to state how much money was transferred, or the number of depositors, or the number of Chinese customers.

"Can't tell the competition what we are doing," he said.

He's been with the Royal since 1926 and manager here since 1950. His banking career includes spells in Vancouver, Kamloops, Quesnel, Montreal.

Planning for the new building dates back to 1951.

The old building will be taken over by another bank, the Commerce, which is currently situated just across Cormorant St. at the Douglas St. intersection.

Official opening will be Monday, at five minutes to 10 a.m. Then Mayor Percy Scurrah will cut a ribbon across the door. Among officials on hand will be A. F. McAlpine, supervisor of Royal Bank branches in B.C., and J. S. Cooke, bank premises officer for the province.
